LBJ Asks Effort To Correct Flaws In Draft-Age Youths

WORK BEGINS TUESDAY

LBJ, Congress Face New Round For Coming Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gets back to work Tuesday, with its first full dress encounter with President Johnson set for Wednesday and with much of the business President John F. Kennedy laid before it still unfinished.

Johnson's State of the Union message, to be delivered to a joint session Wednesday, presumably will affirm what he has already said less formally—that he is making Kennedy's program his own, with top emphasis on enacting an $11 billion tax cut and a comprehensive civil rights bill.

The legislators will be listening closely for Johnson to develop further some themes he has stressed on his own. One is economy: Johnson is expected to submit a budget in the neighborhood of $100 billion, which would mean additional substantial cuts under the exexecutive departments' first estimates, like those already ordered for Defense and the Post Office departments.

HOUSING, POVERTY

Johnson also could give more details on his proposal for a major housing program and for a many pronged attack on poverty.

The last may provide a real challenge to the new administration. One of President Kennedy's major defeats was the House decision, by a five-vote margin, against authorizing more funds for the area redevelopment program designed to create jobs in chronically depressed areas.

The Senate Finance Committee resumes Wednesday consideration of the tax-cut bill, with much work still ahead. Only about half of the 56 amendments proposed to the bill since the House passed it have been considered.

The House Rules Committee begins hearings on civil rights Thursday. If these drag, sponsors of the legislation can be expected to push a discharge petition to bring the bill to the House for a vote. Such a petition requires the signatures of 218 members, and 170 had signed when the House adjourned.

U.S., Allies To Discuss Reds' Offer

Plan To Counter Peace Proposals By Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration officials expect to start consultations with allied governments next week on possible Western counter proposals to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for a global non-aggression pact.

Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk apparently have decided that the United States must make a positive response on points in the Khrushchev note which in their view can be the basis for further moves toward agreement.

NOTE DISAPPOINTS

Officials said Saturday the Khrushchev note is sharply disappointing to administration leaders, because they consider so much of it to be standard Communist propaganda and hostile to the West. Yet they believe that points for exploration and counter proposals must certainly be developed in Johnson's reply.

Allied consultations are expected to include discussions in the North Atlantic Treaty council in Paris and in meetings to start here in the next few days among diplomatic representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany.

The four-nation "ambassadorial group" has been set in motion again to see whether the Western powers can come up with some new proposals to the Soviets for easing east-west tensions over Berlin and perhaps starting a discussion of problems involved and the division of Germany.

Johnson has an opportunity next Wednesday to make some public response to the Khrushchev proposition if he wishes to do so.

Rockefeller Is Democrat To Goldwater

Senator Prefers Battling Johnson To GOP Debating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Saturday that New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is more Democrat than Republican and added: "I'd rather take on President Johnson on the weaknesses of his administration."

The Arizona conservative, who announced Friday he'll seek the Republican nomination for president, paused here as he headed for Washington to launch his campaign.

In an airport interview, Goldwater said he sees no sense in face-to-face debates proposed by Rockefeller, the only other announced candidate for the GOP mantle.

NEW FRONTIERSMAN

Goldwater said Rockefeller advocates policies more in keeping with the Democratic platform than with Republican principles, and: "Debating him would be more like debating a member of the New Frontier than like debating another Republican."

If he wins the nomination, the Arizonan said, he wants to meet President Johnson in debate. He said he thinks Johnson will debate during the presidential race.

"I see no sense in Republicans berating other Republicans," said Goldwater. He added that what seems to be Rockefeller's chosen course.

"If I can get the nomination," Goldwater continued, "I think I can run a stronger race than any other Republican. A strong race, win, lose or draw will strengthen the Republican party."

A strong showing in the presidential election, he said, would carry with it victory for Republicans running for governor, Congress and state legislatures around the nation.

Goldwater said he thinks the late President John F. Kennedy would have been a stronger opponent for the GOP than will Johnson.

"He had a lot of things that President Johnson doesn't have," Goldwater asserted.

Bankers, Businessmen In Twin City Area Predict New Gains During 1964

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Business was good in 1963 and should be better in 1964.

This was the concensus of Twin City bankers and businessmen as the holiday season gave way to business as usual in a new year.

There was near unanimity among retail sales people interviewed by the Morning World — slight to moderate gains in volume and profits during 1963, or, in some cases, a virtual matching of 1962 figures.

DEPOSITS CLIMB

Optimism was strong across the board for 1964, however, with deposits at all three local banks and four building and loan associations rising substantially.

Threats of a recession were largely discounted, because of large amounts of easy money, heavy personal saving trends, and the comparatively debt-free status of many potential spenders. Inflation was mentioned more frequently.

Contributing most to the area economy, according to most of those who commented, was a banner year for agriculture, the effects of which were felt throughout the local and parish financial structure. Also mentioned were public works in the area, such as the I-20, Monroe's capital improvement program, which swings into high gear this year, major construction at Olin in West Monroe, and stronger business confidence in the administration of President Johnson than that of Kennedy.

On the debit side of the ledger were snow and ice late in December and other quirks of the weather, as well as there being six less shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

These factors reportedly combined to forestall an outstanding Christmas selling splurge, cutting it to bare increases over Christmas, 1962, or equating it with the same period a year ago.

While the metropolitan area suffered from unfavorable weather in December, some merchants here and in outlying communities reported better than usual Christmas season business.

Total resources at the three Monroe-West Monroe banks — the Ouachita National, Central Savings and First National — gained by about $9 million, to a new high of approximately $117,500,000

This included around $60 million at the Ouachita, $47.5 million at Central and $10 million at the First National in West Monroe, which will open a Monroe branch at the Twin City Shopping Center in March.

The combined total of loans outstanding was in excess of $52 million, with deposits, the mercury in the thermometer of fu-

Third Of Boys In U.S. Unfit For Service

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson ordered a new effort Saturday to correct physical and mental flaws found among young men eligible for military service.

Johnson directed that most men reaching 18 be given physical and mental tests, starting July 1. And he said those who fail will be allowed to enter new, voluntary rehabilitation programs.

SALVAGE PROGRAM

"This will be the most important human salvage program in the history of our country," Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told newsmen.

The President released a report of a task force on manpower conservation with the comment that it revealed "a situation more serious and more extensive than has been our understanding."

Findings included estimates that one-third of all men in the nation reaching 18 years of age will be found unqualified for induction in the armed forces, about half being rejected for medical reasons and the remainder flunking mental tests. The report also said the majority of those disqualified appear to be the victims of inadequate education and insufficient health services.

"The findings of the task force are dramatic evidence that proverty is still with us, still exacting its price in spoiled lives and failed examinations," the President said in a statement accompanying the report. "For entirely too many Americans the promise of American life is not being kept. In a nation as rich and productive as ours this is an intolerable situation."

Johnson said he will shortly present to Congress a program designed "to attack the roots of poverty in our cities and rural areas."

The President gave two orders, effective next July 1, designed to discover job training and education deficiencies as soon as possible and correct many of them.

The Department of Defense and the Selective Service System are directed to give physical and mental examinations to Meet Fails, Wall Gates Shut Today

BERLIN (UPI)—Efforts to keep the Communist wall gates open failed Saturday and a saddened army of West Berliners trooped into East Berlin for final goodbyes with loved ones before the barrier is re-sealed today.

A West Berlin government spokesman said nothing came of a morning meeting with East German officials aimed at extending the 17-day Yuletide "hole in the wall" that gave West Berliners their first trips to East Berlin in 28 months.

"Oh, this is terrible, terrible ...terrible," sobbed West Berlin waitress Hilde Runge when she heard the news. "My father in East Berlin will be all alone on his birthday Monday."

She was one of 250,000 West Berliners officially estimated to have gone through the wall Saturday. Another 290,000 were expected to make the pilgrimage Sunday before the wall gates shut at midnight.

West Berlin city spokesman Egon Bahr gave West Berliners some hope. He said there is a "50-50 chance" the Communists may agree to re-open the wall to West Berliners "in the near future."

Bahr said West Berlin will open new "technical talks" on the issue with the East German Communists late next week.

"Maybe it's not all over," commented Miss Runge. "Who would have thought six weeks ago we could go over for Christmas—and suddenly there was this agreement. It's got to work out somehow."

Western officials here agreed with the hope—but were wary of the "somehow." They have said West Berlin must not trade political concessions for a Communist wall-crossing agreement. West Berlin Lord Mayor Willy Brandt has vowed to work hand-in-hand with the Allies on the issue.

HOLY LAND VISIT

Throngs Engulf Pope On Journey

JERUSALEM (AP) — With throngs engulfing him Pope Paul VI came to Old Jerusalem Saturday, made his devotions at the Stations of the Cross and prayed in tears where tradition says Jesus Christ was entombed.

Once disaster threatened. Fire broke out high in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher as the Pope was saying Mass. The flames were soon extinguished, and he went on, unheeding. But earlier tears showed on his cheeks in the course of his first Mass of the Holy Land pilgrimage he has undertaken in a move for peace and brotherhood.

The blaze was in two connected cables supplying power for television lights and cameras recording the historic moment.

tal of Jordan, where King Hussein I greeted him.

Crowds were thick at points along the 54-mile motor ride from Amman to Jerusalem, and here the throngs surged in upon him and his entourage.

He was unable to leave his limousine at the Damascus Gate, the entrance to Jerusalem, and could not deliver an address. Again the crowds were thick along the narrow Via Dolorosa—the Street of Sorrow—marked as Christ's path to the crucifixion.

Man Recovers Quickly From Shot In Heart

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Sgt. Paul O. Stiles, 50, was hunting with a companion Jan. 1 near Ft. Rucker, Ala., when their car became stuck. They got out to push and another man stopped to help.

Raymond Helms of New Brockton, Ala., placed his shotgun on the fender of the car. They rocked and pushed until the car started to move. As it did, the shotgun fell and discharged.

The load of buckshot struck Stiles in the arm and chest. A pellet, about the size of a small pistol bullet, ripped into his heart.

Saturday, the solider was not only alive but sitting up in his hospital bed and talking with his wife.

Doctors called his case a "medical miracle."

Voter registration will re-open for three weeks following Saturday's second primary to give Ouachita Parish residents an opportunity to register before the March 3 general election.

Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters, announced that the books will open Monday, Jan. 13 and remain open throughout the month. Deadline for registration during this period will be Friday, Jan. 31.

A large turnout of applicants is expected during the three-week period, Mrs. Lucky said. She urged all those seeking to register to bring the necessary identification and proof of six-months parish residence.

Ouachita Parish registered voters through Nov. 6 totaled 29,675. Another 202 persons were added to the rolls during the Dec. 9-11 registration period between the first and second primaries. The present 29,877 total should be substantially increased at the end of the upcoming three weeks of registration, Mrs. Lucky said.

Viet Cong Army Still Enlarging

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Despite losses of more than 1,000 men a month, the hard core ranks of Communist guerrilla forces have swelled during the past year into a stronger, better armed fighting force, a U. S. military spokesman said Saturday.

Even with the heavy losses through death, wounds, capture and desertion, the high-ranking officer estimated the hard core Viet Cong force at between 22,000 and 25,000 men.

Partly armed irregulars, estimated between 60,000 and 80,000 last January, may have lost force.

But more important, the U. S. spokesman said, the hard core ranks are better organized, and, bolstered by an influx of Communist-bloc arms, are stepping up their infiltration program.

Although lost territory made it harder for Communists to operate in some areas, Western sources counted 1,880 Viet Cong incidents in December, the highest total for any month in the long, grueling war except November.

The number of Red weapons captured in the past three months has skyrocketed. They include heavy shells and machine guns from Red China, which Americans believe were smuggled through Cambodia.

The American spokesman said 95 per cent of the problem is to win support of more rural Vietnamese for the U. S.-backed war.

Legion Meet

The first regular meeting of the new year of Monroe's L. B. Faulk Post 13, American Legion, will feature a dinner menu of chicken barbecue with all the trimmings, announced J. B. Bradley Sr., post commander.

Bradley urged all members to attend the dinner and bring "the little ladies." He said that the group would

2 Lights Spark Plane Disaster Survivor Hopes

HONOLULU (AP)—The possible sighting of two green flares in the Pacific Saturday sparked fresh hopes in the search for nine military men missing with their Globemaster transport 700 miles west of Honolulu.

A 14th Naval District spokesman reported that a Coast Guard plane "supposedly sighted two green flares in the vicinity of French Frigate Shoals at 2:50 a.m. Hawaii time Saturday."

Four planes converged into the area. But they were hampered by darkness and bad visibility on the gale-whipped ocean surface. The winds kicked up heavy salt spray off the waves.

The planes flew an intensive search pattern between French Frigate Shoals and the Gardener Pinnacles, about 575 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Mild Weather Seen For Area

Partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures are forecast for the Monroe area today and tonight according to the weatherman.

Rain that struck the Twin Cities around 10 p.m. Friday continued into Saturday morning and netted a quarter of an inch of precipitation at the FFA rain guage at Selman Field.

CLOUDY

Today's high temperature reading is expected to be between 54 and 58 degrees and the low tonight will be from 38 to 42. Saturday's high under cloudy skies was 52 degrees and the early morning low was 47.

Winds will blow mostly from the northeast at 8 to 15 m.p.h.

EXCEED $10 MILLION

City Construction Permits Sets Record

By FRANCES PHILLIPS
World Staff Writer

School facilities made up most of the major construction in Monroe during the past year, as the city's building permits topped the $10 million mark for the first time in history.

A total of 1,075 permits were issued in 1963, adding up to $10,634,886.

The largest single project started during the year was the new men's dormitory at Northeast Louisiana State College. To be constructed on a new plot of land across Bayou DeSiard from the rest of the campus, the building will cost $1,126,161.

A new location at 3800 Nutland Road was the site of the building of Ouachita Parish Elementary and Junior High schools. The permit for these facilities totaled $1,067,500, making it the second largest of the year.

Two other education structures received permits — one to the Monroe City School Board for an addition to Sallie Humble school at 3800 Westminster for $110,317, and the other for a $231,000 addition to Ouachita Parish High School.

St. Francis Hospital began construction on an extensive addition to the front of their building on Jackson Street, totaling $754,614.

Another major addition project was undertaken by the First Christian Church, upon receipt of a $131,826 permit for work on the building at 401 St. John St.

Selman Field is the home of two new structures that obtained their building permits during the past 12 months. The new airport terminal building will be constructed at a cost of $454,917, and a new building to house the Louisiana National Guard is estimated at $202,947.

Two new branch banks and two new motels filled out the big construction permits for the year. The Ouachita National Bank built a $119,551 branch

Female Senator Wants Top Post

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—U. S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., says if she decides to try for a higher political office this year it will be for president and not vice president.

In a telephone interview Saturday with the Houston Chronicle, Sen. Smith would not disclose her decision which she plans to announce Jan. 27. But she did outline specific conditions in the event of her candidacy:

She would seek the Republican nomination for president and not vice president.

Soviet Teacher Given Asylum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department granted asylum Saturday to a Russian philosophy professor who has been studying at Harvard University.

The professor, Yuri Alekseyevitch Asseyev, 35, currently is in Cambridge, Mass., City Hospital undergoing treatment for serious injuries received Thursday night when he plunged from the window of an American friend's apartment.

Asseyev requested asylum last week and the department spokesman said he had been "assured of sympathetic consideration of his request."

COLLECTION EASIER

Giving Back Money Creates Tough Job

NEW YORK (AP) — An annual headache is about to set in for the nation's topmost tax collector. It isn't the job of collecting the taxes that gives him the headache — it's trying to give money back to taxpayers.

"Every year when we mail out tax refunds," says Charles Church, director of the Internal Revenue Service for the Manhattan district, "we get back approximately 10,000 of the letters with notations that the addresses have moved and left no forwarding address or are unknown at the address they listed on their returns.

"Then we start trying to track them down any way we can. By the end of the year we usually manage to locate about 3,000 of the persons and give them their money, but it's a big job."

The money belonging to the 7,000 others—it ordinarily adds up to about a half-million dollars—eventually is sent to the U.S. Treasury. However, records are kept so that anyone can get his money any time in the future, if he ever learns he has it coming to him.

Church said the unclaimed refunds usually are fairly small, perhaps only a few dollars, but he has seen some running to $200 or $300.

Church's district is the smallest in the nation, geographically, but it takes in the most money. It includes Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island in New York City, and Westchester and Rockland counties just north of the city.

The office staff of 2,900 handles approximately four million tax returns annually and collects nearly $14 billion—nearly one-seventh of the national total. The revenue is so great because of the large number of giant corporations in the district.

Church, who has been a tax collector for 35 years, says 97 per cent of the taxpayers are honest citizens who pay up promptly and properly. The other 3 per cent require what Church calls "enforcement."

tal of Jordan, where King Hussein I greeted him.

Crowds were thick at points along the 54-mile motor ride from Amman to Jerusalem, and here the throngs surged in upon him and his entourage.

He was unable to leave his limousine at the Damascus Gate, the entrance to Jerusalem, and could not deliver an address. Again the crowds were thick along the narrow Via Dolorosa—the Street of Sorrow—marked as Christ's path to the crucifixion.

Man Recovers Quickly From Shot In Heart

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Sgt. Paul O. Stiles, 50, was hunting with a companion Jan. 1 near Ft. Rucker, Ala., when their car became stuck. They got out to push and another man stopped to help.

Raymond Helms of New Brockton, Ala., placed his shotgun on the fender of the car. They rocked and pushed until the car started to move. As it did, the shotgun fell and discharged.

The load of buckshot struck Stiles in the arm and chest. A pellet, about the size of a small pistol bullet, ripped into his heart.

Saturday, the solider was not only alive but sitting up in his hospital bed and talking with his wife.

Doctors called his case a "medical miracle."

2 Lights Spark Plane Disaster Survivor Hopes

HONOLULU (AP)—The possible sighting of two green flares in the Pacific Saturday sparked fresh hopes in the search for nine military men missing with their Globemaster transport 700 miles west of Honolulu.

A 14th Naval District spokesman reported that a Coast Guard plane "supposedly sighted two green flares in the vicinity of French Frigate Shoals at 2:50 a.m. Hawaii time Saturday."

Four planes converged into the area. But they were hampered by darkness and bad visibility on the gale-whipped ocean surface. The winds kicked up heavy salt spray off the waves.

The planes flew an intensive search pattern between French Frigate Shoals and the Gardener Pinnacles, about 575 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Viet Cong Army Still Enlarging

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Despite losses of more than 1,000 men a month, the hard core ranks of Communist guerrilla forces have swelled during the past year into a stronger, better armed fighting force, a U. S. military spokesman said Saturday.

Even with the heavy losses through death, wounds, capture and desertion, the high-ranking officer estimated the hard core Viet Cong force at between 22,000 and 25,000 men.

Partly armed irregulars, estimated between 60,000 and 80,000 last January, may have lost force.

But more important, the U. S. spokesman said, the hard core ranks are better organized, and, bolstered by an influx of Communist-bloc arms, are stepping up their infiltration program.

Although lost territory made it harder for Communists to operate in some areas, Western sources counted 1,880 Viet Cong incidents in December, the highest total for any month in the long, grueling war except November.

The number of Red weapons captured in the past three months has skyrocketed. They include heavy shells and machine guns from Red China, which Americans believe were smuggled through Cambodia.

The American spokesman said 95 per cent of the problem is to win support of more rural Vietnamese for the U. S.-backed war.

Soviet Teacher Given Asylum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department granted asylum Saturday to a Russian philosophy professor who has been studying at Harvard University.

The professor, Yuri Alekseyevitch Asseyev, 35, currently is in Cambridge, Mass., City Hospital undergoing treatment for serious injuries received Thursday night when he plunged from the window of an American friend's apartment.

Asseyev requested asylum last week and the department spokesman said he had been "assured of sympathetic consideration of his request."

EXCEED $10 MILLION

City Construction Permits Sets Record

By FRANCES PHILLIPS
World Staff Writer

School facilities made up most of the major construction in Monroe during the past year, as the city's building permits topped the $10 million mark for the first time in history.

A total of 1,075 permits were issued in 1963, adding up to $10,634,886.

The largest single project started during the year was the new men's dormitory at Northeast Louisiana State College. To be constructed on a new plot of land across Bayou DeSiard from the rest of the campus, the building will cost $1,126,161.

A new location at 3800 Nutland Road was the site of the building of Ouachita Parish Elementary and Junior High schools. The permit for these facilities totaled $1,067,500, making it the second largest of the year.

Two other education structures received permits — one to the Monroe City School Board for an addition to Sallie Humble school at 3800 Westminster for $110,317, and the other for a $231,000 addition to Ouachita Parish High School.

St. Francis Hospital began construction on an extensive addition to the front of their building on Jackson Street, totaling $754,614.

Another major addition project was undertaken by the First Christian Church, upon receipt of a $131,826 permit for work on the building at 401 St. John St.

Selman Field is the home of two new structures that obtained their building permits during the past 12 months. The new airport terminal building will be constructed at a cost of $454,917, and a new building to house the Louisiana National Guard is estimated at $202,947.

Two new branch banks and two new motels filled out the big construction permits for the year. The Ouachita National Bank built a $119,551 branch

Female Senator Wants Top Post

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—U. S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., says if she decides to try for a higher political office this year it will be for president and not vice president.

In a telephone interview Saturday with the Houston Chronicle, Sen. Smith would not disclose her decision which she plans to announce Jan. 27. But she did outline specific conditions in the event of her candidacy:

She would seek the Republican nomination for president and not vice president.

Mild Weather Seen For Area

Partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures are forecast for the Monroe area today and tonight according to the weatherman.

Rain that struck the Twin Cities around 10 p.m. Friday continued into Saturday morning and netted a quarter of an inch of precipitation at the FFA rainguage at Selman Field.

CLOUDY

Today's high temperature reading is expected to be between 54 and 58 degrees and the low tonight will be from 38 to 42. Saturday's high under cloudy skies and the early morning low was 47.

Winds will blow mostly from the northeast at 8 to 15 m.p.h.

COLLECTION EASIER

Giving Back Money Creates Tough Job

NEW YORK (AP) — An annual headache is about to set in for the nation's topmost tax collector. It isn't the job of collecting the taxes that gives him the headache — it's trying to give money back to taxpayers.

"Every year when we mail out tax refunds," says Charles Church, director of the Internal Revenue Service for the Manhattan district, "we get back approximately 10,000 of the letters with notations that the addresses have moved and left no forwarding address or are unknown at the address they listed on their returns.

"Then we start trying to track them down any way we can. By the end of the year we usually manage to locate about 3,000 of the persons and give them their money, but it's a big job."

The money belonging to the 7,000 others—it ordinarily adds up to about a half-million dollars—eventually is sent to the U.S. Treasury. However, records are kept so that anyone can get his money any time in the future, if he ever learns he has it coming to him.

Church said the unclaimed refunds usually are fairly small, perhaps only a few dollars, but he has seen some running to $200 or $300.

Church's district is the smallest in the nation, geographically, but it takes in the most money. It includes Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island in New York City, and Westchester and Rockland counties just north of the city.

The office staff of 2,900 handles approximately four million tax returns annually and collects nearly $14 billion—nearly one-seventh of the national total. The revenue is so great because of the large number of giant corporations in the district.

Church, who has been a tax collector for 35 years, says 97 per cent of the taxpayers are honest citizens who pay up promptly and properly. The other 3 per cent require what Church calls "enforcement."

Voter registration will re-open for three weeks following Saturday's second primary to give Ouachita Parish residents an opportunity to register before the March 3 general election.

Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters, announced that the books will open Monday, Jan. 13 and remain open throughout the month. Deadline for registration during this period will be Friday, Jan. 31.

A large turnout of applicants is expected during the three-week period, Mrs. Lucky said. She urged all those seeking to register to bring the necessary identification and proof of six-months parish residence.

Ouachita Parish registered voters through Nov. 6 totaled 29,675. Another 202 persons were added to the rolls during the Dec. 9-11 registration period between the first and second primaries. The present 29,877 total should be substantially increased at the end of the upcoming three weeks of registration, Mrs. Lucky said.

Over $18 Million Highway Construction Now Underway In North Louisiana

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

State and federal highway construction in north Louisiana has become a major industry. More than $18 million worth of work currently is underway along 61 miles of roads.

Seventeen parishes in Districts 5 and 58 share in the highway bonanza. Ouachita, in the center of the region, is crisscrossed by two major federal thoroughfares under construction: Interstate Highway 20 and U. S. — Louisiana 165 by-pass.

During the past year, 74.387 miles of roads in District 5 alone were completed at total contract cost of $21,449,781.41.

Add the figures for the two years together and the outcome is almost $40 million — $39,640,000. And this total does not include last year's work in District 58 — nor can it include contracts which will be let later this year in both districts.

The Morning World obtained the facts and figures from State Highway Director Ray W. Burgess.

District 5 entered 1964 with $16,877,000 worth of construction underway along 23.26 miles of roads. District 58 started the year with contracts totalling $1,314,000 on 38.03 miles of highway.

District 5 parishes are East Carroll, Jackson, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Union and West Carroll. District engineer is George Forman.

The District 58 parishes include Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Grant, LaSalle, Tensas and Winn, with J. C. Stephenson as district engineer.

Ouachita parish, 23.862 miles, contract cost $14,426,042.17.

Lincoln, 5.606 miles, $2,568,955.14.

West Carroll, 8.727 miles, $389,983.42.

Morehouse and West Carroll, 9.208 miles, $424,184.05.

Jackson, 11.773 miles, $221,478.23.

East Carroll, 9.522 miles, $280,853.93.

Union, 1.515 miles, $587,938.32.

Projects currently underway in District 5, on a mileage and cost basis, are: Union parish, 1.938 miles, $846,275; Morehouse, 4.897 miles, $234,830; East Carroll, 4.033 miles, $119,413; Ouachita, 12.09 miles, $15,677,280.

District 58 current projects are: Winn, 6.157 miles, $173,997; Franklin, 17.197 miles, $664,547; Concordia, .016 mile, $12,718; Catahoula, 5.097 miles, $269,661; Grant, 9.547 miles, $193,268.

A review of 1963 construction in District 5 follows, on a parish-by-parish listing.

Ouachita: total of 23.862 miles of roads, streets, bridges and approaches, with contract cost $14,426,042.17.

Northeast State College streets, constructed last year include .915 miles from junction of U. S. Highway 80 and College Avenue north along College Avenue to LaSalle, along LaSalle to Bayou Drive, to Mitchell Street, and one block of Evangeline Street, $334,351.35, completed May 28, 1963. The roadways are concrete.

U.S. Highway 165 by-pass, includes 5.045 miles from Rilla north to the junction with Louisiana Highway 15 (Winnsboro Road) at Dooleyville, two lanes, concrete, $1,081,578.89, completed September 13.

South Second Street underpass, .678 of a mile, was completed July 26, 1963. The underpass begins at Ouachita and South Second Streets and continues to Apple and South Second. The $699,807.13 concrete thoroughfare also includes a northbound connection between Texas and Ouachita, connecting South Second and Third streets.

Four projects were completed on Interstate Highway 20, part of the four-lane superhighway under construction from California on the west coast to Georgia on the Atlantic Ocean. Projects completed, include two sections of highway, the Ouachita River bridge and the bridge approaches.

The Ouachita River bridge, .205 of a mile long, extends from Riverfront Street in West Monroe to South Grand Steet in Monroe. The concrete structure, tapering in from almost eight lanes to four lanes in the center, cost $3,187,755 and was completed April 22.

Approaches to the bridge, costing $3,825,820.15, were completed July 5. The .596 of a mile of elevated approaches begin at Fifth Street in West Monroe and continue to the bridge, then extend to Catalpa Street in Monroe. There are four lanes with entry and exit ramps.

Along I-20 to the west, two sections were completed between Calhoun and West Monroe. One section, completed December 19, totals 5.616 miles, and begins at the junction of U.S. Highway 80 and I-20 east of Calhoun, then continues to a point just east of Louisiana 546, at a cost of $2,286,008.44.

The next section pickes up here, continues 5.402 miles to a point just east of Thomas Road. The $2,535,255.14 project was completed November 26.

In connection with sections of I-20 and Highway 165 by-pass under construction this year, a clearing project was completed at cost of $120,883.70 in 1963 and involved .762 of a mile in the area of the I-20 and 165 interchange east of Monroe.

This project began at Young's Bayou and continued east to Nutland Road. Work included clearing, rough grading and channel excavation, to make way for the by-pass and interchange.

In Monroe, the Highway Department constructed 4.045 miles of two-lane asphalt streets at Selman Field. The $69,505.42 project was completed April 23.

D'Abronne Bridge at White's Ferry landing, on Bayou D'Arbonne involved two lanes of asphalt bridge and highway approaches on Louisiana Highway 143. The project, completed January 15, 1963, cost $285,076.95.

Richland parish: The state completed 8.609 miles of asphalt work on the Winnsboro Alto highway on November 13. The roadwork began one mile north of Big Creek on Louisiana Highway 135, then continued north to the junction with state route 132, south of Alto. Cost was $335,575.88.

Lincoln parish: Work was completed August 27 on a $2,568,955.14 project along 5.606 miles of I-20. The section, from Arcadia to Simsboro, began .5 of a mile east of the Lincoln-Bienville parish lines,, then continued east to the vicinity of Simsboro.

West Carroll parish: Louisiana Highway 588, (Pioneer to Wallace Landing Road), extended 2.405 miles from the junction of route 585 to Boeuf River. The two-lane asphalt roadway cost $113,853.26 and was completed October 3.

Pioneer to Campbell Chapel, 6.322 miles of two-lane asphalt highway, began at the junction of routes 588 and 17, north of Pioneer, then extended south and east along route 588 to the junction with a parish road. The $276,130.16 project was completed July 3.

Morehouse and West Carroll parishes: The Jones — Concord road, 9.208 miles of state route 835, was completed July 16 at cost of $424,184.05. The asphalt work began at the junction of route 836, and continued along route 835 to its junction with route 585.

Jackson parish: Work was completed on the 11.773 mile stretch of Route 542, the highway between Jonesboro, Beech Springs and Quitman, on November 6, at total cost of $221,478.23.

Madison parish: The new, two-lane concrete section of U.S.-Louisiana Highway 65 between Tallulah and Alligator Bayou extends 8.839 miles along the $1,229,264.29 mile strip completed June 6. The highway continues in a second project which extended into Tensas parish. The second section is 7.576 miles long, from Alligator Bayou to Somerset in Tensas parish, and cost $957,306.98. It was completed April 9.

Work on State Route 833 rounded out the 1963 work in Madison parish. Cost of 2.250 miles on the Dummy Line Road was $28,199. The project was completed during the fourth week of December.

East Carroll parish: Bowie to Hollybrook, 6.307 miles of parish road begins at the junction of Louisiana 134 southwest of Lake Providence, then continues southeast along the parish road to the junction with U.S. — La. Highway 65 at Hollybrook. The two-lane asphalt road cost $160,215.42 and was completed October 30.

Louisiana route 598 received 3.215 miles of two-lane asphalt paving from one mile northeast of Highland to the junction with route 596 at Brunette, in a $120,638.51 project completed July 9.

Union parish: The Bayou D'Arbonne Bridge and approaches at Farmerville extend 1.515 miles, and begin just south of the junction of state routes 15 and 33. The project, on route 33, cost $587,938.32 and was completed December 6.

It was constructed in conjunction with Bayou D'Aronne reservoir, to raise the road above flood stage.

Currently, the following projects are underway in Distrct 5:

Union parish: Bernice—Farmerville highway, state route 2, costing $846,275, is 80 per cent complete, along the 1.938 mile stretch. Robbie A. Sims Division of W. R. Fairchild Construction Co. is contractor, and Thomas Watts of Farmerville is project engineer.

The project includes three bridges which are complete. Still ahead is paving of approximately 200 feet, plus shoulder stabilization and surfacing. Completion date is four to six months, with good weather.

This roadway is part of highway development in the Bayou D'Arbonne Dam area to improve the flow of traffic.

Morehouse parish: The Twin Oaks — Jones Highway, State Route 833, should be completed by early May. The new bituminous surface treatment begins at the junction of state routes 140 and 833, and proceeds along route 833 for 4.901 miles to the junction with Highway 165 at Jones.

The road has been graded, but temporarily is in poor condition with many potholes due to the recent rain and snow.

Contractor for the $234,830 project is Smalling Brothers. Work is 35 per cent complete, and lacks some dirt fill work, soil cement and cover material. Project engineer is W. R. Overton of Monroe.

East Carroll parish: Baxter Road, a parish road, is being improved along 4.033 miles with a new asphalt surface treatment.

The work starts at the junction of the Baxter Road and Louisiana 882 in ward six, then proceeds north to the junction with Louisiana 582, southwest of Lake Providence.

Bad weather has interrupted work, but the $119,413 project should be complete by mid-April. The sand - clay gravel base course is practically complete.

Ouachita parish: Currently, 12.09 miles of highway are under construction for a total contract amount of $15,677,280.

State highways 15 and 616 (the Farmerville Road) are under construction for 6.19 miles. The project, begun in late 1963, is five per cent complete. Gravel has been placed from White's Ferry to a point near the Union parish line. Project engineer is W. R. Overton.

The road is passable, but pock - marked with pot holes which make for difficult driving. The asphalt pavement will be reconditioned at cost of $143,743. Contractors Bentz and Elmore currently are pouring soil cement to be followed by asphalt hot mix.

Thirty days of good weather are needed for completion.

Work on Interstate Highway 20 or the 165 by-pass comprise the balance of contracts presently let in Ouachita parish.

In West Monroe, work is running slightly ahead of schedule on the 1.61 mile section of I-20 which begins just west of Stella Street and continues to South Fifth Street, just west of Black Bayou.

This work begins at the point beyond the newly opened section of I-20 at Thomas Road. It involves the Stella Street interchange. Total project cost is $5,330,708. The work is 45 per cent complete, and the section is expected to be open to traffic in July 1965.

All the substructure and most of the earthwork are in place, and contractor Foster and Creighton has begun pouring decks on the elevated section at South Fifth Street.

The interchange will connect the Jonesboro Road on the south with Stella and Mill Streets on the north. It will provide for connections off Mill Street onto I-20, via an overhead bridge.

Both the Jonesboro Road and Stella Street will connect to I-20 through ground - level ramps. Stella and Mill Streets will overpass the interstate highway.

In Monroe, two sections of I-20 are under construction.

Between Catalpa Street and Texas Avenue, the substructure of the elevated highway is complete, earthwork is nearly complete, and contractor Farnsworth Division of Fruin-Colnon has begun forming for decks

The roadways are concrete.

U.S. Highway 165 by-pass, includes 5.045 miles from Rilla north to the junction with Louisiana Highway 15 (Winnsboro Road) at Dooleyville, two lanes, concrete, $1,081,578.89, completed September 13.

South Second Street underpass, .678 of a mile, was completed July 26, 1963. The underpass begins at Ouachita and South Second Streets and continues to Apple and South Second. The $699,807.13 concrete thoroughfare also includes a northbound connection between Texas and Ouachita, connecting South Second and Third streets.

Four projects were completed on Interstate Highway 20, part of the four-lane superhighway under construction from California on the west coast to Georgia on the Atlantic Ocean. Projects completed, include two sections of highway, the Ouachita River bridge and the bridge approaches.

The Ouachita River bridge, .205 of a mile long, extends from Riverfront Street in West Monroe to South Grand Steet in Monroe. The concrete structure, tapering in from almost eight lanes to four lanes in the center, cost $3,187,755 and was completed April 22.

Approaches to the bridge, costing $3,825,820.15, were completed July 5. The .596 of a mile of elevated approaches begin at Fifth Street in West Monroe and continue to the bridge, then extend to Catalpa Street in Monroe. There are four lanes with entry and exit ramps.

Along I-20 to the west, two sections were completed between Calhoun and West Monroe. One section, completed December 19, totals 5.616 miles, and begins at the junction of U.S. Highway 80 and I-20 east of Calhoun, then continues to a point just east of Louisiana 546, at a cost of $2,286,008.44.

The next section pickes up here, continues 5.402 miles to a point just east of Thomas Road. The $2,535,255.14 project was completed November 26.

In connection with sections of I-20 and Highway 165 by-pass under construction this year, a clearing project was completed at cost of $120,883.70 in 1963 and involved .762 of a mile in the area of the I-20 and 165 interchange east of Monroe.

This project began at Young's Bayou and continued east to Nutland Road. Work included clearing, rough grading and channel excavation, to make way for the by-pass and interchange.

In Monroe, the Highway Department constructed 4.045 miles of two-lane asphalt streets at Selman Field. The $69,505.42 project was completed April 23.

D'Abronne Bridge at White's Ferry landing, on Bayou D'Arbonne involved two lanes of asphalt bridge and highway approaches on Louisiana Highway 143. The project, completed January 15, 1963, cost $285,076.95.

Richland parish: The state completed 8.609 miles of asphalt work on the Winnsboro Alto highway on November 13. The roadwork began one mile north of Big Creek on Louisiana Highway 135, then continued north to the junction with state route 132, south of Alto. Cost was $335,575.88.

Lincoln parish: Work was completed August 27 on a $2,568,955.14 project along 5.606 miles of I-20. The section, from Arcadia to Simsboro, began .5 of a mile east of the Lincoln-Bienville parish lines,, then continued east to the vicinity of Simsboro.

West Carroll parish: Louisiana Highway 588, (Pioneer to Wallace Landing Road), extended 2.405 miles from the junction of route 585 to Boeuf River. The two-lane asphalt roadway cost $113,853.26 and was completed October 3.

Pioneer to Campbell Chapel, 6.322 miles of two-lane asphalt highway, began at the junction of routes 588 and 17, north of Pioneer, then extended south and east along route 588 to the junction with a parish road. The $276,130.16 project was completed July 3.

Morehouse and West Carroll parishes: The Jones — Concord road, 9.208 miles of state route 835, was completed July 16 at cost of $424,184.05. The asphalt work began at the junction of route 836, and continued along route 835 to its junction with route 585.

Jackson parish: Work was completed on the 11.773 mile stretch of Route 542, the highway between Jonesboro, Beech Springs and Quitman, on November 6, at total cost of $221,478.23.

Madison parish: The new, two-lane concrete section of U.S.-Louisiana Highway 65 between Tallulah and Alligator Bayou extends 8.839 miles along the $1,229,264.29 mile strip completed June 6. The highway continues in a second project which extended into Tensas parish. The second section is 7.576 miles long, from Alligator Bayou to Somerset in Tensas parish, and cost $957,306.98. It was completed April 9.

Work on State Route 833 rounded out the 1963 work in Madison parish. Cost of 2.250 miles on the Dummy Line Road was $28,199. The project was completed during the fourth week of December.

East Carroll parish: Bowie to Hollybrook, 6.307 miles of parish road begins at the junction of Louisiana 134 southwest of Lake Providence, then continues southeast along the parish road to the junction with U.S. — La. Highway 65 at Hollybrook. The two-lane asphalt road cost $160,215.42 and was completed October 30.

Louisiana route 598 received 3.215 miles of two-lane asphalt paving from one mile northeast of Highland to the junction with route 596 at Brunette, in a $120,638.51 project completed July 9.

Union parish: The Bayou D'Arbonne Bridge and approaches at Farmerville extend 1.515 miles, and begin just south of the junction of state routes 15 and 33. The project, on route 33, cost $587,938.32 and was completed December 6.

It was constructed in conjunction with Bayou D'Aronne reservoir, to raise the road above flood stage.

This completes the review of 1963 highway construction in District 5.

Currently, the following projects are underway in Distrct 5:

Union parish: Bernice—Farmerville highway, state route 2, costing $846,275, is 80 per cent complete, along the 1.938 mile stretch. Robbie A. Sims Division of W. R. Fairchild Construction Co. is contractor, and Thomas Watts of Farmerville is project engineer.

The project includes three bridges which are complete. Still ahead is paving of approximately 200 feet, plus shoulder stabilization and surfacing. Completion date is four to six months, with good weather.

This roadway is part of highway development in the Bayou D'Arbonne Dam area to improve the flow of traffic.

Morehouse parish: The Twin Oaks — Jones Highway, State Route 833, should be completed by early May. The new bituminous surface treatment begins at the junction of state routes 140 and 833, and proceeds along route 833 for 4.901 miles to the junction with Highway 165 at Jones.

The road has been graded, but temporarily is in poor condition with many potholes due to the recent rain and snow.

Contractor for the $234,830 project is Smalling Brothers. Work is 35 per cent complete, and lacks some dirt fill work, soil cement and cover material. Project engineer is W. R. Overton of Monroe.

East Carroll parish: Baxter Road, a parish road, is being improved along 4.033 miles with a new asphalt surface treatment.

The work starts at the junction of the Baxter Road and Louisiana 882 in ward six, then proceeds north to the junction with Louisiana 582, southwest of Lake Providence.

Bad weather has interrupted work, but the $119,413 project should be complete by mid-April. The sand - clay gravel base course is practically complete.

Ouachita parish: Currently, 12.09 miles of highway are under construction for a total contract amount of $15,677,280.

State highways 15 and 616 (the Farmerville Road) are under construction for 6.19 miles. The project, begun in late 1963, is five per cent complete. Gravel has been placed from White's Ferry to a point near the Union parish line. Project engineer is W. R. Overton.

The road is passable, but pock - marked with pot holes which make for difficult driving. The asphalt pavement will be reconditioned at cost of $143,743. Contractors Bentz and Elmore currently are pouring soil cement to be followed by asphalt hot mix.

Thirty days of good weather are needed for completion.

Work on Interstate Highway 20 or the 165 by-pass comprise the balance of contracts presently let in Ouachita parish.

In West Monroe, work is running slightly ahead of schedule on the 1.61 mile section of I-20 which begins just west of Stella Street and continues to South Fifth Street, just west of Black Bayou.

This work begins at the point beyond the newly opened section of I-20 at Thomas Road. It involves the Stella Street interchange. Total project cost is $5,330,708. The work is 45 per cent complete, and the section is expected to be open to traffic in July 1965.

All the substructure and most of the earthwork are in place, and contractor Foster and Creighton has begun pouring decks on the elevated section at South Fifth Street.

The interchange will connect the Jonesboro Road on the south with Stella and Mill Streets on the north. It will provide for connections off Mill Street onto I-20, via an overhead bridge.

Both the Jonesboro Road and Stella Street will connect to I-20 through ground - level ramps. Stella and Mill Streets will overpass the interstate highway.

In Monroe, two sections of I-20 are under construction.

Between Catalpa Street and Texas Avenue, the substructure of the elevated highway is complete, earthwork is nearly complete, and contractor Farnsworth Division of Fruin-Colnon has begun forming for decks starting at Catalpa Street, and going eastward.

This elevated section starts where the I-20 bridge approaches end at Catalpa Street, and continues eastward to Tenth Street on the east side of the Missouri - Pacific Railroad, where it returns to ground level.

The section is 42 per cent complete. The elevated section is slated for completion in July, with the remainder due to open to traffic in February, 1965. Project engineer is Robert Graves of Monroe.

Work was begun September 30 on the I-20 section from Texas Avenue to Nutland Road. This $5,205,334 project includes $1,703,737 worth of work on U.S. 165 by-pass.

I-20 will overpass the Highway 165 bypass on twin bridges.

S and W Construction Co. currently is driving bridge pilings, preparing concrete footings and working on dirt fill operations on the I-20. Project engineer is J. H. Richey of Monroe.

The section of 165 by-pass begins at the Winnsboro Road, across from the two-lane section of 165 completed in 1963.

Highway 165 by-pass is about 10 per cent complete and should be finished in two or three years. Current work consists of drainage structures, earth work and pile drivings. The by-pass will overpass Milhaven Road and the Illinois Central Railroad on twin bridges.

I-20 and U.S. 165 by-pass will be connected through a series of ramps. Plans calls for continuation of 165 to a junction with Powell Avenue at the M-P railroad, for a distance of 2.497 miles. Total mileage on I-20 under this contract is 1.359 miles.

Seven highway construction projects currently are underway in District 58. They include:

Winn parish: Sikes—Grayson highway, state route 126, 6.157 miles of new asphalt pavement begun November 13, 1963 by contractor L. T. Brown. Cost is $173,997.

Franklin parish: Longview — Bayou Macon road, state route 861, includes 3.047 miles of new asphalt pavement begun July 18 by Green-Snider Construction Co. The $239,069 project is 70 per cent complete.

Ten miles of State Route 578 between Como and Crowville will be reconstructed and given asphalt surface treatment under a $189,693 contract awarded W. H. Patterson. Work order on the project was given November 13, and construction is in the earliest stages.

Along state routes 867 and 868 on the Coax Church Road, work on 4.150 miles of new asphalt pavement also is in early stages. J. A. Harper is contractor for the $235,785 project.

Concordia parish: Work is 47 per cent complete on the .016 of a mile of new bridge between Ridgecrest and Crestview. Contractor for the $12,718 project is A. P. Johnston. Work began October 14.

Grant parish: Construction of 9.547 miles of new asphalt pavement is in earliest stages along state routes 472 and 1230 between Packton and Georgetown. W. H. Patterson and Co. is contractor on the $193,268 project.

Catahoula parish: Contractor J. T. Richardson has completed 44 per cent of work on the 5.097 miles of new asphalt surface treatment road along state route 921 between Maitland and Foules. Contract amount is $269,661.

"Family Alert," the theme for January in Cub Scouting, was the subject of the program at the Den Mother's Workshop held last Thursday morning. Mrs. Clovis Walker, acting as chairman, discussed with the den mothers ways in which this theme could be carried out at the various den meetings.

The "Medical Self-Help Kit" provided by the office of Civil Defense was put on display and demonstrated. Possibilities for using the kit in the monthly meeting of the various packs were suggested.

A temporary planning committee was selected to plan the program for the February Workshop which will feature a "Blue and Gold" banquet. It was also decided to put the Den Mother's Workshop on a council basis and extending invitations to den mothers from all seven districts in the council to attend and help with the workshop which is a monthly event.

It was proposed that a letter be sent to all den mothers in the council giving information about the functions of the workshop, dates of meetings and purposes.

Members of the planning committee are Jose Gonzales, crafts director; Wayne Eskridge, scouting executive; Jack Pankey, executive; and the following den mothers: Mrs. Mercedes Mullis, Mrs. Virginia Perry, Mrs. Laura Tolbird, Mrs. Jolene Whitfield and Mrs. Emmie Hunnicutt. The committee will meet at the Scout office on Thursday, January 9, at 9:30 a.m.

Den mothers attending the workshop included Mrs. Clovis Walker, Pack 30, Mrs. Mercedes Mullis, Pack 29, and Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt, Pack 31, all of Monroe. West Monroe den mothers attending were Mrs. Virginia Perry, and Mrs. Laura Tolbird of Pack 37 and Mrs. Jolene Whitfield of Pack 174.

Guest den mothers attending from Mangham were Mrs. Pat Thompson, Mrs. Elaine Strozier and Mrs. Earlena Crammer. Mrs. Barbara Bowen of Pack 5 represented Sterlington.

Big Difference In Rainfall Of Parishes Noted

WINNSBORO (Special) — There is apparently a bigger difference between Franklin and Ouachita parishes than the size of their towns.

Take rainfall, for instance. According to State Forester James N. Steven of the Louisiana Forestry Commission here, Franklin received 40.60 inches of rainfall during 1963.

However, Ouachita, separated from Franklin only by the distance of one parish — Richland —received only 30.12 inches—a difference of almost 10 and one-half inches.

The mean average annual rainfall for Franklin is 52.51, making the parish far short of the average.

According to Steven, "The past year looked as if it would be the driest in the history of the parish up until the opening of deer season, when a few rains started and brought the total rainfall up to just above the record low set in 1954."

The year 1963 was the second driest on record for Franklin. And, it was also the second driest for Ouachita.

Letter Arrives 3 Months Late

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Associated Press bureau at New Orleans Saturday received a letter from Hammond, La., nearly three months after it was mailed.

The letter from the publications office at Southeastern Louisiana College bore the postmark, "Hammond, La., Oct. 9, 1963."

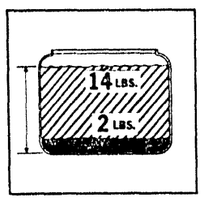
New Norge 14—first 14 lb. washer ever... One Load—9 baths—and they're all clean!

Even if you have nine fast-moving, clothes-dirtying, happy kids, a complete change from the skin out makes just one load for the new Norge 14. Add nine baths and they're all set.

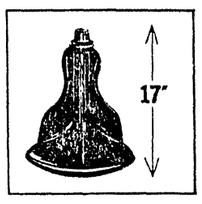
They're lots of reasons big families need the Norge 14. A fourteen pound load equals ten full-size sheets, and that gives you some idea of the loads you'll save on bed linen alone. And for those little loads, you can do just a 2-lb. load of hand washables with only the water you need.

Not only will you do fewer loads with the Norge 14—but every load will be easier. A new slanted control panel with bigger, easier-to-read dials lets you select the exact wash cycle required without stooping and squinting.

See the Norge 14 Flexi-load right away. Everything about it will tell you women had a hand in designing it.



Flexi-Load Water Control means you can select the right water level for any load from 2 to 14 lbs.—make the Norge 14 any size washer you want it to be.



Biggest Tub! Biggest Agitator of any home washer. Plenty of room for any kind of giant load to turn and tumble. Plenty of action from the giant agitator.

So dependable it's backed by a 2-year Service Policy

Norge 2-year Service Policy. Normal warranty covers parts and labor for 1 year after purchase by original owner. Norge extends parts warranty for 2 years when customer purchases second year's policy from dealer at the time of original purchase. 2-year Service Policy provides labor and repair or replacement, at dealer's option, of functional parts required to maintain machine in normal household operating condition in dealer's servicing area. Invalid when damage is due to misuse, accident or work by unauthorized persons.

Don't settle for anything less than the Norge 14

The mean average annual rainfall for Franklin is 52.51, making the parish far short of the average.

According to Steven, "The past year looked as if it would be the driest in the history of the parish up until the opening of deer season, when a few rains started and brought the total rainfall up to just above the record low set in 1954."

The year 1963 was the second driest on record for Franklin. And, it was also the second driest for Ouachita.

Washes any load from a 14-lb. hamperful to a 2-lb. handful really clean!

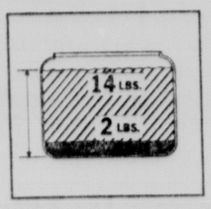
New Norge 14—first 14 lb. washer ever...
One Load—9 baths—and they're all clean!

Even if you have nine fast-moving, clothes-dirtying, happy kids, a complete change from the skin out makes just one load for the new Norge 14. Add nine baths and they're all set.

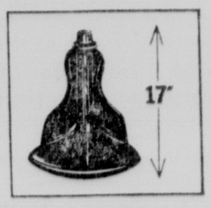
They're lots of reasons big families need the Norge 14. A fourteen pound load equals ten full-size sheets, and that gives you some idea of the loads you'll save on bed linen alone. And for those little loads, you can do just a 2-lb. load of hand washables with only the water you need.

Not only will you do fewer loads with the Norge 14—but every load will be easier. A new slanted control panel with bigger, easier-to-read dials lets you select the exact wash cycle required without stooping and squinting.

See the Norge 14 Flexi-load right away. Everything about it will tell you women had a hand in designing it.



Flexi-Load Water Control means you can select the right water level for any load from 2 to 14 lbs.—make the Norge 14 any size washer you want it to be.



Biggest Tub! Biggest Agitator of any home washer. Plenty of room for any kind of giant load to turn and tumble. Plenty of action from the giant agitator.

So dependable it's backed by a 2-year Service Policy

Norge 2-year Service Policy. Normal warranty covers parts and labor for 1 year after purchase by original owner. Norge extends parts warranty for 2 years when customer purchases second year's policy from dealer at the time of original purchase. 2-year Service Policy provides labor and repair or replacement, at dealer's option, of functional parts required to maintain machine in normal household operating condition in dealer's servicing area. Invalid when damage is due to misuse, accident or work by unauthorized persons.

Aldermen Set Interviews On Attorney Post

West Monroe aldermen will interview interested lawyers at the next regular board meeting Jan. 14, in a move to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of City Attorney Charles Traylor.

Traylor leaves the post officially at the end of January, though he begins a two-week vacation Jan. 15.

There has been no formal speculation on a replacement since Traylor's decision to leave the job, announced at a meeting in November. He said at that time that the press of business in his practice necessitated the move.

Alderman A. L. DeLoach indicated Saturday that at least one interested attorney had approached him about making application for Traylor's spot.

DeLoach told him to appear at the board's January meeting. Others are expected to attend the same session, DeLoach said.

Parish Property Tax Collections Unusually Good

Ouachita Parish property taxes collected during the month of December amounted to $3,159,916.98, to bring the year's total up to $3,917,417.04, announced C. D. Meredith, chief civil deputy for the parish tax department.

This sum is 83.19 per cent of the total taxes collectible, $4,708,549.30.

According to Meredith, however, this percentage is not a true reflection of Ouachita Parish payments, because it excludes most of the homestead exemption remittance due.

Previously, the homestead exemption has been paid along with the filing of the tax roll in August. This year only one-third of the total $644,420.24 was paid at that time.

Another $322,210.12 is due between now and Jan. 10, and the final third will be received between April 1 and 10, Meredith pointed out.

Since this amount is paid by the state treasurer and not by the local tax debtors, Meredith explained, Ouachita's percentage of payment is higher than the figure stated above.

When the full homestead exemption payment is added to the local totals, the percentage of remittances rises to 96.88 per cent, making 1963's total as the "best collection ever," Meredith said.

Annual Scout Recognition Banquet Set

About 400 persons are expected Jan. 16 at the Annual Recognition Banquet of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council.

The program is set for 7 p.m. in the Louisiana Tech student center at Ruston. Invited are all scouters, their wives and friends of scouting through the council's 15 parishes.

As a departure this year, no speaker will be featured on the program. However, three Silver Beaver Awards will be made for outstanding volunteer service to scouting, according to banquet chairman Gil McCleery of Monroe.

Amos Ford, council executive board member from Ruston, will make the presentations. Winners are not announced until the banquet.

Snead Cliff of Memphis, Tenn., deputy director of scout region five, will install Monroe's W. W. Stevens to a second term as council president. Other new officers will include three vice presidents — Jack Campbell and Dave Agnew, both of Monroe, and Donald Fisk of Oak Grove — treasurer Bill Staab of Monroe, council commissioner Hollis Greene, Monroe, and Monroe's Frank McDermott, field scout commissioner.

Tickets for the program were mailed Friday from council officers in Monroe for distribution in the several parishes.

ROYALTY INCLUDED

New Best Dressed List Is Announced

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two members of royalty, two socialite actresses, and two other socialites bounced to the top of the annual best-dressed list announced Saturday.

All but diminutive, dark-haired Queen Farah Pahlavi, third wife of the Shah of Iran, have been on the list or have hovered near it before.

In deference to her mourning, the widowed Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the most powerful fashion personality in a generation, was not considered.

Mrs. T. Charlton Henry of Philadelphia, listed as "worthy of citation" last year, made the fashion front ranks this year. Born Julia Rush Biddle, the snow-haired Philadelphia is a veteran social lioness.

Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the late Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece, made the big league list again this year. The princess is now married to wealthy businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Dina Merrill, born Nedenia Hutton, daughter of Marjorie Post Hutton Davies May, is one of two blondes on the list.

Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt of New York, the former Jean Harvey of the restaurant clan, also often cited, is a first-timer on the main best dressed list this year. She, too, is a slender blonde.

Mrs. Loel Guinness, Mexican-born Gloria Rubio until her marriage to the international banker 12 years ago, heads the list this year.

The others are:

Gloria Vanderbilt, recently wed to television Director Wyatt Cooper. She made the list last year, too.

Baroness Henry Thyssen-Bornemisza, the former London fashion model Fiona Campbell-Walters.

Mrs. Walther Moreira-Salles, the former Elizainha Vianna Concalves, a young, witty and popular international hostess.

Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the U.S. ambassador to Britain, another repeater.

Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, the wife of an oil millionaire and girlhood friend and Palm Beach neighbor of Mrs. Kennedy. She is another list regular.

Three perennial members of the annual best-dressed list were given permanent status in the Hall of Fame. They are Signora Gianni Angnelli, Turin, Italy, wife of the Fiat motors executive; Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States; and Mrs. John Barry Ryan III, a former fashion magazine editor.

Forest Fires Strike In State

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Forest fires cropped up across the state Thursday after a lull brought on by Christmas rains, according to James E. Mixon, state forester.

In a 24-hour period from 10 a.m. Thursday through 10 a.m. Friday, a total of 78 fires burned 1,463 acres of woodlands, said Mixon.

Several large fires were reported by Louisiana Forestry Commission foresters in various parts of the state. Worst of these were in Allen Parish, were 10 fires destoryed 232 acres; Evangeline Parish, where only two fires burned 745 acres; Jeff Davis Parish, with one fire sweeping through 80 acres; and Rapides Parish with a total of

Chou Praises Albania Method

ROME (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was quoted in a broadcast from Communist Alabania Saturday as remarking on a visit to a textile factory:

"We are very happy to find ourselves in your heroic capital and in your cooperative which carries the name of Stalin."

The Stalinist rulers of Albanical dispute with Moscow. The words of Chou, who interrupted a tour of Africa to visit his European ally, were reported in dispatch broadcast by the Albanian news agency ATA.

MEETS WITH BRANDT

BERLIN (UPI) — Roland de Margerie, France's ambassador to West Germany, is scheduled to arrive here Sunday for a three-day visit. He will meet with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and the French and British military commandants for the divided city.

GERMAN RED RESIGNS

BERLIN (UPI)—Hans Rodenberg, Communist East Germany's deputy minister for cultural affairs, has resigned, according to press reports received here. The 69-year-old Rodenberg joined the German Communist party after World War I and lived in the Soviet Union from 1932 to 1948.

Annual Scout Recognition Banquet Set

The program is set for 7 p.m. in the Louisiana Tech student center at Ruston. Invited are all scouters, their wives and friends of scouting through the council's 15 parishes.

As a departure this year, no speaker will be featured on the program. However, three Silver Beaver Awards will be made for outstanding volunteer service to scouting, according to banquet chairman Gil McCleery of Monroe.

Amos Ford, council executive board member from Ruston, will make the presentations. Winners are not announced until the banquet.

Snead Clift of Memphis, Tenn., deputy director of scout region five, will install Monroe's W. W. Stevens to a second term as council president. Other new officers will include three vice presidents — Jack Campbell and Dave Agnew, both of Monroe, and Donald Fisk of Oak Grove — treasurer Bill Staab of Monroe, council commissioner Hollis Greene, Monroe, and Monroe's Frank McDermott, field scout commissioner.

Tickets for the program were mailed Friday from council officers in Monroe for distribution in the several parishes.

ROYALTY INCLUDED

New Best Dressed List Is Announced

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two members of royalty, two socialite actresses, and two other socialites bounced to the top of the annual best-dressed list announced Saturday.

All but diminutive, dark-haired Queen Farah Pahlavi, third wife of the Shah of Iran, have been on the list or have hovered near it before.

In deference to her mourning, the widowed Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the most powerful fashion personality in a generation, was not considered.

Mrs. T. Charlton Henry of Philadelphia, listed as "worthy of citation" last year, made the fashion front ranks this year. Born Julia Rush Biddle, the snow-haired Philadelphia is a veteran social lioness.

Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the late Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece, made the big league list again this year. The princess is now married to wealthy businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Dina Merrill, born Nedenia Hutton, daughter of Marjorie Post Hutton Davies May, is one of two blondes on the list.

Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt of New York, the former Jean Harvey of the restaurant clan, also often cited, is a first-timer on the main best dressed list this year. She, too, is a slender blonde.

Mrs. Loel Guinness, Mexican-born Gloria Rubio until her marriage to the international banker 12 years ago, heads the list this year.

The others are:

Gloria Vanderbilt, recently wed to television Director Wyatt Cooper. She made the list last year, too.

Baroness Henry Thyssen-Bornemisza, the former London fashion model Fiona Campbell-Walters.

Mrs. Walther Moreira-Salles, the former Elizainha Vianna Concalves, a young, witty and popular international hostess.

Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the U.S. ambassador to Britain, another repeater.

Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, the wife of an oil millionaire and girlhood friend and Palm Beach neighbor of Mrs. Kennedy. She is another list regular.

Three perennial members of the annual best-dressed list were given permanent status in the Hall of Fame. They are Signora Gianni Angnelli, Turin, Italy, wife of the Fiat motors executive; Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States; and Mrs. John Barry Ryan III, a former fashion magazine editor.

Forest Fires Strike In State

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Forest fires cropped up across the state Thursday after a lull brought on by Christmas rains, according to James E. Mixon, state forester.

In a 24-hour period from 10 a.m. Thursday through 10 a.m. Friday, a total of 78 fires burned 1,463 acres of woodlands, said Mixon.

Several large fires were reported by Louisiana Forestry Commission foresters in various parts of the state. Worst of these were in Allen Parish, were 10 fires destoryed 232 acres; Evangeline Parish, where only two fires burned 745 acres; Jeff Davis Parish, with one fire sweeping through 80 acres; and Rapides Parish with a total of station at 1001 N. 18th St., and First National Bank is planning a $98,600 structure at Twin City Shopping Center. A $510,000 Admiral Benbow Motel at 2001 Louisville opened for business recently, and the Travel Lodge Inn at 401 Grammont, which will cost $500,000, is scheduled to be completed early this year.

May was the peak month for the issuance of building permits, with another high season during September, October and November.

The breakdown on number of permits and amounts for each month is as follows: January, 86, $2,071,159; February, 66, $518,126; March, 93, $645,207; April, 84, $295,387; May, 126, $1,643,222; June, 95, $763,934; July 79, $323,838; August, 79, $555,204; September, 98, $821,161; October, 127, $1,484,305; November, 100, $1,104,103; and December, 42, $409,423.

Total construction in Monroe for the past four years was $40,248,886. Yearly amounts are 1960, $9,943,706; 1961, $9,825,504; and 1962, $9,845,080.

For the 23 years preceding 1960, total Local construction was $57,056,085, averaging slightly less than $2½ million per year.

On a per capita basis Monroe exceeds most Louisiana cities in construction. Figures on Monroe and two other cities of comparable size are: Monroe, $10,225,637 total, $187 per person; Lake Charles, $6,509,732 total, $101 per person; Alexandria, $3,107,472 total, $74 per person.

With the $11¼ million bond issue, building officials expect Monroe to have another record year in 1964.

most youths reaching 18, as soon as possible. Most youths eligible for military service are not examined now until they are 22 or 23. The President stressed that early examination did not mean earlier induction into service.

Second, the President directed the secretaries of labor and welfare to set up rehabilitation programs to correct the physical and mental defects found in the examinations.

Wirth told reporters the rehabilitation programs would not be compulsory "but we have found in the task force report that most of those with deficiencies want help to correct them."

Wirtz estimated that of the most of those with deficiencies want help to correct them."

Wirtz estimated that of the estimated 1.4 million reaching 18 next year, only 500,000 to 600,000 would be examined. He said those in school and those married likely will get deferrals. Of those failing the examinations, he estimated 75,000 to 80,000 would be enlisted in the rehabilitation projects.

Court Refuses Jobless Pay To Four Union Men

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The Mississippi Supreme Court ruled Saturday four union members who refused jobs paying less than union scale were not entitled to unemployment compensation.

The court upheld a ruling by the Employment Security Commission that neither the union membership nor the lower pay scale were adequate reasons for the men to refuse work while accepting public benefits.

The four men, James T. Mixon, Emil J. Sodoma, Raymond L. Tucker and Owen E. Tucker, are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. They were laid off their jobs at Columbus and refused non-union employment offers at the Meridian Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

Plans Go Awry

Any age is a good age to go visiting, according to Frank C. Breese Sr. of Bay St. Louis, Miss., but even the best plans sometimes go awry.

The 90-year-old Breese after arriving for a Christmas visit with his three daughters and son in Monroe came down with a bad cold and wound up in St. Francis Hospital.

That's where he is now, in room 683, where we're told he'd welcome calls from his many friends here. Breese's son in Monroe is Frank C. Breese Jr. His daughters are Mrs. Alma Gimler, Mrs. F. L. Jones and Mrs. Bailey Grant.

Leaving Today

Leaving today for the big 'Top Hands' Conference in Memphis, Tenn., is Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council Executive Jack E. Pankey.

He will be attending sessions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, aimed at providing closer communication between scout executives for the interchange of ideas and policies.

With Pankey will be his counterparts from throughout Scout Region Five, coming from all over Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and part of Florida.

Among Missing

The Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's Order of the Arrow, an honor campers' society, had its big winter work day Saturday, Dec. 28, at Camp Kiroli.

The turnout was good — but guess who didn't come. The instigator of the whole thing, the promoter who urged all the other members to come, the Order's chief, Larry Wade, didn't show up. Needless to say, Larry, of West Monroe, is taking quite a razzing.

SOUTHERN GROUP

'Draft Goldwater' Leader Sees Win

BIRMINGHAM (UPI) — The chairman of the "Draft Goldwater" movement in 11 southern states predicted Saturday there is nothing but victory in store for the nation's latest announced presidential candidate.

John Grenier, who also is Alabama's Republican chairman, predicted Sen. Barry Goldwater would win the GOP nomination on the first ballot.

He said Goldwater would easily defeat President Lyndon B. Johnson because the President is "only a carbon copy of the New Frontier image."

"The announcement by Sen. Goldwater that he will seek the Republican presidential nomination has been a tremendous shot in the arm to Republicans in Alabama, the South and the entire nation," Grenier said. He is way out in front now and I predict that his lead will grow in the months ahead."

Grenier said he was confident grass roots support for in as the Republican nominee on the first ballot at the convention in San Francisceo in July."

"We are confident that Mr. Johnson will be easier to defeat than the late President Kennedy as Mr. Johnson emerges as only a carbon copy of the New Frontier image," Grenier said.

"In our opinion, Goldwater will sweep the South since we will not forget that Johnson told us from the back of a train in 1960 that if the South joined the New Frontiere he would take care of us. Many southerners went with the New Frontier and Johnson and Bobby Kennedy took care of us in a way that southerners will remember at the ballot box."

Grenier, who has been traveling the South to get the Goldwater campaign under way, issued his statement on a stopover here en route to Washington from Orlando, Fla. He is to meet with Goldwater committeemen Sunday.

Wallace Slates Whirlwind Visit To Five States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI). Final arrangements for Gov. George Wallace's 10-day tour of five western states on a speech making and industry hunting expedition have been announced.

Press Secretary Bill Jones said six college speeches, eight conferences with industrial leaders and 24 news conferences were scheduled for the whirlwind visit.

Wallace has expressed optimism on chances of bringing several new manufacturing prospects to Alabama when he returns Dec. 16.

Industrial stopovers are slated at Denver, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle, where a group of Alabama businessmen will meet the touring party Jan. 15.

Jones said Wallace would make campus addresses at Colorado State University, the University of Denver, the University of Arizona, UCLA, the University of Oregon and the University of Washington.

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The Mississippi Supreme Court ruled Saturday four union members who refused jobs paying less than union scale were not entitled to unemployment compensation.

The court upheld a ruling by the Employment Security Commission that neither the union membership nor the lower pay scale were adequate reasons for the men to refuse work while accepting public benefits.

The four men, James T. Mixon, Emil J. Sodoma, Raymond L. Tucker and Owen E. Tucker, are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. They were laid off their jobs at Columbus and refused non-union employment offers at the Meridian Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

The business-pleasure session is slated for 7 p.m. Monday at the American Legion Hall in Forsythe Park.

Plans Go Awry

Any age is a good age to go visiting, according to Frank C. Breese Sr. of Bay St. Louis, Miss., but even the best plans sometimes go awry.

The 90-year-old Breese after arriving for a Christmas visit with his three daughters and son in Monroe came down with a bad cold and wound up in St. Francis Hospital.

That's where he is now, in room 683, where we're told he'd welcome calls from his many friends here. Breese's son in Monroe is Frank C. Breese Jr. His daughters are Mrs. Alma Gimler, Mrs. F. L. Jones and Mrs. Bailey Grant.

Leaving Today

Leaving today for the big Top Hands' Conference in Memphis, Tenn., is Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council Executive Jack E. Pankey.

He will be attending sessions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, aimed at providing closer communication between scout executives for the interchange of ideas and policies.

With Pankey will be his counterparts from throughout Scout Region Five, coming from all over Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and part of Florida.

Among Missing

The Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's Order of the Arrow, an honor campers' society, had its big winter work day Saturday, Dec. 28, at Camp Kiroli.

The turnout was good — but guess who didn't come. The instigator of the whole thing, the promoter who urged all the other members to come, the Order's chief, Larry Wade, didn't show up. Needless to say, Larry, of West Monroe, is taking quite a razzing.

'Draft Goldwater' Leader Sees Win

BIRMINGHAM (UPI) — The chairman of the "Draft Goldwater" movement in 11 southern states predicted Saturday there is nothing but victory in store for the nation's latest announced presidential candidate.

John Grenier, who also is Alabama's Republican chairman, predicted Sen. Barry Goldwater would win the GOP nomination on the first ballot.

He said Goldwater would easily defeat President Lyndon B. Johnson because the President is "only a carbon copy of the New Frontier image."

"The announcement by Sen. Goldwater that he will seek the Republican presidential nomination has been a tremendous shot in the arm to Republicans in Alabama, the South and the entire nation," Grenier said. He is way out in front now and I predict that his lead will grow in the months ahead."

Grenier said he was confident grass roots support for in as the Republican nominee on the first ballot at the convention in San Francisceo in July."

"We are confident that Mr. Johnson will be easier to defeat than the late President Kennedy as Mr. Johnson emerges as only a carbon copy of the New Frontier image," Grenier said.

"In our opinion, Goldwater will sweep the South since we will not forget that Johnson told us from the back of a train in 1960 that if the South joined the New Frontiere he would take care of us. Many southerners went with the New Frontier and Johnson and Bobby Kennedy took care of us in a way that southerners will remember at the ballot box."

Grenier, who has been traveling the South to get the Goldwater campaign under way, issued his statement on a stopover here en route to Washington from Orlando, Fla. He is to meet with Goldwater committeemen Sunday.

Wallace Slates Whirlwind Visit To Five States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI). Final arrangements for Gov. George Wallace's 10-day tour of five western states on a speech making and industry hunting expedition have been announced.

Press Secretary Bill Jones said six college speeches, eight conferences with industrial leaders and 24 news conferences were scheduled for the whirlwind visit.

Wallace has expressed optimism on chances of bringing several new manufacturing prospects to Alabama when he returns Dec. 16.

Industrial stopovers are slated at Denver, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle, where a group of Alabama businessmen will meet the touring party Jan. 15.

Jones said Wallace would make campus addresses at Colorado State University, the University of Denver, the University of Arizona, UCLA, the University of Oregon and the University of Washington.

Nine Permits For Building Issued Here

Year-end holidays considerably slowed the pace of building permits in Monroe during the past week, according to Dale Martha, coordinator for the City of Monroe inspector's department.

Only nine permits have been issued since Christmas, totaling $37,200.

New structures and remodeling orders led the list of permits with three each. Others were for two demolitions and one addition.

Two $15,000 buildings formed the bulk of the past week's monetary total. Morgan and Lindsey Inc. plans to construct a new metal hangar at Selman Field and obtained a permit for that amount. D. F. Burkhalter received permission to build a new office building at 1811 Roselawn in the other large grant.

Jim Walters was issued a permit to build a new $1,700 residence at 3905 Dunlop.

Remodeling and addition work amounting to $2,000 was listed by Fred Huenefeld as he obtained a permit for his brick veneer residence of 2100 Pargoud Blvd.

The other two remodeling permits went to Henry Johnson at 706 Louise Ann for $800, and to Mrs. Rufus J. Hall, 217 Peach, $100.

Permission was granted to Willie Wilson for a $2,600 addition to his residence at 106 S. 23rd St.

Receiving permits to demolish frame residences were J. J. Harper, near Winnsboro Road, and Annie Mae Smith, 3921 Dunlop.

BEN T. BOGARD, Dean of the School of Engineering, Louisiana, Tech, Ruston, will speak to the Rotary Club of West Monroe Tuesday at the Highland Park Country Club. His subject will be "Industrial and Educational Developments in the South."

Horse Kicks Youth Fatally Near Natchez

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — Roland Arnold, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Arnold of the Cranfield Community eight miles north of Natchez, was fatally kicked by a horse at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Lonnie Davis, owner of the Cranfield Store, said the accident occurred at a horse lot at the rear of his store. He said young Arnold was assisting him in placing a saddle on the horse.

Arnold struck the horse with his cap, Davis said, and the animal kicked the teenager in the chest. Davis said he rushed Arnold to the Jeff Davis Memorial Hospital here, but that the youth was dead on arrival from chest injuries.

An inquest was held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Laird Funeral Home by Adams County Coroner R. E. Smith. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death "as a result of having been kicked by a horse."

Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. today at the Providence Baptist Church in Franklin County near Meadville, Miss. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Paul Arnold of Cranfield; two sisters, Mrs. Linnie Lee Ervin, Union Church, Miss., and Mrs. Daisy Ladney, Meadville, Miss.

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) —Red stickers that shine in the dark are being placed on the front doors of all Worcester homes where there are invalids.

Hot Issues Await School Boards Meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Several controversial resolutions will be considered by the Louisiana School Boards Association at its annual meeting here Jan. 12-14.

A Baton Rouge School Board member wants the Association to oppose federal aid to education.

And the St. Landry Parish School Board wants the association to favor abolition of college scholarships granted by state legislators and other officials.

The list of resolutions to be considered by the association includes two other hot ones offered by the St. Landry School Board.

These would support efforts to repeal a state law forcing all insurance firms to offer coverage of public property at identical rates; and seek amendments of the teacher tenure law to allow one per cent of teachers to be fired as incompetents.

Lloyd J. Rockhold, member of the East Baton Rouge Parish School Board, proposed the resolution against federal aid to the schools. His resolution also would support efforts to teach the American heritage in Louisiana schools.

The Evangeline Parish School Board has a resolution seeking legislation to clarify and restore compulsory school attendance. In 1960, the legislature ended compulsory attendance as a move against desegregation of the schools.

The Jefferson Parish School Board seeks a study of modern teacher education, and wants legislation to spell out the right of home rule in determining the size of parish school boards and election procedures.

The Jefferson School Board Board also calls for distribution of state school funds on a current basis, and for revission of the state equalization formula for more equitable distribution.

Another Jefferson resolution proposes that school taxes be excluded from tax exemptions on new industry construction and major remodeling projects.

TWO FOR ONE

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Col. Philip Loofburrow of Stead Air Force Base will debate anyone who says you can't kill two birds with one stone.

While hunting in Elko County; Loofburrow sighted four deer darting into the brush. He took aim from 400 yards away with his 30-06 and fired one round. Two deer fled.

Loofburrow rushed to the brush and found the other two dead — both hit in the head with the single bullet.

MAIL RENEWALS URGED

Peak Season Near On Auto Licenses

Increasing numbers of motorists have been filling the Monroe district office of the Louisiana Department of Revenue during the past few days as the formal period for renewal of auto license plates climbs toward its peak.

With about a month remaining before the Feb. 6 deadline, District Manager Fred Ussery Jr. urges the public to make full use of the "renewal-by-mail" program.

"As more and more people become aware of the deadline and begin purchasing their 1964-65 tags," Ussery said, "our facilities and personnel are under an increasing handicap to serve all comers."

"We have neither the parking nor the waiting space at the local office to accommodate everyone if they personally come to the office during the next month," he explained.

"By using the mail system, motorists avoid parking problems, waiting in line, hurrying and unnecessary delays."

Applications for the renewal-by-mail service can be obtained from many local service stations or at the revenue office at 611 N. 3rd St.

Ussery also announced that temporary offices will be set up during the last three weeks of the renewal period in parish throughout the Monroe district, which coincides with the Fifth Congressional District.

January 16 is the opening date for these branches which will serve car owners all over the area.

In West Monroe, the license plate headquarters will be at Claiborne Fire Station No. 3. The office will be open the full three weeks from Jan. 16 — Feb. 6, keeping the same hours as the main office in Monroe, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Others throughout the district are as follows:

To be open Jan. 16—Feb. 6, Monday through Saturday noon: Caldwell Parish, Columbia, courthouse; Jackson Parish, Jonesboro, courthouse; Madison Parish, Tallulah, city hall; Morehouse Parish, Bastrop, courthouse; Tensas Parish, St. Joseph, courthouse; Union Parish, Farmerville, courthouse.

To be open on special days, Jan. 16 — Feb. 6: Concordia Parish, Ferriday, American Legion Hall, Monday through Wednesday and Feb. 6; Vidalia, courthouse, Thursday, Friday and one-half day Saturday; East Carroll Parish, Lake Providence, courthouse, Monday through Wednesday; Franklin Parish, Winnsboro, courthouse, Monday through Friday; Richland Parish, Rayville, courthouse, Monday, Tuesday, Friday and one-half day Saturday; Delhi, recreation hall, Wednesday and Thursday; Mangham, city hall, Saturday afternoon only; West Carroll Parish, Oak Grove, courthouse, Thursday through Saturday.

To be open other days: Catahoula Parish, Harrisonburg, courthouse, Jan. 16-18; Jonesville, city hall, Jan. 22 — Feb. 6; Sicily Island, public health center, Jan. 20-21; Lincoln Parish, Ruston, courthouse, Jan. 2 — Feb. 6.

All parishes with the exception of Catahoula and Concordia will receive the "F" plates issued by the Monroe district office. These two parishes will draw their tags from Alexandria, and these plates will bear the letter "E."

Under the new code system, Louisiana license plates are lettered to correspond with the State Police troop which serves the area. Although Catahoula and Concordia parishes fall within the boundaries of the Fifth Congressional District and the Monroe district revenue office, they are in the area of Troop E of the State Police and will be issued "E" tags.

TWO FOR ONE

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Col. Philip Loofburrow of Stead Air Force Base will debate anyone who says you can't kill two birds with one stone.

While hunting in Elko County; Loofburrow sighted four deer darting into the brush. He took aim from 400 yards away with his 30-06 and fired one round. Two deer fled.

Loofburrow rushed to the brush and found the other two dead — both hit in the head with the single bullet.

MAIL RENEWALS URGED

Peak Season Near On Auto Licenses

Increasing numbers of motorists have been filling the Monroe district office of the Louisiana Department of Revenue during the past few days as the formal period for renewal of auto license plates climbs toward its peak.

With about a month remaining before the Feb. 6 deadline, District Manager Fred Ussery Jr. urges the public to make full use of the "renewal-by-mail" program.

"As more and more people become aware of the deadline and begin purchasing their 1964-65 tags," Ussery said, "our facilities and personnel are under an increasing handicap to serve all comers."

"We have neither the parking nor the waiting space at the local office to accommodate everyone if they personally come to the office during the next month," he explained.

"By using the mail system, motorists avoid parking problems, waiting in line, hurrying and unnecessary delays."

Applications for the renewal-by-mail service can be obtained from many local service stations or at the revenue office at 611 N. 3rd St.

Ussery also announced that temporary offices will be set up during the last three weeks of the renewal period in parish throughout the Monroe district, which coincides with the Fifth Congressional District.

January 16 is the opening date for these branches which will serve car owners all over the area.

In West Monroe, the license plate headquarters will be at Claiborne Fire Station No. 3. The office will be open the full three weeks from Jan. 16 — Feb. 6, keeping the same hours as the main office in Monroe, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Others throughout the district are as follows:

To be open Jan. 16—Feb. 6, Monday through Saturday noon: Caldwell Parish, Columbia, courthouse; Jackson Parish, Jonesboro, courthouse; Madison Parish, Tallulah, city hall; Morehouse Parish, Bastrop, courthouse; Tensas Parish, St. Joseph, courthouse; Union Parish, Farmerville, courthouse.

To be open on special days, Jan. 16 — Feb. 6: Concordia Parish, Ferriday, American Legion Hall, Monday through Wednesday and Feb. 6; Vidalia, courthouse, Thursday, Friday and one-half day Saturday; East Carroll Parish, Lake Providence, courthouse, Monday through Wednesday; Franklin Parish, Winnsboro, courthouse, Monday through Friday; Richland Parish, Rayville, courthouse, Monday, Tuesday, Friday and one-half day Saturday; Delhi, recreation hall, Wednesday and Thursday; Mangham, city hall, Saturday afternoon only; West Carroll Parish, Oak Grove, courthouse, Thursday through Saturday.

To be open other days: Catahoula Parish, Harrisonburg, courthouse, Jan. 16-18; Jonesville, city hall, Jan. 22 — Feb. 6; Sicily Island, public health center, Jan. 20-21; Lincoln Parish, Ruston, courthouse, Jan. 2 — Feb. 6.

All parishes with the exception of Catahoula and Concordia will receive the "F" plates issued by the Monroe district office. These two parishes will draw their tags from Alexandria, and these plates will bear the letter "E."

Under the new code system, Louisiana license plates are lettered to correspond with the State Police troop which serves the area. Although Catahoula and Concordia parishes fall within the boundaries of the Fifth Congressional District and the Monroe district revenue office, they are in the area of Troop E of the State Police and will be issued "E" tags.

CAREER TOYS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Providing a child with the right toys at the right time can be an important factor in whether he becomes a future engineer or scientist, according to a recent article in "Mechanical Engineering" magazine. New Science toys are important in developing skills because "the essence of science and engineering is 'doing' by means of experiments," wrote Hy Ruchlis, general manager of Science Materials Center, Inc., author of the article.

PROVES GIRLS HOTTER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Sheila McMorris ,an attractive 18-year-old brunette, can prove girls are "hotter" than boys. She's invented an infra-red machine that will record heat radiation and, she says, when girls walk by they get a higher reading than boys.

"It's not because they're really hotter," Sheila admits, "In the clothes they wear they expose more skin, which gives off more heat for the machine to record."

Sheila will demonstrate her device, made of an auto headlamp, on the ABC-TV "Science All-Stars" program Jan. 12.

State School Board Meeting Set This Month

NEW ORLEANS (Special)—Northeast Louisianas will be well represented at the 27th annual convention of the Louisiana School Boards Association meeting here Jan. 12-14.

Strangled Body Of Girl Found In Boston Room

BOSTON (AP)—A 19-year-old girl was found strangled in her apartment near Beacon Hill on Saturday night, the 13th female strangling victim in eastern Massachusetts in 19 months.

Within an hour after discovery of the victim's nude body, police in suburban Newton picked up an 18-year-old youth who had boasted, "I'm wanted for murder."

Police said the girl may have been raped.

Miss Mary Ellen Sullivan, the victim, shared an apartment on Charles Street with two other girls. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sullivan of Hyannis, on Cape Cod.

The youth in Newton was arrested after two young women told police they were forced at knife point to drive a man from the Boston Common underground garage to Newton.

Miss Christine Tracy, 25, and her sister, Elizabeth, 16, both of suburban Belmont, told police the youth got out of their car after stealing $5 from them. As he left the car, the girls said, he threatened them, adding: "I'm wanted for murder."

Miss Sullivan's apartment is only about three blocks from the Boston Common garage which faces on Charles Street.

The girl's body was discovered by her two roommates, Misses Pamela Parker, 18, and Patricia Delmore, 19, upon their return from work in a downtown department store.

Bankers, Businessmen Predict '64 Twin City Area Gains

ture business activity, hitting a new high of more than $101 million, up approximately $7 million over 1962.

The Twin Cities' four building and loan banks also registered important gains in 1963, altogether adding $7.6 million to total assets, which spurted to a record $81.1 million.

Significantly, shares, or deposits, had risen by $9 million to $72.8 million overall. Loans were up to $70.1 million, or $5.9 million over 1962's total of $64.2 million for the four.

In the manufacturing industry, taking West Monroe's Olin Mathieson as an example, the 1963 picture also was bright, and in the words of Forest Products Operation General Manager M. H. Collet "a year of significant progress."

Olin, which pours an approximately $11 million per year payroll into the area economy, achieved five per cent higher sales in 1963, despite generally lower price levels for kraft paper products.

As well, according to Collet, "the outlook for 1964 is optimistic. Price levels for roll stock and converted products, which were at generally depressed levels in the early months of 1963, strengthened significantly during the last quarter of the year.

"Operating rates (per cent utilization of capacity) improved during the year for the Southern kraft industry."

Collet quoted industry economists in predicting further improvement in 1964 of operating rates, and forecast an expected increase in demand for kraft paper and board of four to five per cent.

"Demand for Olin's lumber products was likewise strong in 1963," he said. "With housing starts holding at a high rate in the closing months of the year, the outlook for lumber, oak floring and treated products is favorable for the coming year."

A major addition to Olin's West Monroe facilities during 1963 was a new coater-laminator, now operating on an experimental basis, which will provide a wide variety of special grades of coated and laminated paper products.

Collet outlined plans for expansion in 1964:

"Production capacity of the pulp and paper mill will be increased from its present rate of 700 tons per day to 1000 tons per day. As part of the modernization of the mill, the existing pulping equipment will be entirely replaced with modern continuous digesters. The chemical recovery system will be expanded and modernized. A modern, high-speed paper and paperboard machine will be installed in a new building adjacent to the existing paper mill, with a capacity to produce 500 tons per day of kraft products."

Also under construction is a new effluent disposal system for the new mill. The system will allow the effluent load on the Ouachita River to be reduced substantially despite the increased production rate of the new mill.

According to the Olin official, much of the process water for the new facility will be obtained from the river, allowing the firm to reduce the amount of water now taken from its deep wells in West Monroe.

"This phase of the modernization program will materially benefit the city of West Monroe, which draws its water from the same underground strata," said Collet.

In connection with local developments for increased raw production, converting facilities in mid-western market areas are being upgraded to accommodate heavier loads.

Included with it were Monroe's $11¼ million capital improvement program, another big year in the auto industry (Detroit car makers recorded their biggest year in 1963 since 1955 when 7,000,000 units were produced), and work on the nine-foot channel porject for the Ouachita River.

As well, "farmers have enjoyed the finest crops they've had in 25 years and have gone further toward getting out of debt and starting afresh than during any year in the past 30 or 35," Roberson declared.

"Another indication of growth is the recent addition of four-engine plane service to the Twin Cities and this would not have been done if it had not been justified," he said.

As for the bank, Roberson described it has having enjoyed "various and substantial growth, both in the number of depositors and in earnings."

"More and more people are coming to the area," he said. "The First National is gaining from 300 to 500 new customers a year, besides the nearly 6,000 accounts we now serve."

Conway Crossland, president of Central Bank, found 1963 a "good year, despite early forecasts of increasing unemployment and a rather sharp recession in many industrial centers.

"A particularly bright spot," he said, "was the marked growth of Monroe and West Monroe as a trade center for northeast Louisiana and Southeast Arkansas. The growth of Northeast Louisiana State College and the transfer of many families from other areas to Monroe and West Monroe by several large corporations also contributed heavily to our progress during the year."

He continued that "indications for 1964 look very favorable to us, particularly if the federal income tax reduction bill is passed early in the year." Crossland, too, viewed the farm picture optimistically — "Much of the 1963 crop money has not yet shown up in the market place but should begin to appear early in the year."

Elsewhere, he found that "new suburban shopping centers scheduled for completion in 1964 will add further to the attractiveness of the area as a retail trade center." Also, "construction to increase the capacity of Monroe's electric and water distribution system is scheduled to begin in 1964," and "residential construction, especially better homes and high grade apartment units should improve after a rather dull 1963."

Ouachita Bank President R. L. Banderpool Jr. said that "the growth in our deposits in 1963 is a direct reflection of the good general business conditions prevailing in our area."

Noting agriculture's success, he went on to declare, "Retail sales were very satisfactory although intensified competition had some effect on profits in particular fields.

"As we enter 1964, I am quite confident that it will be equally as good or better than 1963," Vanderpool concluded.

The bank officials' statements were borne out in interviews spokesmen for representative businesses:

President of a large department store reported Christmas, 1963, better than the previous year's, but noted little change in the year overall.

He hopes for a four to five per cent better year in 1964, noting that while there were six less shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas in 1963, "there will be six more in 1964."

In the jewelry business, 1963 was about like 1962, according to one representative. A slightly better Christmas would have been much better "except for the snow and ice which gave a lot of the business to small merchants outside town." However, he noted that much "cash showed up in the agriculture segment in December and much still is appearing."

The spokesman, a store manager, was optimistic for 1964, because of the change in presidents nationally and a "personal barometer" which says that "a good, free-buying, cash-buying Christmas season is an indication of a good year following it."

In women's clothing, a West Monroe store owner recorded an approximately three per cent better year in 1963 and expects about the same experience in 1964. "Christmas was a little better, but not substantially, because of the primary election in December, the president's assassination just before and bad weather," he said.

Early '64 business is expected to be good. Spring shoes and fashions already have arrived and preparations are near completion for big seasonal buying.

Manager of a representative novelty store described his year as "about the same," and said business suffered badly due to the late December weather. "Christmas was being counted on to neutralize early losses," he said. However, "a slight gain is expected in 1964 in the profit picture, as well as in volume of sales."

Locally in the automobile market, the sales manager of one of the parish's largest dealerships called 1963 "a real good year."

This despite the fact that new car sales were down slightly. Overshadowing that factor was "greatly improved truck sales and overall profits about 10 per cent above 1962."

December sales were under December, 1962, though business immediately following Christmas surpassed that of the month's first three weeks. 1964, the spokesman said, also should be "a real good year."

In line with these reports was the fact that in fiscal 1962-63, including six months of 1963, Louisiana sales tax receipts in Ouachita Parish were up to $3,434-841.15.

In the 11-month period between December, 1962, and November, 1963, the same collections in the parish amounted to $3,191,483, compared with $3,033,518, the year before.

Buying power in the Twin Cities during the year surged forward to reach in excess of $1,600 per capita, or an average of more than $5400 per household. More than 11 per cent of the households were in the $10,000 and above bracket.

Train Collision Kills Sixty-Two

BELGRADE (UPI) — Sixty-two persons died Saturday when a highballing express flashed through a red signal light in fog and plowed into a stationary passenger train at a suburban railroad station.

An official communique said 162 other persons were injured, and 72 of them admitted to hospitals.

Most of the victims were peasants and soldiers, bound for their homes on leave on the overnight trains.

All day rescue teams crawled and cut their way into 16 wrecked coaches, eight of them de-railed. They found a pitiful jumble of bodies and twisted metal.

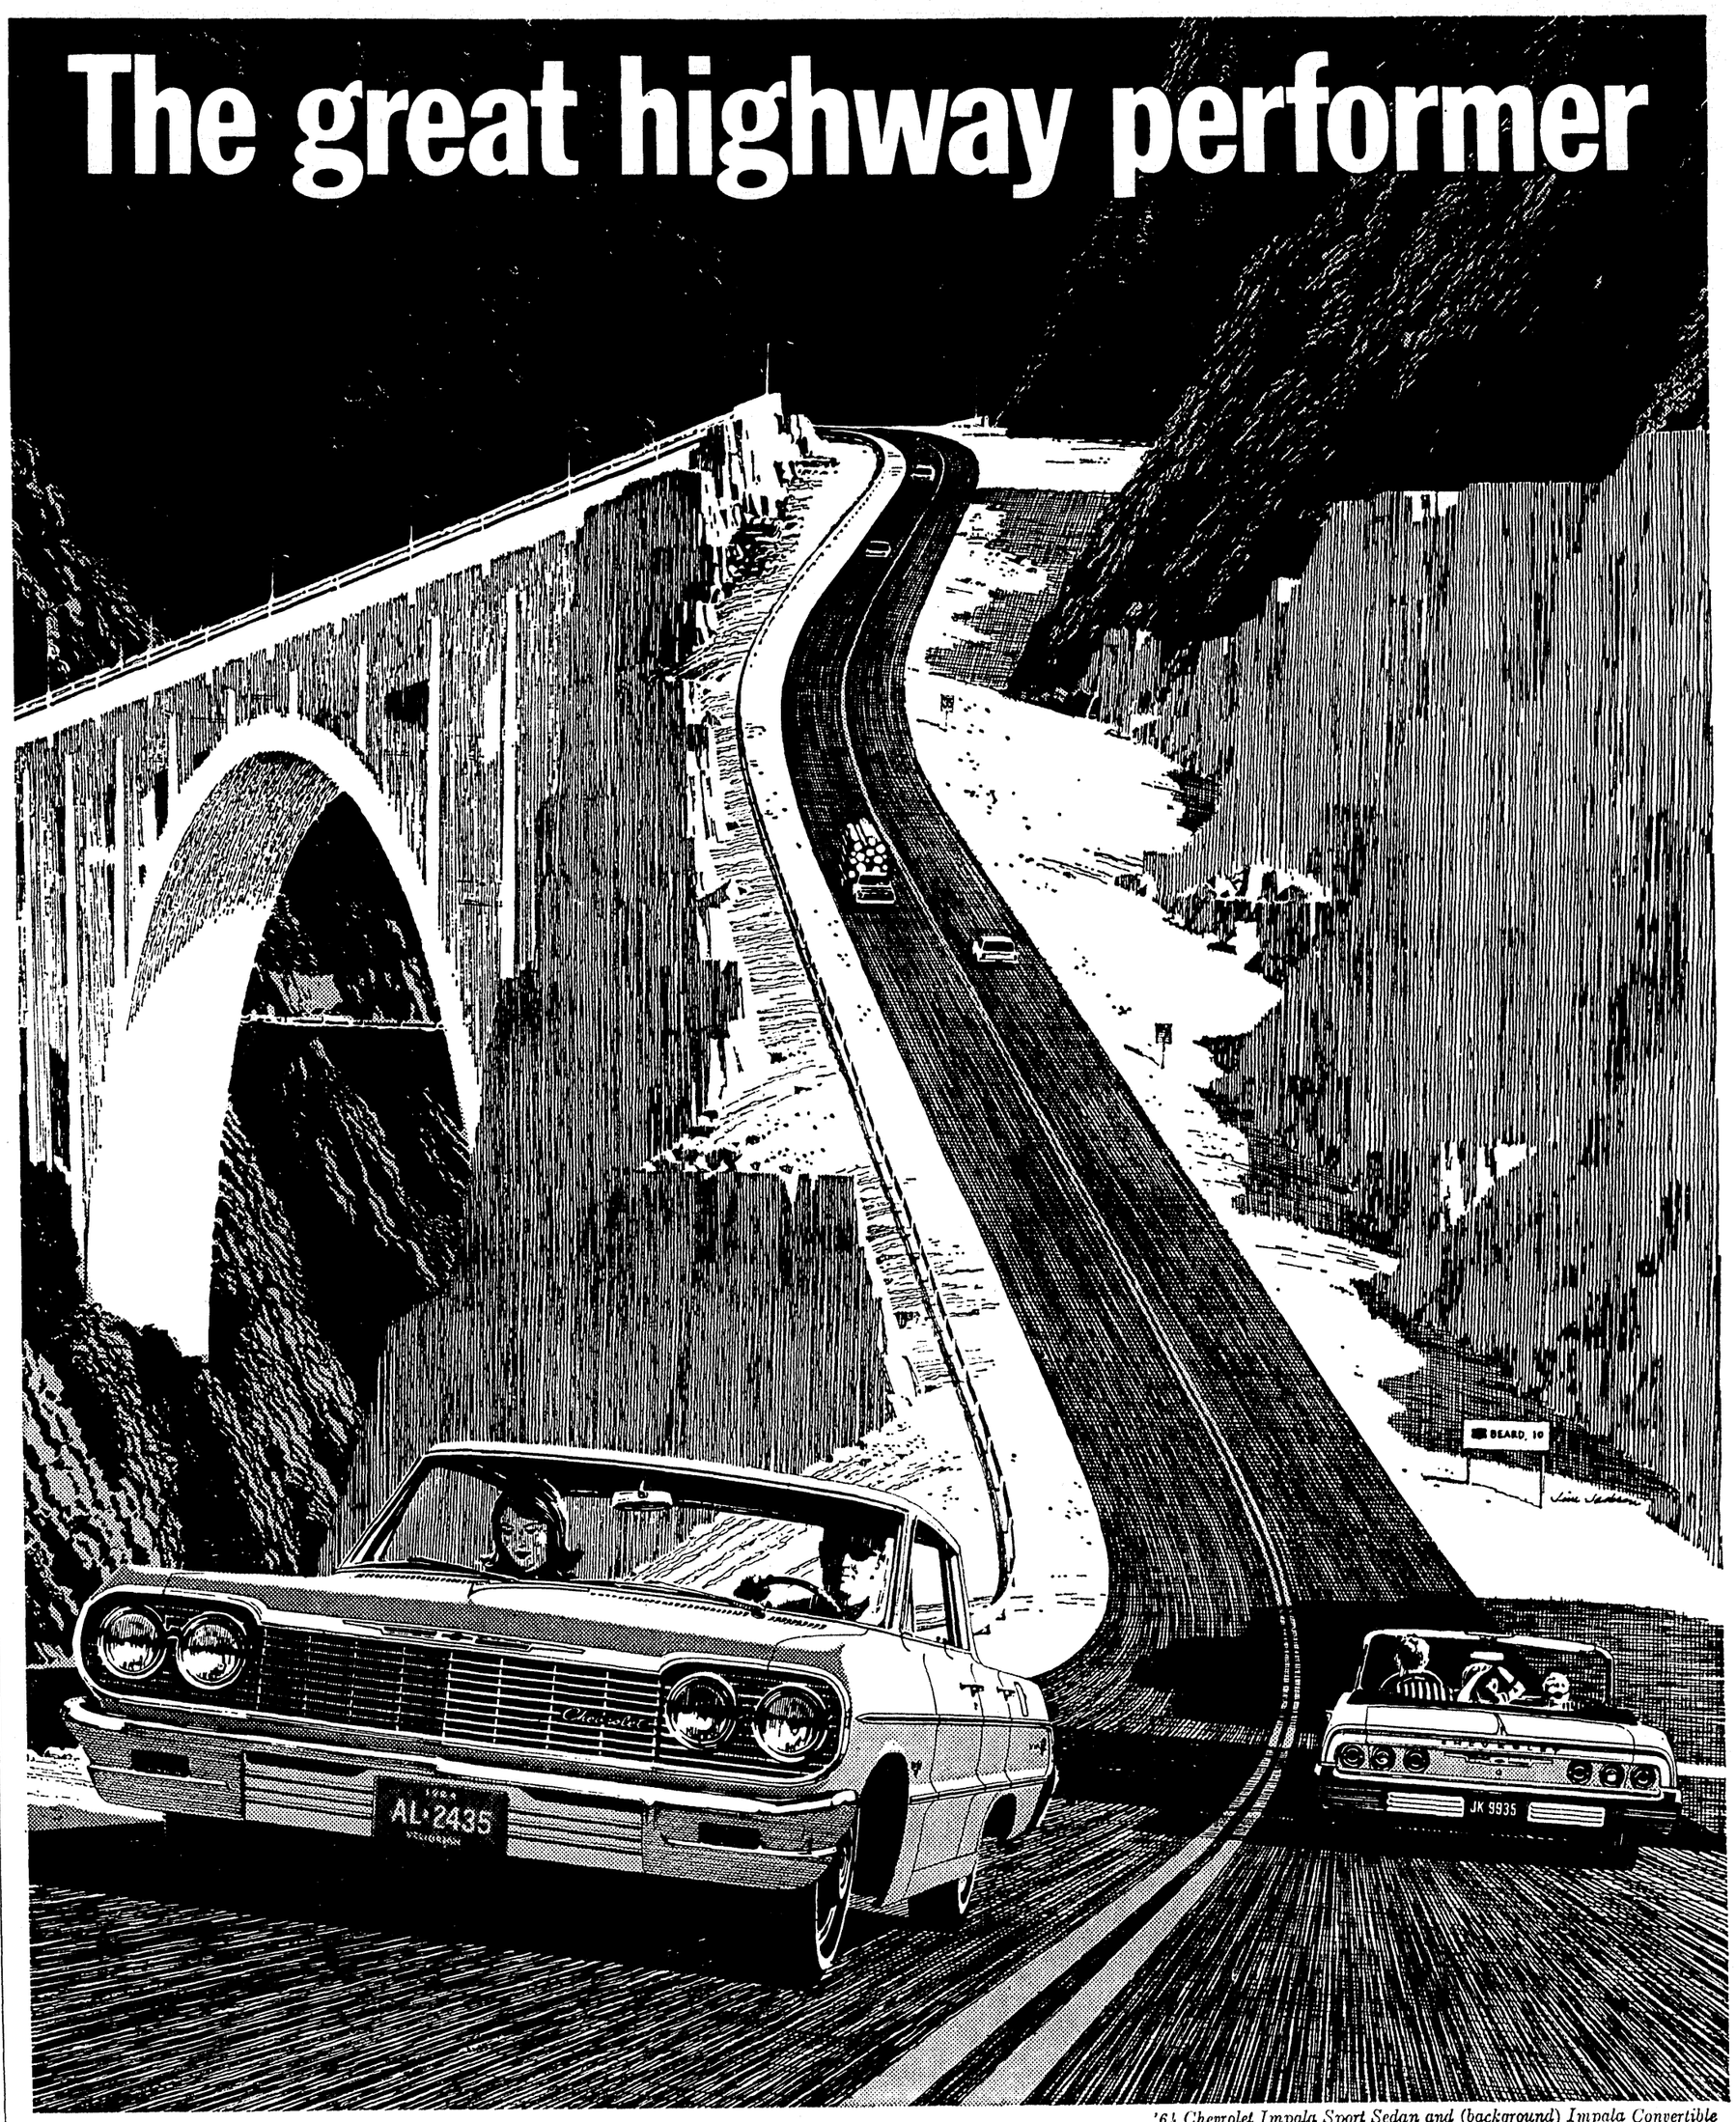
The great highway performer



'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan and (background) Impala Convertible

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. They were built to be driven by you—on the kinds of roads you drive on.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Which, after all, is the kind of performance you'd expect from Chevrolet. The greater satisfaction and enjoyment built into these cars is borne out, year after year, by the higher resale they bring over other makes in their field.

ture business activity, hitting a new high of more than $101 million, up approximately $7 million over 1962.

The Twin Cities' four building and loan banks also registered important gains in 1963, altogether adding $7.6 million to total assets, which spurted to a record $81.1 million.

Significantly, shares, or deposits, had risen by $9 million to $72.8 million overall. Loans were up to $70.1 million, or $5.9 million over 1962's total of $64.2 million for the four.

In the manufacturing industry, taking West Monroe's Olin Mathieson as an example, the 1963 picture also was bright, and in the words of Forest Products Operation General Manager M. H. Collet "a year of significant progress."

Olin, which pours an approximately $11 million per year payroll into the area economy, achieved five per cent higher sales in 1963, despite generally lower price levels for kraft paper products.

As well, according to Collet, "the outlook for 1964 is optimistic. Price levels for roll stock and converted products, which were at generally depressed levels in the early months of 1963, strengthened significantly during the last quarter of the year.

"Operating rates (per cent utilization of capacity) improved during the year for the Southern kraft industry."

Collet quoted industry economists in predicting further improvement in 1964 of operating rates, and forecast an expected increase in demand for kraft paper and board of four to five per cent.

"Demand for Olin's lumber products was likewise strong in 1963," he said. "With housing starts holding at a high rate in the closing months of the year, the outlook for lumber, oak floring and treated products is favorable for the coming year."

A major addition to Olin's West Monroe facilities during 1963 was a new coater-laminator, now operating on an experimental basis, which will provide a wide variety of special grades of coated and laminated paper products.

Collet outlined plans for expansion in 1964:

"Production capacity of the pulp and paper mill will be increased from its present rate of 700 tons per day to 1000 tons per day. As part of the modernization of the mill, the existing pulping equipment will be entirely replaced with modern continuous digesters. The chemical recovery system will be expanded and modernized. A modern, high-speed paper and paperboard machine will be installed in a new building adjacent to the existing paper mill, with a capacity to produce 500 tons per day of kraft products."

Also under construction is a new effluent disposal system for the new mill. The system will allow the effluent load on the Ouachita River to be reduced substantially despite the increased production rate of the new mill.

According to the Olin official, much of the process water for the new facility will be obtained from the river, allowing the firm to reduce the amount of water now taken from its deep wells in West Monroe.

"This phase of the modernization program will materially benefit the city of West Monroe, which draws its water from the same underground strata," said Collet.

In connection with local developments for increased raw production, converting facilities in mid-western market areas are being upgraded to accommodate heavier loads.

Included with it were Monroe's $11¼ million capital improvement program, another big year in the auto industry (Detroit car makers recorded their biggest year in 1963 since 1955 when 7,000,000 units were produced), and work on the nine-foot channel porject for the Ouachita River.

As well, "farmers have enjoyed the finest crops they've had in 25 years and have gone further toward getting out of debt and starting afresh than during any year in the past 30 or 35," Roberson declared.

"Another indication of growth is the recent addition of four-engine plane service to the Twin Cities and this would not have been done if it had not been justified," he said.

As for the bank, Roberson described it has having enjoyed "various and substantial growth, both in the number of depositors and in earnings."

"More and more people are coming to the area," he said. "The First National is gaining from 300 to 500 new customers a year, besides the nearly 6,000 accounts we now serve."

Conway Crossland, president of Central Bank, found 1963 a "good year, despite early forecasts of increasing unemployment and a rather sharp recession in many industrial centers.

"A particularly bright spot," he said, "was the marked growth of Monroe and West Monroe as a trade center for northeast Louisiana and Southeast Arkansas. The growth of Northeast Louisiana State College and the transfer of many families from other areas to Monroe and West Monroe by several large corporations also contributed heavily to our progress during the year."

He continued that "indications for 1964 look very favorable to us, particularly if the federal income tax reduction bill is passed early in the year." Crossland, too, viewed the farm picture optimistically — "Much of the 1963 crop money has not yet shown up in the market place but should begin to appear early in the year."

Elsewhere, he found that "new suburban shopping centers scheduled for completion in 1964 will add further to the attractiveness of the area as a retail trade center." Also, "construction to increase the capacity of Monroe's electric and water distribution system is scheduled to begin in 1964," and "residential construction, especially better homes and high grade apartment units should improve after a rather dull 1963."

Ouachita Bank President R. L. Banderpool Jr. said that "the growth in our deposits in 1963 is a direct reflection of the good general business conditions prevailing in our area."

Noting agriculture's success, he went on to declare, "Retail sales were very satisfactory although intensified competition had some effect on profits in particular fields.

"As we enter 1964, I am quite confident that it will be equally as good or better than 1963," Vanderpool concluded.

The bank officials' statements were borne out in interviews spokesmen for representative businesses:

President of a large department store reported Christmas, 1963, better than the previous year's, but noted little change in the year overall.

He hopes for a four to five per cent better year in 1964, noting that while there were six less shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas in 1963, "there will be six more in 1964."

In the jewelry business, 1963 was about like 1962, according to one representative. A slightly better Christmas would have been much better "except for the snow and ice which gave a lot of the business to small merchants outside town." However, he noted that much "cash showed up in the agriculture segment in December and much still is appearing."

The spokesman, a store manager, was optimistic for 1964, because of the change in presidents nationally and a "personal barometer" which says that "a good, free-buying, cash-buying Christmas season is an indication of a good year following it."

In women's clothing, a West Monroe store owner recorded an approximately three per cent better year in 1963 and expects about the same experience in 1964. "Christmas was a little better, but not substantially, because of the primary election in December, the president's assassination just before and bad weather," he said.

Early '64 business is expected to be good. Spring shoes and fashions already have arrived and preparations are near completion for big seasonal buying.

Manager of a representative novelty store described his year as "about the same," and said business suffered badly due to the late December weather. "Christmas was being counted on to neutralize early losses," he said. However, "a slight gain is expected in 1964 in the profit picture, as well as in volume of sales."

Locally in the automobile market, the sales manager of one of the parish's largest dealerships called 1963 "a real good year."

This despite the fact that new car sales were down slightly. Overshadowing that factor was "greatly improved truck sales and overall profits about 10 per cent above 1962."

December sales were under December, 1962, though business immediately following Christmas surpassed that of the month's first three weeks. 1964, the spokesman said, also should be "a real good year."

In line with these reports was the fact that in fiscal 1962-63, including six months of 1963, Louisiana sales tax receipts in Ouachita Parish were up to $3,434-841.15.

In the 11-month period between December, 1962, and November, 1963, the same collections in the parish amounted to $3,191,483, compared with $3,033,518, the year before.

Buying power in the Twin Cities during the year surged forward to reach in excess of $1,600 per capita, or an average of more than $5400 per household. More than 11 per cent of the households were in the $10,000 and above bracket.

Train Collision Kills Sixty-Two

BELGRADE (UPI) — Sixty-two persons died Saturday when a highballing express flashed through a red signal light in fog and plowed into a stationary passenger train at a suburban railroad station.

An official communique said 162 other persons were injured, and 72 of them admitted to hospitals.

Most of the victims were peasants and soldiers, bound for their homes on leave on the overnight trains.

All day rescue teams crawled and cut their way into 16 wrecked coaches, eight of them de-railed. They found a pitiful jumble of bodies and twisted metal.

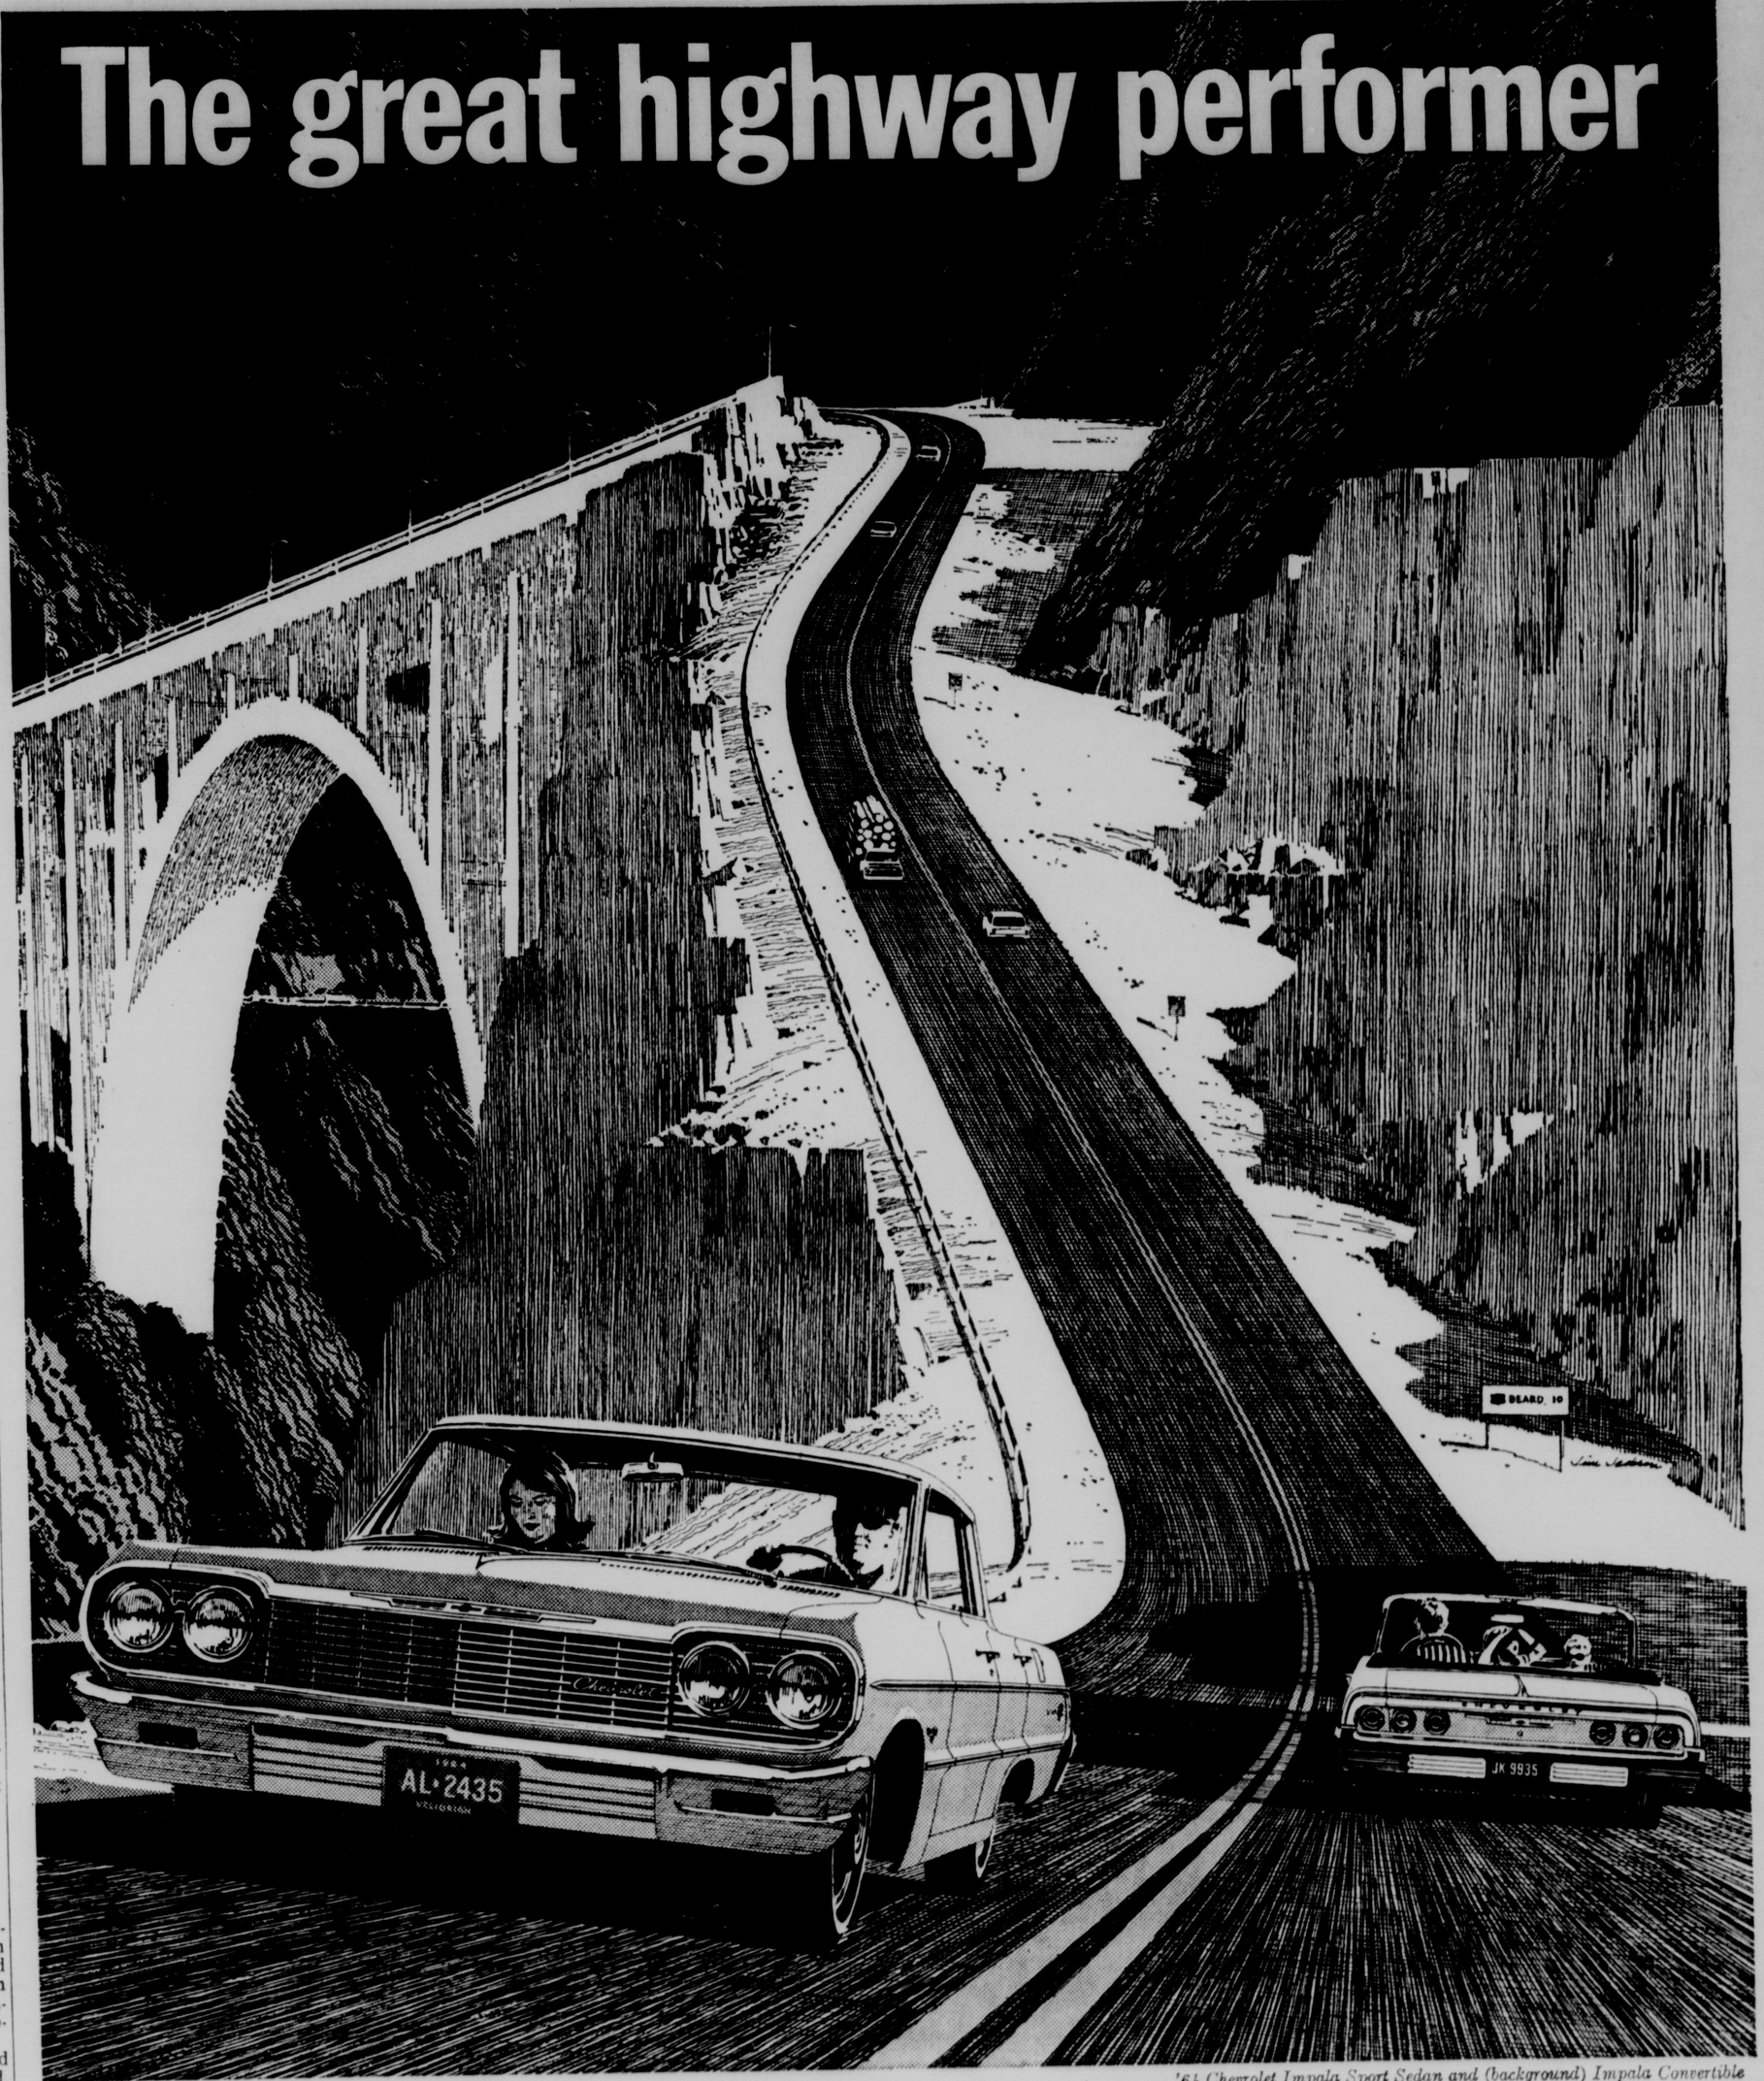
The great highway performer



'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan and (background) Impala Convertible

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. They were built to be driven by you—on the kinds of roads you drive on.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Which, after all, is the kind of performance you'd expect from Chevrolet. The greater satisfaction and enjoyment built into these cars is borne out, year after year, by the higher resale they bring over other makes in their field.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet. *Optional at extra cost

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — "Pillows" and electric blankets have been combined to provide not comfortable sleeping, but readily available water for persons living in Arctic regions.

The "pillows" actually are "Pillow Tanks," The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's name for its huge rubberized fabric containers shaped like pillows, in which water or other liquids can be stored. The "electric blankets" are heating pads placed around the tanks to keep the contents from freezing when used in frigid areas. The whole system's compact size allows it to be used in air lift operations or moved easily to remote regions.

Franklin Parish Suspects Held After Break-ins

WINNSBORO (Special) — Two Franklin Parish men are being held on bonds of $2,500 each in connection with a series of break ins and burglaries here early Saturday morning.

In custody in the Franklin Parish jail are James Byrnes, 21, of Winnsboro and George Humphries, 20, of Rt. 2, Winnsboro. According to parish sheriff A. J. Stephens, Byrnes confessed to the charge of breaking and entering and burglary. Humphries denies the incidents, said Stephens.

According to sheriff's department officials and Winnsboro police, six business establishments were entered and three others were tried but not entered. A. W. (Buddy) Wright, city marshal, said that small change, cigarettes, and perhaps other items were taken from Priest's Grocery and the following service stations: Williams Esso, Elrod Lion Oil, Quality Oil No. 4, Fivepoint, and Economy.

Wright said that entry was gained to the buildings by breaking glass on windows or doors. He listed United Dollar Store, Walters Department Store and Franklin Motor Co., as being subjected to attempted entry. Window and door glasses were also broken at these place he said.

Investigating officers, in reconstructing the incidents, said that they found blood at the scene of some of the break-ins. Byrnes had a fresh cut on his left finger and wrist, they said.

The men were apprehended at 11 a.m. Saturday about five miles north of Winnsboro where they were attempting to pull their automobile out of a roadside ditch.

CONCORDIA PARISH

Hospital Slated To Open In Area

FERRIDAY (Special) — Concordia Parish's new million dollar hospital will open its doors to patients Jan. 29, announced James D. Putnam, hospital administrator.

An open house is slated for Jan. 26 at the modern concrete and steel structure on the Ferriday-Clayton highway about one half mile from Ferriday.

The hospital, financed in part with federal funds, is built on 10 acres of ground donated to the parish by the family of the late A. B. Learnerd of Natchez, Miss. The building, buckskin colored curtain - wall with a white, blue and brown interior, houses 42 private and four semi-private beds. Landscaping was done by a Monroe firm hired by the Ferriday Garden Club.

According to Putnam the hospital will employ over 40 persons and will have a monthly payroll of over $95,000.

The chief of staff will be Dr. H. H. Ratcliff Sr. His son, Dr. H. H. Ratcliff Jr. and Dr. Charles Colvin will be surgeons while general practitioners will be doctors Herman Gibson Jr. parish coroner; Eugene Voet Jr.; Kenneth Killen; L. P. Coleman; and William Polk.

Others on the staff include Dr. Walter Colbert and Dr. James Krestensen, radiologists; Dr. Leo Scanlon laboratory pathologist; Dr. Jack Phillips, orthopedic surgeon; Dr. Sidney Graves, urologist; Dr. William Pearson, anesthetist; Mrs. Jean Milliken, supervisor of nurses; and Bert Haydell, physical therapist.

Rounding out the staff will be seven registered nurses, 14 licensed practical nurses, 6 nurse's aides, 2 laboratory technicians and an X-ray technician.

Special equipment and features of the hospital include an "intensive care unit" and recovery room with four beds; a heart defribolator and pacemaker; an Armstrong isolation incubator; a 10 - bassinet nursery and a blood bank.

The Ferriday Women's Club donated $250 to the hospital for purchase of equipment, reported Putnam.

Chairman of the hospital's board of directors is O. R. Rhodes of Monterey. Members include Gerald Delauen, Ferriday; C. B. Nichols and W. F. Johnson, Vidalia; and Williard Schuchs, Frogmore.

Construction on the hospital was started in August, 1962. The work was contracted by Robert Thibodeaux and Son Co., of Baton Rouge.

Civil Defense Course Slated Here In March

BATON ROUGE (Special)—A radiological monitoring course will be held in Monroe March 11.

Statewide, 11 Civil Defense courses to train persons as instructors in shelter management and radiological monitoring are schuedled during the next three months.

No shelter management course is scheduled in Monroe.

The radiological monitoring course provides training for instructors in the detection of radioactive materials using special instruments such as geiger counters, survey meters and dosimeters.

The instruction also furnishes necessary technical background for advanced training as radiological defense officers.

The classes will cover areas such as the basic concepts of nuclear science, effects of nuclear weapons and effects of fallout and radiation.

To qualify for the course, a person must agree to instruct others if requested. Teaching experience or leadership experience with adult groups is desirable.

Applicants should have some training or equivalent experience in college-level general or physical science and a working knowledge of college algebra.

More information may be obtained from the Louisiana Civil Defense Agency representatives in the various areas of the state.

'Super Squire' Among Gentry

By EDDY GILMORE

GALWAY, Ireland (AP)—Over the years movie directors have been called a variety of names, but John Huston must be one of the very few who's called master of fox hounds.

As a master of fox hounds, Huston's entitled to put after his name those highly respected—at least in hunting circles—initials, M.F.H.

Among those who hunt the fox by riding with the hounds, M.F.H. is an exalted status symbol, for the M.F.H. is the boss of the hunt, an accomplished horseman, a big and important social figure in the community. A sort of super squire.

Movieman Huston is all of that.

GALWAY BLAZERS

He presides over the Blazers from his beautiful and exotically furnished Georgian home, St. Clerans, located in the soft Irish countryside about 18 miles from here.

Huston's association with Ireland goes back 11 years.

It was then he fell in love with this green, wet land and its amusing citizens.

"I'm fascinated and attracted by the Irish, says Huston, "And I like Irish country life."

Said his manager at St. Clerans, the handsome, witty and worldly Elizabeth (Betty) O'Kelly: "He takes great interest in local affairs. He likes the sporting gentry, the old men around the countryside — everyone. I think the way we Irish are appeals to him."

In buying, restoring and lavishly furnishing what was once little more than a ruin, Huston has erected a sort of monument to himself, a peculiar jewel of a place where he, his beautiful wife, Ricki, and their children spend some — but not all—of their time.

GOLDEN TAPS

The house is not only spectacular to look at, but comfortable to live in, with every luxury from golden bathtub taps—in the shape of graceful swan heads—to one of the country's most efficient, powerful and expensive central heating systems.

"The cost of heating this place?" sighed Miss O'Kelly. "I'd hate to tell you. It's staggering. But he wants it warm and that's the way we keep it."

Huston is a splendid and generous host and people visit him at his Irish base from all over the world—and not all of them in the orthodox manner of guests.

An elaborate practical joker, Huston once heard that his friend, the American actor and folk singer Burl Ives, was in Ireland. To one of Ireland's titled ladies and her husband, Huston described Ives as one of the world's greatest men.

CAUTIONED

"But," he cautioned, "like many great men he's eccentric. He likes to play the harp and the trouble is, well, he can't play a note. Now he's coming down here, but for our sake don't ask him to play. He'll have his harp. He takes it everywhere, but just ignore it. Remember—ignore the harp."

Locating Ives by telephone in Dublin, Huston invited him down, adding: "But Burl, find a harp somewhere."

"A harp? Where'll I get a harp in Dublin on a Sunday?"

"I don't know," said Huston, "but I repeat—don't come without a harp. Everyone here—and we've got lots of people—wants to hear you play. They're dying to hear the harp, Burl."

The accommodating and industrious Ives located a harp, rented a truck and hired two laborers to help him. Getting into the back of the truck with the harp, Ives set out to serenade his friend's guests.

EXTENDED GAG

Hours later Ives arrived. The perspiring laborers shouldered the huge harp into the hall and Burl stood there beside it—with a broad smile, ready to play.

All of the 18 guests were solemnly introduced.

"Now?" asked Burl motioning to the harp.

"Not now, later," whispered Huston.

Dinner was announced.

"Bring the harp, Burl," whispered Huston. Burl obliged, wrestling the heavy instrument into the dining room.

As dinner finished, Ives implored: "Now?"

Huston shook his head. The eyes of everyone studiously avoided the instrument beside Burl.

The gag went on all evening, and finally, when everyone but Burl had gone to bed, Burl still hadn't played. By then he was in a fit of frustration.

In telling the story, Huston recalls that about 4 a.m. he was awakened by the twanging of harp strings downstairs. Tiptoeing to the head of the stairway he looked down and saw Burl playing to himself—tears running down his cheeks.

Like Huston and his practical jokes, St. Clerans has to be seen to be believed.

For one thing it has achieved a sort of ultimate in His and Hers.

Huston occupies the main house. But 200 yards away is the elaborately and tastefully furnished house of Mrs. Huston and the children.

PACKED AWAY in trunks and boxes, the Confederate Bonds were first kept to await the time for cashing them in. Later they were shifted into the category of items of sentimental value.

OUT OF THE PAST

Sometimes old papers and documents which have no monetary value but tell an interesting story of a bygone era are uncovered in trunks, storerooms and attics. This is a report on a Confederate Bond found recently by a well-known Monroyan.

Rummaging through boxes of old family items sometimes brings fond recollections, and at other times recovers an item or two which the owner has sought for years.

Or old portraits of the family ancestors are often retrieved from the otherwise pile of "rubbish" which young members place in attic or storeroom.

Then at still other times, things are found which are of interest not only to the finder or house owner, but to all who have knowledge of the find.

OLD PAPERS

Such was the case recently when Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper began looking through some old papers which have been in the family for years. In fact, the box containing the papers had not been opened since shortly after Judge Harper's father died a number of years ago.

Among the papers, neatly folded, was a Confederate bond for $500, issued originally on February 20, 1863, bearing interest of eight per cent, and payable beginning July 1, 1868.

The loan is of no value, but the perfectly - preserved bond probably is.

But it is not the monetary value of the bond, which Judge Harper cherishes. The bond was given to his father for payment for service with the armed forces of the Confederate States of America. At the time of its issuance and when the judge's father held it, it was of monetary value.

MONEY VALUE FADED

As time passed, the monetary value faded, and finally became nil. But as time passed, other values of the bond increased.

Interest on the bond was to begin on April 15, 1863, payable in lots of $20 each January 1 and July 1 for the years following until paid in full. At the end of eleven pay periods, the remainder of the interest and face value of the bond was to be paid.

However, reverses in the War Between the States, and the eventual destruction of the Old South, resulted in the bond becoming worthless from a monetary standpoint.

Elaborately inscribed, the bond is signed by C. K. Rose, register of the Treasury, Confederate States of America. It was printed by Evans & Cogswelith of Columbia, S. Carolina. And, symbolic of the wealth built on the cotton industry, a picture of a cotton stalk in full production is printed on the bottom of the bond.

BOND WORDING

The bond reads: "Confederate States of America, No. 47702, Authorized by the Act of Congress, Confederate States of America, of February 20, 1863.

"On the 1st day of July, 1868, the Confederate States of America will pay to the Bearer of this Bond at the seat of Government or at such place of deposit as may be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon from date, at the rate of Eight per Cent per annum, Payable semi-annually on the surrender of the annexed coupons. This Contract is authorized by An Act of Congress approved February 20, 1863, Entitled An Act to authorize the issue of Bonds for funding Treasury notes and is upon the Express condition that said Confederate States from time to time extend the time of payment for any period not exceeding thirty years from this date, at the same rate of interest.

"In Witness where of the Register of the Treasury, in pursuance of said Act of Congress hath herewith set his hand and affixed the seal of the Treasury at Richmond, this 2nd day of March, 1863."

It was signed by C.K. Rose, Register of the Treasury, and entered by a person who initialed "SBD" and recorded by a "1HW."

Each of the coupons was dated and then signed by "B. B. Jones."

Attached to the back of the bond, apparently written in later years, with the hopes and thoughts of those who received the bonds of the Confederacy, was a poem which read:

THOUGHTS, HOPES

"Representing nothing on God's earth now,
And naught in the water below it—
As a pledge of the nation that's dead and gone,
Keep it dear friend, and show it—
Show it to those who will lend an ear
To the tale that this paper can tell,
Of Liberty born, of the patriot's dream —
Of the storm-cradled nation that fell.
Too poor to possess the precious ores,
And too much of a stranger to borrow,
We issued to-day our promise to pay,
An hoped to redeem on the morrow.
The days rolled on and weeks became years,
But our coffers were empty still,
Coin was so rare that the Treasury quaked,
If a dollar should drop in the till.

FAITH STRONG

But the faith that was in us was strong, indeed,
And our poverty well discerned;
And these little checks represented the pay
That our suffering volunteers earned.
We knew it had hardly a value of gold,
Yet as gold our soldiers received it;
It gazed in our eyes with a promise to pay,
And each patriot soldier believed it.
But our boys thought little of price or pay,
Or of bills that were over due;
We knew if it brought us bread to-day,
It was the best our poor country could do.
Keep it, it tells our history all over,
From the birth of its dream to the last;
Modest and born of the angel Hope,
Like the hope of success it passed.

THIS CONFEDERATE BOND for $500, issued in 1863, was given to the father of Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper, as payment for service with the armed forces of the Confederate States of America.

'Super Squire' Among Gentry

By EDDY GILMORE

GALWAY, Ireland (AP)—Over the years movie directors have been called a variety of names, but John Huston must be one of the very few who's called master of fox hounds.

As a master of fox hounds, Huston's entitled to put after his name those highly respected—at least in hunting circles—initials, M.F.H.

Among those who hunt the fox by riding with the hounds, M.F.H. is an exalted status symbol, for the M.F.H. is the boss of the hunt, an accomplished horseman, a big and important social figure in the community. A sort of super squire.

Movieman Huston is all of that.

GALWAY BLAZERS

He presides over the Blazers from his beautiful and exotically furnished Georgian home, St. Clerans, located in the soft Irish countryside about 18 miles from here.

Huston's association with Ireland goes back 11 years.

It was then he fell in love with this green, wet land and its amusing citizens.

"I'm fascinated and attracted by the Irish, says Huston, "And I like Irish country life."

Said his manager at St. Clerans, the handsome, witty and worldly Elizabeth (Betty) O'Kelly: "He takes great interest in local affairs. He likes the sporting gentry, the old men around the countryside — everyone. I think the way we Irish are appeals to him."

In buying, restoring and lavishly furnishing what was once little more than a ruin, Huston has erected a sort of monument to himself, a peculiar jewel of a place where he, his beautiful wife, Ricki, and their children spend some — but not all—of their time.

GOLDEN TAPS

The house is not only spectacular to look at, but comfortable to live in, with every luxury from golden bathtub taps—in the shape of graceful swan heads—to one of the country's most efficient, powerful and expensive central heating systems.

"The cost of heating this place?" sighed Miss O'Kelly. "I'd hate to tell you. It's staggering. But he wants it warm and that's the way we keep it."

Huston is a splendid and generous host and people visit him at his Irish base from all over the world—and not all of them in the orthodox manner of guests.

An elaborate practical joker, Huston once heard that his friend, the American actor and folk singer Burl Ives, was in Ireland. To one of Ireland's titled ladies and her husband, Huston described Ives as one of the world's greatest men.

CAUTIONED

"But," he cautioned, "like many great men he's eccentric. He likes to play the harp and the trouble is, well, he can't play a note. Now he's coming down here, but for our sake don't ask him to play. He'll have his harp. He takes it everywhere, but just ignore it. Remember—ignore the harp."

Locating Ives by telephone in Dublin, Huston invited him down, adding: "But Burl, find a harp somewhere."

"A harp? Where'll I get a harp in Dublin on a Sunday?"

"I don't know," said Huston, "but I repeat—don't come without a harp. Everyone here—and we've got lots of people—wants to hear you play. They're dying to hear the harp, Burl."

The accommodating and industrious Ives located a harp, rented a truck and hired two laborers to help him. Getting into the back of the truck with the harp, Ives set out to serenade his friend's guests.

Hours later Ives arrived. The perspiring laborers shouldered the huge harp into the hall and Burl stood there beside it—with a broad smile, ready to play.

As dinner finished, Ives implored: "Now?"

Huston shook his head. The eyes of everyone studiously avoided the instrument beside Burl.

The gag went on all evening, and finally, when everyone but Burl had gone to bed, Burl still hadn't played. By then he was in a fit of frustration.

Those Accident Signs

For quite a long time we have contended that placing mangled automobiles along highways or erecting signs saying so many died here are of no real value in reducing accidents and that they merely add to the unsightliness of the roadside. We have also defended drivers to a certain extent, taking the view that the driver may not always be at fault and that even a good driver may be involved in an accident. We have said that there is no use in making accusations that are as reckless as some claim the drivers are.

Heretofore these positions have been based largely on our own observations and conclusions. Now we apparently have official confirmation from the highest sources.

Federal Highway Administrator Rex M. Whitton summed it up thus:

"I am concerned about the great amount of energy being devoted to 'hard sell' efforts to reform the driver — to shame or scare him into being a better one. I believe we have exhausted the value of this continuing assault on human nature and I gravely doubt that it works."

James K. Williams, director of the bureau of public roads, office of highway safety, commented:

"The good performance of the drivers is all the more remarkable in view of the lack of uniformity in traffic laws and ordinances, the bewildering array of non-standard signs, signals and highway markings and the built-in booby traps remaining in much of the nation's road and street mileage."

American communities take pride in public education programs aimed at reducing highway accidents which claimed a staggering 41,000 lives in 1962.

Programs of this type may take the form of a heap of twisted metal — mute evidence of some past vehicular tragedy — or a plain grave marker on the side of the road or the most popular approach, which is a big score card comparing fatalities with the previous year.

To people who swear by the fear or horror theory, this may come as a shock, but there is increasing evidence that these gimmicks simply don't work.

Another theory that was being ridden hard a few years back, but that has fallen somewhat into the discard, is the claim that if we could only get rid of the accident-prone drivers, there would be no accidents. This is pure and simple fallacy. Practically no one is exempt from accidents under certain situations and the fellow who thinks he is accident-proof may be the next in line for one.

Eliminating accident - prone drivers is like culling all the non-layers out of a flock of hens. You can get rid of some of them that are no good in that way but if you try to get rid of all of the bad ones you won't have any left because there are times when all of them are not up to par.

The popularly-held theory that the driver is almost solely responsible for highway accidents is coming under attack from several quarters and new research may absolve him of a large part of the guilt.

Greater numbers of experts in the field of vehicular accident prevention are coming around to the view that most people assume that catchword safety slogans are really aimed at some one else. A careless or irresponsible driver who sees a mangled automobile beside the road or crosses indicating where victims have died or statistics on automobile deaths pays no more attention to them than he would to an auto wrecking yard, a cemetery or statistics on the weather.

The real culprit may be any one of or a combination of five principal ingredients: the driver, the highway, the vehicle, the law, or circumstances that are so unexpected as to trap even a driver who uses ordinary care.

One rule of the road to which many drivers adhere and to which a good many others do not is that you should not attempt to pass more than one car at a time. Even for those who pass only one at a time, there is a potential trap. Two cars ahead may be 200 yards apart, so there is plenty of room to pass one and then get back into the right lane. If, however, at just the time the first car is being passed, the driver in the car ahead decides he wants to make a turn and starts slowing down fast, thus closing the gap between the two cars, the driver of the passing car may have to make a choice in a tenth of a second among one of three actions. He must either make an effort to get between the two cars, try to slow down fast enough to drop behind the one nearest him or pass them both. If he has a clear path he will pass both but if he is near the top of a hill, he'll need either luck or unerring judgment and maybe both.

Actually, with 80 million vehicles, on the road today, being driven about 800 billion miles a year by 95 million drivers, the man behind the wheel is doing a magnificient job of avoiding accidents.

Perhaps the most significant clue to the carnage taking place on the nation's highways and byways is that most of the road system, conceived in the horse and buggy days, is not engineeringly geared to handle the fast and powerful piece of machinery that is today's automobile.

Best proof of this is that one-third of the 41,000-mile national system of interstate and defense highways already open to traffic under the billion-dollar improvement program is said to have saved 2,000 lives last year alone.

If only one-third of the billion-dollar system is open and if it saved 2,000 lives in one year, how many lives could we save by taking the $3 billion or $4 billion we have been throwing away every year on foreign aid and building more freeways with it?

Many situations which formerly caused accidents and for which the driver was almost always blamed no longer exist in this new system of highly - modernized highways. One of the most obvious and one that precipitated the most accidents is gone, namely, the highway intersection, which has given away to overpasses and underpasses.

A study in California showed that freeways opened in 1961 have prevented 47,400 accidents and saved 306 lives and $65 million in property loss in a single year. That is something well worth striving for and something that justifies highway expenditures.

Facts and figures show the majority of motorists are performing as well as can be expected under existing conditions and that those conditions must be improved if the death rate is to be lowered.

Federal Employes

President Johnson's order against hiring new employes in the executive branch raised the old question of how hard government employes work. Whether such employes produce anywhere near the normal output is important, of course, but does not cover the whole issue by any means. Other questions are whether the things they do are needed and whether they are properly in the government sphere.

Some informed men in the executive department say that in Washington the government could be a more efficient organization with only two-thirds of the present force. There is hardly any doubt that the federal agencies do not make the best use of their manpower. There are thousands of Negroes in the bureaus, hired mostly for political purposes and not for efficiency. The same is true of many white persons.

Goodfellows Thanks

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

We have just wound up the Goodfellows again and we wish to thank Mr. Jack Campbell, Mr. Jack Gates, Mr. Jack Taylor and the entire staff of the News-Star—World for the great task you did on behalf of Goodfellows in seeing that it was kept before the public. Without this publicity we would not have received the necessary funds to carry on.

We wish to mention a word of thanks to the following for their contributions and help in carrying through this program:

Monroe Drug Company
Lieber Company
Twin City Printing
Louisiana Paper Co.
H. Michel Wholesle Co.
Texaco Dealers
Circle K
KA Fraternity
Monroe - West Monroe Jr. Chamber of Commerce
Jaycee Jaynes

And our thanks and appreciation goes out to many more too numerous to mention who volunteered their services.

We think it very unique that one young man, Mr. Bobby Barker, took his vacation in order to help the Goodfellows.

Above all, we wish to thank the good people in this area who contributed the money to make this program possible.

Also, we wish to thank the City of Monroe and West Monroe for furnishing the men and trucks to deliver the bags Christmas Eve morning, and our thanks go out to Mr. Linton Ethridge for permitting us to use the building where this work was done.

Let us state again that none of this money was used for operating expenses. It all was used only for clothing, food and toys for these families.

Appreciates Coverage

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

We appreciate the good news coverage which you gave the West Monroe Post Office during the year 1963. You were most generous in giving proper coverage to each news item, and especially do we appreciate your handling of our "Mail Early For Christmas" publicity at Christmas time.

Best wishes to you and your staff during the Year 1964.

To the Editor:

Sam Hanna had some very good remarks on hunting safety. His statement that, "Hunting is dangerous, just as driving a car is dangerous," calls for some justification, and some clarification on conditions in this state and surrounding areas on the subject of gun safety.

Now that the range at Selman Field is closed, and the range at Burg Jones Lane has been shot to pieces, there seems to be no place for one to go for some relaxation in the city, due to the outlaw tactics of some who seem to think they can do anything on a range and get away with it. When our old Ouachita Rifle and Pistol Club had the Selman Field range under lease, and while firing there at targets, people would drive down past the firing line, take their guns from their car and start to walk down to the backstop, while we were firing!! Our range house was set on fire, burning all our target frames; our cables for rapid-fire pistol-firing were stolen; someone walked down the firing points, shooting holes in the metal roof, right above where the shooter would be placed.

At the Burg Jones Range, people come there to fire, bring no sort of paper for a target, but set up old cans, or shoot at the posts, even setting the range on fire once last fall. The hinges of the gate have been worked on, so these people can get in there without asking permission. Such actions can lead to trouble, as, there are cattle in the adjoining pasture — people who would break a gate under such circumstances might be careless enough to shoot some livestock, and the decent shooters would be blamed.

I have tried to get programs going here to teach the younger set to know safety with firearms. Organized two Junior clubs, which fell through — in 1954-55. I held an Instructor's card, Hunter Safety Program, trying to have the program set up in the state with the aid of Wm. Baker, who was department commander, V.F.W. He wrote someone in the State Wildlife organization about setting this up with their help, and his reply was they did not have any money for such.

Since the program could work through the Game Wardens, the program would not cost enough to equal one half of the amount the average person spends on cigarettes.

In the past I have been very much interested in such things as safety with firearms, competitive target shooting, refereeing such matches in small bore and big bore rifle, and pistol matches, up to and including Regionals, holding a Certified Rifle Instructor's card since 1941, and a Certified Referees card since 1945. I can state that I see the need of training. The deaths of some citizens, pulling loaded guns from cars, cleaning loaded guns, pointing guns at another, and, the allowing teenagers, too young to buy a license, to have a deer permit to hunt, all lead up to just one thing — WHY?

Editorial Rapped

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In a recent editorial of the Monroe News-Star on Dec. 30, 1963, the editor again gives his distorte views on Right to Work legislation hidden under the palatable title of "Free Will and Work." Again the editor has tried to hide this malicious legislation under a honey sweet title without informing the people of the encroachment on their rights and responsibilities in collective bargaining.

The editor has, as has been his past policy, used his journalistic cunning in an attempt to pit the membership against the leaders, in organized labor. The editor has implied that the membership is dictated to by "big union bosses". On the contrary, in today's AFL-CIO there are no "big union bosses," only servants of the people, who receive their instructions from duly authorized delegates while in convention. Here our policies are made and our procedures for expediting them are planned.

One of the distorted statements in the editorial was "These same Right To Work laws have been, ever since, a prime target of union bosses who see in them an opportunity for freedom-minded working people to escape the heavy hand of big labor policies." One of the questions that comes to my mind is — escape to what? To the sweat shop, the time of the 70-hour plus work week? Child labor, where 13 and 14 year old children worked along side grown men in factories and were judged by the same work standards — but paid much less? The "yellow dog" contracts which forced a man to sign a statement promising he would not join a union, before a company would give him employment? The days when a worker could be fired without an excuse or explanation? To the days of the sycophant, who was promoted not on ability and seniority, but for his catering service to the boss? To the time a man could be fired for carrying a union card or for his political affiliation. God forbid that we ever "escape" to what Right To Work advocates.

By the editors' logic, a person should be exempt if he does not want to pay for the benefits and representation that he receives. The Taft - Hartley law does not give the union a choice. The law requires that every person in a bargaining unit, whether union or non-union, must have equal representation.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER
U. S. Senator From Arizona

THE AMERICAN government, according to recent news dispatches from London, is still pushing the idea of joining with Russia in publicly destroying obsolete bombers as a move toward disarmanent.

The idea was first broached in private conversations in the State Department and the U. S. Arms Control Agency some months ago. I raised a question about it in a speech at the time, only to have some nameless official in the Arms Control Agency pooh-pooh the whole idea.

The impression was left that this was merely a crazy idea which had no basis in fact. At least that impression was left until members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee pinned down Secretary of State Dean Rusk and got his admission that the plan had been under consideration.

As I pointed out, all of this was several months ago. Until very recently nothing more was heard of the idea, and most observers of the disarmament picture were convinced that it had been put into mothballs on a permanent basis.

BUT NOW, UNDER a new President, the idea has come alive again. For example, the Washington Post (which has an uncanny facility for correctly interpreting administration foreign policy moves) on Dec. 22 reported from London that the United States had taken up with the Russians the idea of destroying long - range nuclear bombers as they become obsolete.

As usual, the stated purpose of the plan is to prevent obsolete, but effective bombers from getting into the hands of smaller countries.

Just how the question was broached to the Russians wasn't made clear in the Washington Post story. It was reported, however, that the idea was taken up with the British during the visit of Secretary Rusk to London during the week of Dec. 22. Even though the endeavor would have to be negotiated on a bi-lateral basis with Russia, it apparently was believed wise to consult the British in advance.

According to all reports, here and in London, the idea would be for the United States to destroy B-47 bombers as they are replaced by missiles; the Soviet would be expected to match our performance in some dramatic fashion by destroying their Badger bombers, which are roughly comparable to the B-47s.

WHEN THESE REPORTS were confined to Washington sources, the talk laid great emphasis on the fact that, when any bomber - destroying "bonfire" had been arranged, the United States would insist on international inspection to make sure the Soviets carried out their part of the bargain.

This, of course, is the same argument we heard about the removal of Russian missiles from Cuban soil so close to our southern coast. As we now know however, that insistence was a tenuous one which was dropped the minute objections were raised by Fidel Castro.

If past performance is any guide, we can expect the administration to push for the bomber - burning program in the same fashion. This would mean using any blandishment necessary to bring the reluctant Communists around to our idea.

ACCORDING TO ALL reports, the Russians so far have turned a deaf ear to the idea. Whether this is because they have some foreseeable use for their Badger bombers once they reach the obsolescent stage or whether their reluctance is dictated by bargaining considerations, only time will tell.

In the meantime, I believe, it is probable that some officials in our government will begin arguing for unilateral action by the United States in the hope that the Russians will be shamed into following suit. This is dangerous thinking, but the Washington Post dispatch from London quoted its sources as saying "The United States has also been considering the advisability of unilateral, demonstrative destruction of the obsolete bombers in the hope that this would move the Russians to parallel action."

Business Advance Is In 35th Month

ON JANUARY 1, 1964, the United States entered its 35th month of sustained business advance to the highest economic levels of all history.

With the multi-billion dollar tax cut scheduled for this year and next sure to give a new lift to spending by consumers and businessmen, the odds are bright that the United States economy will continue in a strong, solid advance in the months ahead.

Our economy has been turning in an impressively good performance for an extraordinarily long period of time.

As of this day, the expansion which began when the late President Kennedy took office in early 1961 already has gone on the books as the second longest peacetime business advance in 110 years. This fourth business upturn of post-World War II already has lived far beyond the average lifetime of U.S. peacetime cycles since 1854. If this current expansion persists through 1964, it will be challenging the 50-month upturn of 1933-37 for the honor of the longest peacetime business expansion in more than a century.

MONTH AFTER MONTH in 1963 our economy pushed steadily ahead and shattered records on every side — records for industrial production, for personal incomes, for business profits, for business investment in plants and equipment, for automobile sales, for total employment. Our annual rate of output of goods and services is now crossing the historic mark of $600 billion — an unprecedented increase of $100 billion in just three years.

The upturn still has plenty of momentum. The economy will continue to shatter records on every side in 1954.

Month after month in 1963 our economy absorbed shocks that could have been devastating — ranging from French President deGaulle's unexpected rejection of Britain's bid for membership in the European Common Market at the start of the year through some of the ugliest race riots in U.S. history to the assassination of President Kennedy on November 22.

The ability of our economy to absorb these shocks underlines its fundamental soundness and gives us basis for confidence that it will absorb now unforseeable shocks in 1964.

MONTH AFTER MONTH in 1963 prices held remarkably stable and inflation remained under control. The level of wholesale prices here is almost the same as five years ago. The government's consumer price index — our index of cost of living changes — is only around 1.6 per cent above a year ago and most of the year's rise has been due to increases in costs of services.

Inflationary price rises may be more of a threat in 1964 than in 1963, particularly if the tax cuts sharply boost spending and if organized labor fights hard for larger wage increases. But Washington's policy-makers are alert to the threat, are signaling their determination to step on the inflation brakes at the first signs of real danger.

Yet, good as our record has been and is, it still is not good enough.

Even a $100 billion rise in our economy's output in three years has not been sufficient to close the gap which opened in 1957 between our performance and potential. Our economy is operating today at least $30 billion below its annual capacity to produce. Even the major advance of 1963 was not big enough to dent our unemployment rate or put our idle factory capacity to work at the desired levels.

FOR 73 CONSECUTIVE months our jobless rate has struck at 5 per cent or above, and the unemployment rate among teen-agers today is a frightening 15.4 per cent. Despite the fact that employment has risen 2.5 million since early 1961, unemployment tops 4 million. Meanwhile, young workers are entering our labor force on an ever-rising scale and older workers are being displaced by automation at the fastest pace ever.

The two great problems facing the United States in 1964 are:

Our economy must grow faster to create the jobs for our spiraling numbers of workers and to take up the slack in our factory production;

Our workers, young and old, must be better trained and retrained to fill the jobs an expanding economy will offer.

The two key solutions to these problems to which we are turning in 1964 are:

Massive tax reductions for individuals and corporations to spur spending by consumers and businessmen and thereby to create new jobs, add to paychecks and profits.

IMPROVED, EXPANDED and entirely new programs to train and retrain workers for the jobs that will exist and open in this era.

Those Accident Signs

For quite a long time we have contended that placing mangled automobiles along highways or erecting signs saying so many died here are of no real value in reducing accidents and that they merely add to the unsightliness of the roadside. We have also defended drivers to a certain extent, taking the view that the driver may not always be at fault and that even a good driver may be involved in an accident. We have said that there is no use in making accusations that are as reckless as some claim the drivers are.

Heretofore these positions have been based largely on our own observations and conclusions. Now we apparently have official confirmation from the highest sources.

Federal Highway Administrator Rex M. Whitton summed it up thus:

"I am concerned about the great amount of energy being devoted to 'hard sell' efforts to reform the driver — to shame or scare him into being a better one. I believe we have exhausted the value of this continuing assault on human nature and I gravely doubt that it works."

James K. Williams, director of the bureau of public roads, office of highway safety, commented:

"The good performance of the drivers is all the more remarkable in view of the lack of uniformity in traffic laws and ordinances, the bewildering array of non-standard signs, signals and highway markings and the built-in booby traps remaining in much of the nation's road and street mileage."

American communities take pride in public education programs aimed at reducing highway accidents which claimed a staggering 41,000 lives in 1962.

Programs of this type may take the form of a heap of twisted metal — mute evidence of some past vehicular tragedy — or a plain grave marker on the side of the road or the most popular approach, which is a big score card comparing fatalities with the previous year.

To people who swear by the fear or horror theory, this may come as a shock, but there is increasing evidence that these gimmicks simply don't work.

Another theory that was being ridden hard a few years back, but that has fallen somewhat into the discard, is the claim that if we could only get rid of the accident-prone drivers, there would be no accidents. This is pure and simple fallacy. Practically no one is exempt from accidents under certain situations and the fellow who thinks he is accident-proof may be the next in line for one.

Eliminating accident - prone drivers is like culling all the non-layers out of a flock of hens. You can get rid of some of them that are no good in that way but if you try to get rid of all of the bad ones you won't have any left because there are times when all of them are not up to par.

The popularly-held theory that the driver is almost solely responsible for highway accidents is coming under attack from several quarters and new research may absolve him of a large part of the guilt.

Greater numbers of experts in the field of vehicular accident prevention are coming around to the view that most people assume that catchword safety slogans are really aimed at some one else. A careless or irresponsible driver who sees a mangled automobile beside the road or crosses indicating where victims have died or statistics on automobile deaths pays no more attention to them than he would to an auto wrecking yard, a cemetery or statistics on the weather.

The real culprit may be any one of or a combination of five principal ingredients: the driver, the highway, the vehicle, the law, or circumstances that are so unexpected as to trap even a driver who uses ordinary care.

One rule of the road to which many drivers adhere and to which a good many others do not is that you should not attempt to pass more than one car at a time. Even for those who pass only one at a time, there is a potential trap. Two cars ahead may be 200 yards apart, so there is plenty of room to pass one and then get back into the right lane. If, however, at just the time the first car is being passed, the driver in the car ahead decides he wants to make a turn and starts slowing down fast, thus closing the gap between the two cars, the driver of the passing car may have to make a choice in a tenth of a second among one of three actions. He must either make an effort to get between the two cars, try to slow down fast enough to drop behind the one nearest him or pass them both. If he has a clear path he will pass both but if he is near the top of a hill, he'll need either luck or unerring judgment and maybe both.

Actually, with 80 million vehicles, on the road today, being driven about 800 billion miles a year by 95 million drivers, the man behind the wheel is doing a magnificient job of avoiding accidents.

Perhaps the most significant clue to the carnage taking place on the nation's highways and byways is that most of the road system, conceived in the horse and buggy days, is not engineeringly geared to handle the fast and powerful piece of machinery that is today's automobile.

Best proof of this is that one-third of the 41,000-mile national system of interstate and defense highways already open to traffic under the billion-dollar improvement program is said to have saved 2,000 lives last year alone.

If only one-third of the billion-dollar system is open and if it saved 2,000 lives in one year, how many lives could we save by taking the $3 billion or $4 billion we have been throwing away every year on foreign aid and building more freeways with it?

Many situations which formerly caused accidents and for which the driver was almost always blamed no longer exist in this new system of highly - modernized highways. One of the most obvious and one that precipitated the most accidents is gone, namely, the highway intersection, which has given away to overpasses and underpasses.

A study in California showed that freeways opened in 1961 have prevented 47,400 accidents and saved 306 lives and $65 million in property loss in a single year. That is something well worth striving for and something that justifies highway expenditures.

Facts and figures show the majority of motorists are performing as well as can be expected under existing conditions and that those conditions must be improved if the death rate is to be lowered.

Federal Employes

President Johnson's order against hiring new employes in the executive branch raised the old question of how hard government employes work. Whether such employes produce anywhere near the normal output is important, of course, but does not cover the whole issue by any means. Other questions are whether the things they do are needed and whether they are properly in the government sphere.

Some informed men in the executive department say that in Washington the government could be a more efficient organization with only two-thirds of the present force. There is hardly any doubt that the federal agencies do not make the best use of their manpower. There are thousands of Negroes in the bureaus, hired mostly for political purposes and not for efficiency. The same is true of many white persons.

Goodfellows Thanks

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

We have just wound up the Goodfellows again and we wish to thank Mr. Jack Campbell, Mr. Jack Gates, Mr. Jack Taylor and the entire staff of the News-Star—World for the great task you did on behalf of Goodfellows in seeing that it was kept before the public. Without this publicity we would not have received the necessary funds to carry on.

We wish to mention a word of thanks to the following for their contributions and help in carrying through this program:

Monroe Drug Company
Lieber Company
Twin City Printing
Louisiana Paper Co.
H. Michel Wholesle Co.
Texaco Dealers
Circle K
KA Fraternity
Monroe - West Monroe Jr. Chamber of Commerce
Jaycee Jaynes

And our thanks and appreciation goes out to many more too numerous to mention who volunteered their services.

We think it very unique that one young man, Mr. Bobby Barker, took his vacation in order to help the Goodfellows.

Above all, we wish to thank the good people in this area who contributed the money to make this program possible.

Also, we wish to thank the City of Monroe and West Monroe for furnishing the men and trucks to deliver the bags Christmas Eve morning, and our thanks go out to Mr. Linton Ethridge for permitting us to use the building where this work was done.

Let us state again that none of this money was used for operating expenses. It all was used only for clothing, food and toys for these families.

To the Editor:

Sam Hanna had some very good remarks on hunting safety. His statement that, "Hunting is dangerous, just as driving a car is dangerous," calls for some justification, and some clarification on conditions in this state and surrounding areas on the subject of gun safety.

Now that the range at Selman Field is closed, and the range at Burg Jones Lane nas been shot to pieces, there seems to be no place for one to go for some relaxation in the city, due to the outlaw tactics of some who seem to think they can do anything on a range and get away with it. When our old Ouachita Rifle and Pistol Club had the Selman Field range under lease, and while firing there at targets, people would drive down past the firing line, take their guns from their car and start to walk down to the backstop, while we were firing!! Our range house was set on fire, burning all our target frames; our cables for rapid-fire pistol-firing were stolen; someone walked down the firing points, shooting holes in the metal roof, right above where the shooter would be placed.

At the Burg Jones Range, people come there to fire, bring no sort of paper for a target, but set up old cans, or shoot at the posts, even setting the range on fire once last fall. The hinges of the gate have been worked on, so these people can get in there without asking permission. Such actions can lead to trouble, as, there are cattle in the adjoining pasture — people who would break a gate under such circumstances might be careless enough to shoot some livestock, and the decent shooters would be blamed.

I have tried to get programs going here to teach the younger set to know safety with firearms. Organized two Junior clubs, which fell through — in 1954-55, I held an Instructor's card, Hunter Safety Program, trying to have the program set up in the state with the aid of Wm. Baker, who was department commander, V.F.W. He wrote someone in the State Wildlife organization about setting this up with their help, and his reply was they did not have any money for such.

Since the program could work through the Game Wardens, the program would not cost enough to equal one half of the amount the average person spends on cigarettes.

In the past I have been very much interested in such things as safety with firearms, competitive target shooting, refereeing such matches in small bore and big bore rifle, and pistol matches, up to and including Regionals, holding a Certified Rifle Instructor's card since 1941, and a Certified Referees card since 1945. I can state that I see the need of training. The deaths of some citizens, pulling loaded guns from cars, cleaning loaded guns, pointing guns at another, and, the allowing teenagers, too young to buy a license, to have a deer permit to hunt, all lead up to just one thing — WHY?

Editorial Rapped

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In a recent editorial of the Monroe News-Star of Dec. 30, 1963, the editor again gives his distorte views on Right to Work legislation hidden under the palatable title of "Free Will and Work." Again the editor has tried to hide this malicious legislation under a honey sweet title without informing the people of the encroachment on their rights and responsibilities in collective bargaining.

The editor has, as has been his past policy, used his journalistic cunning in an attempt to pit the membership against the leaders, in organized labor. The editor has implied that the membership is dictated to by "big union bosses". On the contrary, in today's AFL-CIO there are no "big union bosses," only servants of the people, who receive their instructions from duly authorized delegates while in convention. Here our policies are made and our procedures for expediting them are planned.

One of the distorted statements in the editorial was "These same Right To Work laws have been ever since, a prime target of union bosses who see in them an opportunity for freedom-minded working people to escape the heavy hand of big labor policies." One of the questions that comes to my mind is — escape to what? To the sweat shop, the time of the 70-hour plus work week? Child labor, where 13 and 14 year old children worked along side grown men in factories and were judged by the same work standards — but paid much less? The "yellow dog" contracts which forced a man to sign a statement promising he would not join a union, before a company would give him employment? The days when a worker could be fired without an excuse or explanation? To the days of the sycophant, who was promoted not on ability and seniority, but for his catering service to the boss? To the time a man could be fired for carrying a union card or for his political affiliation. God forbid that we ever "escape" to what Right To Work advocates.

By the editors' logic, a person should be exempt if he does not want to pay for the benefits and representation that he receives. The Taft - Hartley law does not give the union a choice. The law requires that every person in a bargaining unit, whether union or non-union, must have equal representation.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER
U. S. Senator From Arizona

THE AMERICAN government, according to recent news dispatches from London, is still pushing the idea of joining with Russia in publicly destroying obsolete bombers as a move toward disarmanent.

The idea was first broached in private conversations in the State Department and the U. S. Arms Control Agency some months ago. I raised a question about it in a speech at the time, only to have some nameless official in the Arms Control Agency pooh-pooh the whole idea.

The impression was left that this was merely a crazy idea which had no basis in fact. At least that impression was left until members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee pinned down Secretary of State Dean Rusk and got his admission that the plan had been under consideration.

As I pointed out, all of this was several months ago. Until very recently nothing more was heard of the idea, and most observers of the disarmament picture were convinced that it had been put into mothballs on a permanent basis.

BUT NOW, UNDER a new President, the idea has come alive again. For example, the Washington Post (which has an uncanny facility for correctly interpreting administration foreign policy moves) on Dec. 22 reported from London that the United States had taken up with the Russians the idea of destroying long - range nuclear bombers as they become obsolete.

As usual, the stated purpose of the plan is to prevent obsolete, but effective bombers from getting into the hands of smaller countries.

Just how the question was broached to the Russians wasn't made clear in the Washington Post story. It was reported, however, that the idea was taken up with the British during the visit of Secretary Rusk to London during the week of Dec. 22. Even though the endeavor would have to be negotiated on a bi-lateral basis with Russia, it apparently was believed wise to consult the British in advance.

According to all reports, here and in London, the idea would be for the United States to destroy B-47 bombers as they are replaced by missiles; the Soviet would be expected to match our performance in some dramatic fashion by destroying their Badger bombers, which are roughly comparable to the B-47s.

Business Advance Is In 35th Month

ON JANUARY 1, 1964, the United States entered its 35th month of sustained business advance to the highest economic levels of all history.

With the multi-billion dollar tax cut scheduled for this year and next sure to give a new lift to spending by consumers and businessmen, the odds are bright that the United States economy will continue in a strong, solid advance in the months ahead.

Our economy has been turning in an impressively good performance for an extraordinarily long period of time.

Unusual Question

QUESTION: Which is the worse: 1—Spitting on the Bible; 2—Spitting on the American flag?

Question: Which is the more important: 1—Taking the oath of allegiance to the U.S.; 2—Joining a church?

Question: Which of the following men contributed more to the progress of mankind: 1—St. Paul (in the Bible); 2—Abraham Lincoln?

How would you answer such questions? You probably wouldn't if you are an adult. Well, American school children are expected to answer them. These specific questions are being asked in many school systems in the nation today—Not locally, however — in insidious brainpicking "moral inventory exams. Since the children are not expected to know these are unfair questions and cannot be answered, they try to answer them and in doing so are forced to choose between love of God and loyalty to country. The inference in such questions is that you can not simultaneously love God and country.

These are not isolated questions. They are examples of the Freudian probing of many non-academic tests being conducted with the encouragement of the U.S. office of Education.

Congressman John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, whom we have quoted extensively in his exposure of "A Federal Education Agency of the Future" doesn't like it. He introduced a bill in the House recently which would curb such abuses of the testing programs. His bill would make it mandatory that parents be notified of tests of a nonacademic nature which are to be administered to their children.

Said the congressman: "In a free society education should be directed toward teaching the child to think. Not to think what I might think or the testers might think but to think for himself and make his own decisions. The home, the church, the overall sense of morality which we imbue into our children implant the sense of right and wrong which makes the ability to think meaningful."

Here are some other questions asked in which the children are told to mark "true" or "false" after such as:

There is constant bickering and quarreling in my home.— My father is a tyrant. — I am ashamed of my parents' dress and manners. — I am ashamed of my father's job. — I wonder if I am normal in my sexual development — I'm confused in my religious beliefs. — I'm losing faith in my religion.

Or such questions as: "How far should high school students go in love relations? Is it wrong to deny the existence of God. I wish I liked Negro children as well as white children.

Why are such questions, which involve the innermost wishes, desires, aspirations, preference and tastes, asked of school children:? Says Congressman Ashbrook: "The trend toward testing programs of this type has its genesis in the Freudian concept of psychiatry. Supposedly, these people are specifically anointed to solve all of the ills of the world by ridding man of his delusions, repressions, frustrations and problems up to and including wars. When their theory is reduced to practice we have life adjustment curriculum in schools whereby the student adjusts to his various neuroses."

What do such tests mean? Simply this, Get 'em young; indoctrinate 'em; deprive 'em of all feeling of love for their families and reverence for God; and train 'em in the new world order — a page right out of Khrushchev's note book. And according to an editorial in the Lynchburg (VA.) News it is being carried on right here in the U.S. by the federal government's Office of Education.

Survival In Space

Basic terrestrial life can exist under extreme conditions — such as may be met in outer space.

Evidence for this is contained in a national academy of sciences bulletin with abstracts of reports from all over the world. Life could go to other planets from the earth. I may originally have come to earth from elsewhere, the scientist claim.

According to the bulletin, evidence has been presented, for example, of the survival of enzyme proteins at minue 50 degrees centigrade, with no loss of functional efficiency. Organisms have been shown to exist unprotected up to altitudes of about 18 miles above the earth.

This information may aid the U. S. space program immensely.

The Johnson Image

Reports from Washington say the Kennedy image is still strong in the White House, but when President Lyndon Johnson returns from his holiday stay at the LBJ ranch in Texas, he's expected to begin burning his own brand on his own administration.

Many Washington observers believe there was a great deal of political symbolism in the Dec. 22 candelight ceremony at the Lincoln Memorial when Johnson led rites that marked the end of the official 30-day mourning for the assassinated John F. Kennedy.

The President spoke of the future, not the past. For weeks Johnson has been slowly changing the Kennedy patterns, the Kennedy strategies.

JOHNSON

It remains to be seen if he will change major Kennedy goals.

From a political standpoint, Johnson has 11 months to prepare his case for the voters. He is certain to win the Democratic nomination in Atlantic City in August, barring poor health.

In many respects he boasts political strengths that Kennedy did not have. His quick and sure assumption of power after the assassination gained him respect. His southern and western background gives him appeal in areas where President Kennedy was in difficulty due to civil rights issue. His persuasive attention to Congress combined with the calendar helped break a legislative logjam that had defied Kennedy's best efforts.

The real political tests for the new President lie ahead. He has pledged to fight for the Kennedy civil rights bill. His moves here are likely to determine whether he can control the Kennedy strongholds in the big cities of the Northeast. They also could cost him the same areas where Kennedy was in decline.

Republicans in Congress and outside Washington observed a political moratorium since the assassination, but that has ended.

A wide-open struggle for the GOP presidential nomination is certain to bolster the party's spirits and confidence.

Johnson's economy moves have been interpreted by some as an effort to counter inevitable GOP attacks. The new President is not a conservative on fiscal matters. He is a disciple of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and House Speaker Sam Rayburn. While he has ordered a federal-belt-tightening, the savings may be only temporary. He has often advocated massive government spending and non-restrictive credit rules.

The President will submit a record budget totaling perhaps $103 billion. The last Kennedy budget was $98.8 billion and Johnson is confronted with about $3.5 billion in additional spending already enacted by Congress.

Since passage of the tax cut bill is almost certain, Johnson will see revenues trimmed to approximately $85-$87 billion. Unless he gets a fantastic spurt in the economy, he will have to defend a record $15 billion deficit and avoid the perils of inflation.

Johnson's skill with Congress also faces serious tests. The December "honeymoon" ended in the bitter wrangle over the foreign aid bill. That debate showed that the same basic conservative vs. liberal split remains.

In foreign policy, Johnson has scheduled a series of "summit" sessions with Western leaders. Few basic changes in cold war strategy are expected in 1964, but Johnson is attempting to revitalize the Latin American aid program and he may be clearing the way for stronger action against Communist Cuba.

Much of the speculation in Washington the past week surrounded the future of Kennedy men in the White House and key agencies of government.

After the assassination, Johnson asked all of them to stay, but this is viewed as temporary. Many were too personally associated with Kennedy to remain long on the Johnson team. One key question is how long Robert Kennedy will remain as attorney general.

At least one Cabinet officer, however, has gained new prestige. Secretary of State Dean Rusk appears to be more firmly in control of foreign policy under Johnson.

The name of John F. Kennedy will be invoked often during the next year by Johnson as he strives first for his program and then for election. But next Wednesday when he delivers his first State of the Union message to Congress, it will be the true beginning of the "Johnson" administration.

Gruelling Year Ahead

The 1963 congressional song is ended, but the melody lingers on, and the score for 1964 will be as difficult to play in harmony as any in recent history.

As Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., puts it, the past week, the law-makers will face, in the session starting January 7, "some of the most difficult decisions which this or any congress is likely to be required to reach."

Just a list of the matters already before congress but unfinished is enough to make a hardened politician blanch.

1.—The tax reduction and revision bill which involves, as Senator Mansfield said, "basic economic policy and such grave questions as the growth of the U. S. economy, inflation, recession and automation."

2.—Civil rights.

3.—Medical care for the aged under social security.

4.—The youth conservation and national service corps bills.

5.—Federal aid for elementary and secondary schools.

6.—The mass transit bill.

The path of what ordinarily would be a short, election-year session is heavily booby-trapped.

Although all sides are making noises about economy in government, it is all but impossible for the president's budget to get through congress without some nasty noises.

MANSFIELD

In the first place, congress this year passed such things as federal aid to colleges and to fight mental retardation which will cost money in the next budget, the fiscal 1965 budget.

In the second place, the President will present his own program in the State of the Union message Wednesday and this will include some ideas of his own that will cost money.

All of which will be grist for the mill of the task force of Republican appropriation committee members. This group of economizers already credited itself with cutting some $7 billion from the current budget, the fiscal 1964 budget.

Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, a leader of the task force, says: "We are going to make every effort to hold the line against new spending programs and to insist on holding present programs to (fiscal) 1964 levels or below. Our record of achievement during the past year demonstrates our ability to do so."

Under a law passed by congress, the railroads and the operating unions have to settle their dispute under the law's compulsory arbitration section by February 25. If they don't, congress may be required to move into the area again and pass additional legislation.

The bruising foreign aid battle, recently completed on a sour note, will be up for another round this year. The fact that this is more than a dispute over appropriations was implied by Sen. Mansfield, when he said:

"We face the issue of helping the President to refine and adjust the role of this nation in the world in the light of the great changes which have occurred in the past few years and, particularly, as our national role is expressed in the foreign aid program."

It all adds up to a potentially noisy and sometimes unpleasant year in the corridors of congress. But it could be more fruitful than appearances will indicate.

Senator Mansfield noted:

"It is not important how the senate looks, whether it appears to hobble or to flow smoothly, whether it appears to run or walk, whether it breezes through in six months or struggles through in 12. What counts, in the end, is what it does in terms of legislation."

The World Briefly

A PROMINENT Brazilian doctor is telling his countrymen that Fidel Castro's Cuba is scourged with disease. Dr. Joao Batista Aguiar Sequeira returned to Brazil after a tour of Cuba to report that almost the only medicines to be found were the U. S. drugs traded for prisoners taken during the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion. Sequeira said contagious hepatitis has reached epidemic proportions in Cuba and that gastro enteritis is killing 200 persons a month. He also said official figures he examined showed a conspicious increase in TB, syphilis, infantile paralysis, malaria and anemia . . . .

IN WASHINGTON, intelligence sources warn privately that the next month will be one of crisis in South Viet Nam. Meanwhile, at the LBJ ranch in Texas where he has spent the holidays, President Johnson assured South Viet Nam the U. S. will stand beside the embattled Asian nation as long as U. S. men and arms are needed in the struggle. He also said the U. S. will oppose any effort to neutralize Viet Nam, a solution France's President Charles de Gaulle appears to favor . . . .

WHITE HOUSE officials at the LBJ ranch in Texas report that President Johnson's budget for fiscal 1965 will total about $100 billion—an all-time high but about $20 billion under what departments and agencies had requested. The new budget will be about $1.2 billion higher than the Kennedy Administration budget for the current fiscal year, which was also a new record. The latest department to feel the ax was the postal agency. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said after conferring with Johnson that he assured the president that in the next six months, the last half of the 1964 fiscal year, his department, the government's biggest employer of civilians, will lower its rolls by 5,000 workers to a total of 590,000.

Election Year Slack

Trouble With Congress

EDITOR'S NOTE—A pressing domestic issue as the nation enters a presidential election year is the lack of forceful and energetic legislation on Capitol Hill. A seasoned Washington correspondent analyzes here some of the woes that plague the Congress of the United States.

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—What's the matter with Congress?

It limps back to town next Tuesday to begin a concluding session that could make, break or blur Lyndon B. Johnson's dreams of winning the presidency on his own in 1964.

What happens to civil rights, to tax reforms, to a dozen other important bills is certain to be hotly debated in the 1964 campaign. And Congress itself—so easy to love, to deplore, to criticize, to laugh at—has been under such relentless attack that it, too, may become an issue.

From within and without, angry words have stabbed, belabored, whacked, belittled.

"Congress is becoming the laughing stock of this nation," Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., has said.

"The whole Senate seems to be pervaded by a spirit of lethartv," Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D - Conn., has complained. "Every senator is becoming a partner in this fiasco."

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, in discussing a proposed pay increase for congressmen: "They will be paying themselves for helping to mismanage the affairs of this country."

Kindly Sort

Even Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., the kindly sort who is rarely bitter, finally concluded: "The country is disgusted with us."

Congress still has its loyal defenders, of course, who insist that before this year is out a splendid record will be made.

But editorials, speeches, articles and books emphasize and expand this theme: "Congress can't, or won't, cope with a $100 - billioin-a-year government in an increasingly complex world.

Although its critics insist reforms are essential, they split quickly on what should be done; no surprise, since they disagree on what really ails their venerable patient.

Here are only a fe of the complaints put forward by critics:

1. Congress is hobbled by antiquated rules that give the foot-dragger too many opportunities to impede legislation.

In its tortuous course toward becoming a law, a bill can be killed in a dozen spots, all the way from a quiet, efficient knifing in the House Rules Committee to a public drowning in a Senate filibuster.

2. Blind devotion to seniority gives committee chairmen enormous power, sometimes at a doddering age when they are least able to handle it.

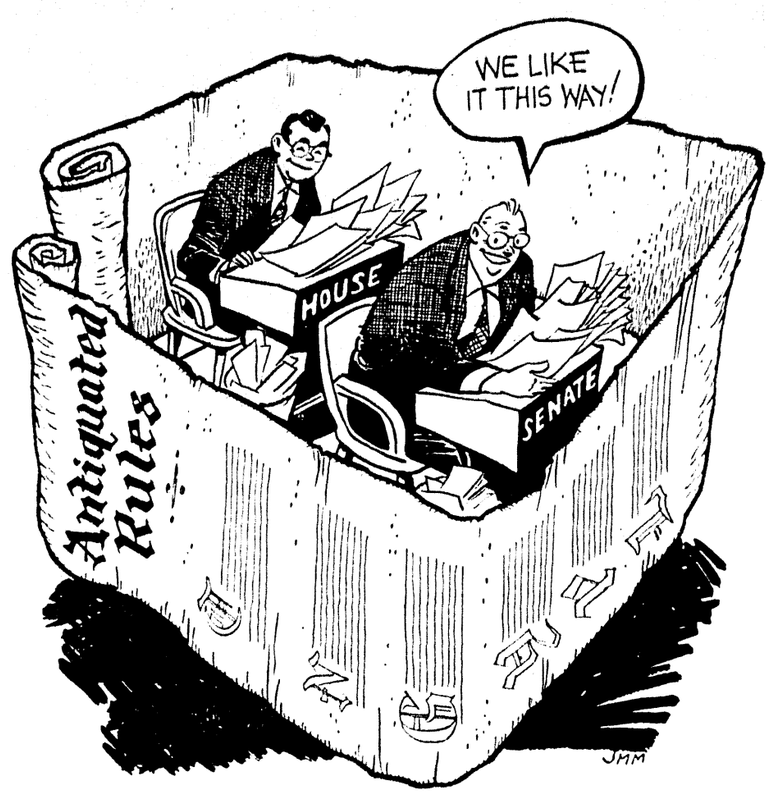
Under civil service, this government requires all employes to quit at 70, although in rare cases temporary appointments may go to older men whose health is good. But Congress puts no such restrictions on itself.

3. Congressional leadership is weak, at least by comparison with its predecessors. This complaint stems from the facts of life and death.

On Jan. 20, 1961, Lyndon B. Johnson stepped out as Democratic leader of the Senate and into the vice presidency. On Nov. 16 of that year House Speaker Sam Rayburn died.

Not only was each a strong, opinionated leader in his own right; these two friends worked smoothly as a team.

"You might say Lyndon and Mr. Sam both left at the same time," a congressional observer has said, "and the result was almost inevitable. They held this place together with baling wire, and when they left, it naturally fell apart."



One great difficulty is that most bills pass the Senate and House in somewhat different forms. These dififerences must be resolved in a conference by both bodies.

Stalemate

If either the House or Senate refuses to budge toward a compromise, a stalemate is created. Without Rayburn and Johnson around to knock heads together—so the argument runs — intramural squabbling has reached a distressing low.

4. "A civil rights smog," Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says, hampers all progress on Capitol Hill.

Those who want no part of civil rights legislation, this theory runs, enjoy a logjam that will help keep it off the floor.

As Assistant Senate Democratic leader — to Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana — Humphry has no illusions about his job.

Until the civil rights issue is resolved, Humphrey says, "leaders can implore and deplore, but there will not be much improvement."

5. Congress appropriates $5.1 billions a year for space exploration, yet in its own operations it travels by stage coach.

Traditionally, the House and Senate meet at noon. Once these sessions start, committees must quit unless they have special permission to continue.

The result can be absurd: A Cabinet officer may be testifying on problems of supreme importance, but he must be interrupted so members can attend to what often is listless, nonsensical business in the main chamber.

W. G. Phillips, executive secretary of the Democratic Study Group, made up of around 125 administration House members who consider programs, tactics and reforms, says: "Take the House folding room, which does our mailing,

"Those machines were put in around 1910, and they're so old it costs more to maintain them than it would to get new, efficient equipment. You ought to drop down there sometime. It's like watching an old Charlie Chaplin movie."

6. No unwritten law is more faithfully observed in Washington than this: A politician's first duty is to get re-elected.

For House members, who must face the voters every two years, this can be all-absorbing. They can, and often do, spend most of their time running errands for their constituents, giving but perfunctory attention to their $100-billion lawmaking, which in theory is what they hired out for.

The Ethical

7. Ethical lapses, or even outright scandals, are really a side issue in any consideration of what's the matter with Congress, but they may be paramount in what the public thinks of it.

Politically we're a suspicious people, ready, sometimes even eager, to believe the worst about our legislators.

Stories about using influence to swing profitable deals, about relatives on payrolls, about junkets — all these can shake confidence in Congress even though investigation may show the innuendoes are far more spectacular than the facts.

Curiously, the most damaging blow of 1963 didn't directly involve a congressman, but an employe. Robert G. Baker, who worked up from page boy to secretary of the Senate majority, resigned after he was charged in a civil suit as a manipulator of vending machine contracts with government suppliers.

Since Baker had been a protege of Johnson's, and since he was on the friendliest terms with many senators, the allegations against him produced a shower of titillation and speculation.

"We've got the Bobby Baker case," one Democratic senator has gloomily observed. "That's what this Congress will be remembered for."

These complaints could be extended; indeed, several books are being written right now in which congressional failures and frailties are detailed at length.

But it should be remembered that some of the exasperation arises from traits inherent in the democratic process.

Anyone who ever attended a P-TA or union meeting knows that in theory true democracy is wonderful; in practice it can be a monumental bore.

Look at this:

"I am wearied to death with the life I lead. The business of Congress is tedious beyond expression. This assembly is like no other that ever exisited. Every man in it is a great man, an orator, a critic, a statesman; and therefore every man upon every question must show his oratory, his criticism, and his political abilities.

"The consequence of this is that business is drawn and spun out to an immeasurable length. I believe if it was moved and seconded that three and two make five, we should be entertained with logic and rhetoric, law, history, politics and mathematics, and then—we should pass the resolution unanimously in the affirmative."

This criticism is pointed and timely, yet it was written by John Adams of the old Continental Congress, before the Constitution was adopted.

Surprisingly, some complaints about Congress could be easily settled by instituting reforms and changes.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., who as a House member in 1946 joined Sen. Robert M. La Follette, R-Wis., in writing the last reorganization plan, believes perhaps 20 to 40 changes may be helpful.

Unusual Question

QUESTION: Which is the worse: 1—Spitting on the Bible; 2—Spitting on the American flag?

Question: Which is the more important: 1—Taking the oath of allegiance to the U.S.; 2—Joining a church?

Question: Which of the following men contributed more to the progress of mankind: 1—St. Paul (in the Bible); 2—Abraham Lincoln?

How would you answer such questions? You probably wouldn't if you are an adult. Well, American school children are expected to answer them. Congress still has its loyal defenders, of course, who insist that before this year is out a splendid record will be made.

But editorials, speeches, articles and books emphasize and expand this theme: "Congress can't, or won't, cope with a $100 - billioin-a-year government in an increasingly complex world.

Although its critics insist reforms are essential, they split quickly on what should be done; no surprise, since they disagree on what really ails their venerable patient.

Here are only a few of the complaints put forward by critics:

1. Congress is hobbled by antiquated rules that give the foot-dragger too many opportunities to impede legislation.

In its tortuous course toward becoming a law, a bill can be killed in a dozen spots, all the way from a quiet, efficient knifing in the House Rules Committee to a public drowning in a Senate filibuster.

2. Blind devotion to seniority gives committee chairmen enormous power, sometimes at a doddering age when they are least able to handle it.

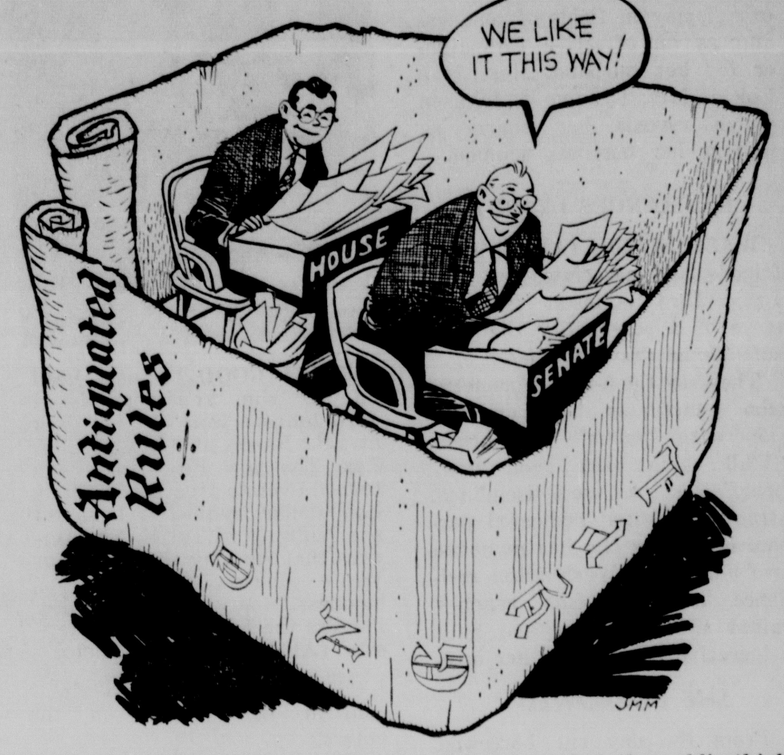
Under civil service, this government requires all employes to quit at 70, although in rare cases temporary appointments may go to older men whose health is good. But Congress puts no such restrictions on itself.

3. Congressional leadership is weak, at least by comparison with its predecessors. This complaint stems from the facts of life and death.

On Jan. 20, 1961, Lyndon B. Johnson stepped out as Democratic leader of the Senate and into the vice presidency. On Nov. 16 of that year House Speaker Sam Rayburn died.

Not only was each a strong, opinionated leader in his own right; these two friends worked smoothly as a team.

"You might say Lyndon and Mr. Sam both left at the same time," a congressional observer has said, "and the result was almost inevitable. They held this place together with baling wire, and when they left, it naturally fell apart."



One great difficulty is that most bills pass the Senate and House in somewhat different forms. These dififerences must be resolved in a conference by both bodies.

Stalemate

If either the House or Senate refuses to budge toward a compromise, a stalemate is created. Without Rayburn and Johnson around to knock heads together—so the argument runs — intramural squabbling has reached a distressing low.

4. "A civil rights smog," Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says, hampers all progress on Capitol Hill.

Those who want no part of civil rights legislation, this theory runs, enjoy a logjam that will help keep it off the floor.

As Assistant Senate Democratic leader — to Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana — Humphry has no illusions about his job.

Until the civil rights issue is resolved, Humphrey says, "leaders can implore and deplore, but there will not be much improvement."

5. Congress appropriates $5.1 billions a year for space exploration, yet in its own operations it travels by stage coach.

Traditionally, the House and Senate meet at noon. Once these sessions start, committees must quit unless they have special permission to continue.

The result can be absurd: A Cabinet officer may be testifying on problems of supreme importance, but he must be interrupted so members can attend to what often is listless, nonsensical business in the main chamber.

W. G. Phillips, executive secretary of the Democratic Study Group, made up of around 125 administration House members who consider programs, tactics and reforms, says: "Take the House folding room, which does our mailing.

"Those machines were put in around 1910, and they're so old it costs more to maintain them than it would to get new, efficient equipment. You ought to drop down there sometime. It's like watching an old Charlie Chaplin movie."

6. No unwritten law is more faithfully observed in Washington than this: A politician's first duty is to get re-elected.

For House members, who must face the voters every two years, this can be all-absorbing. They can, and often do, spend most of their time running errands for their constituents, giving but perfunctory attention to their $100-billion lawmaking, which in theory is what they hired out for.

The Ethical

7. Ethical lapses, or even outright scandals, are really a side issue in any consideration of what's the matter with Congress, but they may be paramount in what the public thinks of it.

Politically we're a suspicious people, ready, sometimes even eager, to believe the worst about our legislators.

Stories about using influence to swing profitable deals, about relatives on payrolls, about junkets — all these can shake confidence in Congress even though investigation may show the innuendoes are far more spectacular than the facts.

Curiously, the most damaging blow of 1963 didn't directly involve a congressman, but an employe. Robert G. Baker, who worked up from page boy to secretary of the Senate majority, resigned after he was charged in a civil suit as a manipulator of vending machine contracts with government suppliers.

Since Baker had been a protege of Johnson's, and since he was on the friendliest terms with many senators, the allegations against him produced a shower of titillation and speculation.

"We've got the Bobby Baker case," one Democratic senator has gloomily observed. "That's what this Congress will be remembered for."

These complaints could be extended; indeed, several books are being written right now in which congressional failures and frailties are detailed at length.

But it should be remembered that some of the exasperation arises from traits inherent in the democratic process.

Anyone who ever attended a P-TA or union meeting knows that in theory true democracy is wonderful; in practice it can be a monumental bore.

Look at this:

"I am wearied to death with the life I lead. The business of Congress is tedious beyond expression. This assembly is like no other that ever exisited. Every man in it is a great man, an orator, a critic, a statesman; and therefore every man upon every question must show his oratory, his criticism, and his political abilities.

"The consequence of this is that business is drawn and spun out to an immeasurable length. I believe if it was moved and seconded that three and two make five, we should be entertained with logic and rhetoric, law, history, politics and mathematics, and then—we should pass the resolution unanimously in the affirmative."

This criticism is pointed and timely, yet it was written by John Adams of the old Continental Congress, before the Constitution was adopted.

Surprisingly, some complaints about Congress could be easily settled by instituting reforms and changes.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., who as a House member in 1946 joined Sen. Robert M. La Follette, R-Wis., in writing the last reorganization plan, believes perhaps 20 to 40 changes may be helpful.

LADY BIRD JOHNSON IN BUSINESS, POLITICS

EDITOR'S NOTE — The smiling First Lady from Texas conveys an image of Southern breeding which often obscures the great practical ability she can display in fields of business and as an effective campaigner for her husband. Here is a look at Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson which reveals her charm as well as her business acumen.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Close friends and associates say that Lady Bird Johnson is much more of a personality than her soft Texas drawl implies.

They say the 5-foot-4 brunette, who punctuates her conversation with "m'am" and urges, "Y'all come back soon now, hear," is a self-disciplined, strong-willed and dedicated person. For years she has managed two homes—A Washington residence and a Texas ranch—raised two daughters and built a lucrative business on her own.

SHE BORROWED

From the day she borrowed $10,000 from her father to launch Lyndon's first campaign for Congress in 1937, she has placed her husband's future and welfare first in her thinking.

She has been campaigner and critic for the nation's 36th President and is expected to continue in both roles now. Only 10 months remain in the term turned over to Johnson by a tragic moment in history. His wife may have only brief time to act as First Lady before she again resumes active politicking with her husband.

From the record of her experience, indefatigable interest in causes and charities, her own desire to be "an extra pair of eyes and ears" for her husband, and her redoubtable energy, friends predict Lady Bird will follow the pattern of former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt.

She has pitched in through the years, holding a stopwatch to Lyndon's speeches, gently easing him through thousands of handshakes, standing by in every crisis, ever applauding from the sidelines.

Besides that, when the chips were down, she flung herself into campaigning and barnstormed through 30 states and 35,000 miles for the Democratic ticket in 1960.

Lady Bird admits "I'm not deeply informed on politics" and leaves the discussion to Lyndon, but key Democrats confirm her impact on the voters.

If you ask, "What's Lady Bird like?" her friends say she's warm, intuitive, thoughtful of everyone else, has a poetic way of speaking, probably the result of reading and re-reading the classics in childhood.

She never loses her temper—and never loses a friend.

"I can't recall a time when 'Bird' lost her disposition," a Senate wife and fellow campaigner said, "and I have seen her under some tough pressures. She's the most disciplined person I have ever known in my life.

"When you describe her to anyone else, she turns out sounding too good to be true—but she's like that."

A Memphis newspaperman watching her campaign in 1960 described Mrs. Johnson as "a blend of feminine charm and shrewd practicality."

A lawyer, who has handled her business affairs, notes, "She can pick up a balance sheet and look at it with the same discernment another woman displays toward a piece of cloth."

GOOD AT FINANCES

Mrs. Johnson, who inherited wealth from her mother's Alabama cotton landowner family, gets much of the credit for handling the LBJ financial interests.

In addition, she was the owner of a million -- dollar radio-television business in Texas. She turned her interests over to trustees when her husband succeeded to the presidency.

After 20 years of building up her own broadcasting enterprise, the nation's new First Lady has settled down to operating a 132-room domain where costs come to some $680,000 a year. Her 29 years of partnership in marriage and politics with Lyndon Johnson make her perhaps better prepared than any other First Lady for the exacting demands of her role.

Mrs. Johnson, just turned 51, has some credos of her own. One thing she preaches is that "in the space age, passive citizenship is a luxury no one can afford.

She has proved she can take a courageous stand when needed. An Arab diplomat recently protested her honorary sponsorship of a cause marking the 15th anniversary of Israel's independence. The then vice president's wife replied that the easiest course for the wife of a public official "would be, of course, never to lend name, hand or heart to any endeavor, charitable or commemorative."

"I have, for whatever small value it may be, tried to be accessible and available to as many as possible without distinction as to religion, race or region and certainly including all states of the Middle East. I shall continue to do so."

Lady Bird's idea of relaxing is a bridge game, a friend says, "but it never happens."

In an effort to get away for a breather, Mrs. Johnson sneaked off last July for a two-week incognito vacation in Mexico with her brother, Antonio J. Taylor, 59, of Sante Fe, N.M., and his wife.

Lady Bird, who thinks there is need for bonds of understanding and language with Latin America, has been studying Spanish some six hours a week for two years with a small group of Washington friends. She spoke Spanish most of the two weeks in homes of her brother's friends and in remote areas.

Antonio, who has been in the international importing business for 37 years, is Lady Bird's tie with her childhood. Her father, Thomas Jefferson Taylor, and another brother, T. J. Jr., died several years ago.

Lady Bird was born in the East Texas hamlet of Karnack, where her father owned 18,000 tenant-farmed acres, operated cotton gins and a general store, with a sign proclaiming he was a "dealer in everything."

He and his wife, Minnie Lee Pattillo, moved from Alabama to Texas just before the turn of the century. There were two sons and then Lady Bird, born about Dec. 22, 1912.

Actually, she was named Claudia Alta Taylor, after an uncle, Claude Pattillo, considered "the man of strength" of her mother's family.

NICKNAME

It was a Negro nurse, Cindy Gibson, who said the infant was "pretty as a lady bird," and launched the lifelong nickname.

Lady Bird's mother was a woman of culture whose family was among the largest cotton landholders in their homeseat of Billingsly, Ala. She was the well-read one, whose books filled the family's antebellum brick house in Karnack.

She died when Lady Bird was almost 6, leaving a share-and-share-alike inheritance to her three children.

The two boys already were in boarding schools. Lady Bird was sent to stay with Alabama relatives. Later, an unmarried aunt, Effie Pattillo, came from Alabama to help raise her.

The influence of the Alabama relatives on Lady Bird was great. Aunt Effie was the closest. Uncle Claude, who knew she might some day be managing her mother's holdings, each Christmas sent his teen-age niece special gifts of books on property management and business methods. And Lady Bird read them. Both Effie and Claude left Lady Bird inheritances, too, mainly Alabama cotton and timber land interests.

Lady Bird, returning to Marshall, Tex., recently to make a service club speech, recalled the shyness of her school days and how she feared she might get top grades in her class and thus be called on to make the high school commencement speech.

"But I was saved, I came in third," she said.

Lady Bird took a 10-week public speaking course to try to overcome her stage fright, but she confessed to her Marshall friends: "Here I am, 10,000 barbecues and several hundred speeches later, and I am still scared."

Always a good student, Lady Bird finished high school with honors at 15 and went to St. Mary's Episicopal School for Girls in Dallas before entering the University of Texas. There, she majored in history as her daughter, Lynda Bird, 19, has been doing. Graduating in 1933, she went another year to earn a bachelor of science degree in journalism.

Together, Lyndon and Lady Bird moved from small-town Texas to big-time Washington. She was 21 and just out of college when she met and married Johnson, then 26 and starting his political career as executive secretary to a Texas congressman.

They like to recall now that Lyndon proposed on the first date. But, when it came to the wedding two months later, Nov. 17, 1934, in St. Mark's Episcopal church in San Antonio, Lyndon forgot the ring. A friend was dispatched and purchased one in a hurry. Sentimental Lady Bird has never let Lyndon replace that modest ring.

It was with some of the inheritance from her mother that Lady Bird, who always wanted to buy a newspaper, finally invested in a debt-ridden Austin radio station late in 1942.

The first thing she did, an associate recalls, was to get soap and a bucket of water and get to work cleaning the place up. Then she worked month after month until finally the station showed an $18 profit. It was on the way up.

From a daytime - only operation with just eight employes, it has built into a lucrative enterprise with a staff that runs between 105 and 110 employes.

Home life at the Johnsons often is disrupted by thousands of miles of travel and innumerable public appearances. Nevertheless Johnson found time to approve—and often buy—clothes for his wife and daughters.

Lady Bird prefers soft, feminine clothes with simple good lines and bright, vibrant colors like reds, oranges and yellows to set off her dark hair and brown eyes. She isn't influenced by designer names, but picks what looks natural for her. Informal ranch clothes always are included in her wardrobe.

On the Texas range, she usually leaves the horseback riding to LBJ. Once invited to join a water-polo match in the ranch pool, she said, "No thanks, folks. If it takes muscles, I'm against it."

Lady Bird admits to a twinge of guilt that her daughters may have suffered by her many absences from home due to demands of public life. She may tend to overindulge them as a result.

She says she has tried to teach her daughters not to feel important because of their father's position, and tells them: "It's the job that's important, not you and me."

FROM A painfully shy schoolgirl, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has become a poised public speaker. But underneath the outward poise, the shyness has left its mark. In an effort to overcome stage fright, Lady Bird Johnson took a 10-week public speaking course. She has made hundreds of speeches since then but recently told friends she is "still scared." WORK CORNERSTONE FOR SOLICITOR GENERAL COX

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief justice of the United States leans slightly forward in his high-backed leather chair, and says: "Mr. Solicitor General?"

From a front seat, a tall man with a gray crewcut and wearing a black cutaway unfolds like a carpenter's rule and strides to the rostrum facing the nine black-cloaked justices.

His large hands arrange some books and papers before him. With the slightest hint of a bow, he begins: "Mr. Chief Justice: may it please the court."

Gestures

His gestures are sweeping and emphatic. A yellow wooden pencil seems a part of his right hand. He wields it sometimes like a dueling sword, sometimes like the conductor of a nine-man chamber orchestra. He jabs the air for emphasis with it, swirls it in dramatic style above his head, thrusts it forward in curt dismissal of opposing argument.

As solicitor general Cox—more commonly called Archie but not in court—represents the U.S. government in the Supreme Court. Yet the job is strangely unfamiliar to the general public.

The $20,500 position is third highest in the Justice Department, behind the attorney general and deputy attorney general. It doesn't rate a limousine. Cox drives his own car and frequently strides briskly the half-mile up Capitol Hill to the Supreme Court Building, trailing the swallow tails of the traditional morning coat worn by government lawyers who argue in the highest court.

The solicitor general may conduct and argue any case in which the United States has an interest, in any court in the land. No appeal is taken by the government to any appellate court or to the Supreme Court without his authorization. He thus faces the diplomatic chore of keeping other government agencies content while turning away, over their objections, some of the cases he doesn't feel merit Supreme Court attention.

WORK IS CAREER and recreation for Archibald Cox, who as solicitor general represents the United States government in the Supreme Court. He was named to the third highest job in the Justice Department two years ago by the late President Kennedy. Cox is seen in his Washington office in the swallow tails he wears to argue cases before the court. His simple desk was used by his grandfather and patent - lawyer father. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Work is Cox's cornerstone. It goes home with him at night. He claims no hobbies and only occasional light reading—"a bad detective story, sometimes, perhaps." For diversion he walks in the woods along the Potomac near his Great Falls, Va. home.

His life continues to reflect what he told his classmates of Harvard, '34, in a report 25 years later: "My only hobby, I guess, is my work, unless it be an occasional venture into nonpartisan town politics. . . . The view that I hold with the greatest conviction is that Ezra Thayer was right in observing that the central tragedy of life is that there are only 24 hours in the day."

The enormous chore of preparing the government's hundreds of legal briefs for the Supreme Court and for other courts—nearly 1,000 each year falls on the solicitor general and his nine-man staff. This accounts for much more of his time than the more ostentatious task of actually appearing before the court to argue, a job shared with assistants and other department lawyers.

Cox readily says that after scores of appearances in the rarified atmosphere of the high tribunal, he still holds it in awe and remains susceptible to butterflies in the stomach.

Surrendered

On the eve of his opening argument recently in a historic case dealing with legislative apportionment, Cox went dutifully to bed at 10 p.m. By midnight he was wide awake. As the night wore on he tossed, turned and dozed fitfully.

Finally he surrendered to the butterflies and drove to work at 6 a.m.

"A lawyer never loses his awe and respect for the Supreme Court," he once said. "You never can escape the awesomeness of their responsibilities. And eventually I have come to develop a genuine fondness for the justices."

Unlike the job of a district attorney, he explained, the task of the solicitor general is "not to wade into court trying to win everything in sight."

"I like to think my arguments and very existence are aimed at helping the court," he reflected. "I believe the solicitor general must achieve a delicate balance between thinking like a justice and thinking like an advocate. And if my opponent should miss a valid argument, even though it opposes my own, I will myself point it out to the court."

It even falls to the solicitor general on occasion to go to the Supreme Court and "confess error"—in effect to tell the court that the government was wrong even in winning in lower courts and ask for a reversal.

As solicitor general, Cox has come away on top in better than two-thirds of the 40-plus cases he has argued since he was named to the job January 1961.

"A solicitor general could win them all by picking the easy ones to argue," he says. "And I have not won them all."

Born in Plainfield, N.J., the son of a patent lawyer, Cox earned his law degree at Harvard. One of his teachers was Felix Frankfurter, now a former associate justice of the Supreme Court. He later was to come under the influence of the late judge Learned Hand as his law clerk in the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

Later Cox worked in the solicitor general's office from late 1941 to 1943, when he became an associate solicitor in the Labor Department. He returned to Harvard in 1945 to become a professor of labor law.

Former President Harry S. Truman appointed him in 1952 to be chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board. He resigned in protest after four months when Truman approved a pay increase for coal miners beyond that recommended by top defense officials.

Cox married Phyllis Ames of Wayland, Mass., in 1937. They have three children.

Reared an Episcopalian, he now admits to being "in a state of lapse."

Associates of Cox describe him as "an intellectual who has the capacity to use his talent effectively."

WORK CORNERSTONE FOR SOLICITOR GENERAL COX

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief justice of the United States leans slightly forward in his high-backed leather chair, and says: "Mr. Solicitor General?"

From a front seat, a tall man with a gray crewcut and wearing a black cutaway unfolds like a carpenter's rule and strides to the rostrum facing the nine black-cloaked justices.

His large hands arrange some books and papers before him. With the slightest hint of a bow, he begins: "Mr. Chief Justice: may it please the court."

Gestures

His gestures are sweeping and emphatic. A yellow wooden pencil seems a part of his right hand. He wields it sometimes like a dueling sword, sometimes like the conductor of a nine-man chamber orchestra. He jabs the air for emphasis with it, swirls it in dramatic style above his head, thrusts it forward in curt dismissal of opposing argument.

As solicitor general Cox—more commonly called Archie but not in court—represents the U.S. government in the Supreme Court. Yet the job is strangely unfamiliar to the general public.

The $20,500 position is third highest in the Justice Department, behind the attorney general and deputy attorney general. It doesn't rate a limousine. Cox drives his own car and frequently strides briskly the half-mile up Capitol Hill to the Supreme Court Building, trailing the swallow tails of the traditional morning coat worn by government lawyers who argue in the highest court.

The solicitor general may conduct and argue any case in which the United States has an interest, in any court in the land. No appeal is taken by the government to any appellate court or to the Supreme Court without his authorization. He thus faces the diplomatic chore of keeping other government agencies content while turning away, over their objections, some of the cases he doesn't feel merit Supreme Court attention.

WORK IS CAREER and recreation for Archibald Cox, who as solicitor general represents the United States government in the Supreme Court. He was named to the third highest job in the Justice Department two years ago by the late President Kennedy. Cox is seen in his Washington office in the swallow tails he wears to argue cases before the court. His simple desk was used by his grandfather and patent - lawyer father. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Work is Cox's cornerstone. It goes home with him at night. He claims no hobbies and only occasional light reading—"a bad detective story, sometimes, perhaps." For diversion he walks in the woods along the Potomac near his Great Falls, Va. home.

His life continues to reflect what he told his classmates of Harvard, '34, in a report 25 years later: "My only hobby, I guess, is my work, unless it be an occasional venture into nonpartisan town politics. . . . The view that I hold with the greatest conviction is that Ezra Thayer was right in observing that the central tragedy of life is that there are only 24 hours in the day."

The enormous chore of preparing the government's hundreds of legal briefs for the Supreme Court and for other courts—nearly 1,000 each year falls on the solicitor general and his nine-man staff. This accounts for much more of his time than the more ostentatious task of actually appearing before the court to argue, a job shared with assistants and other department lawyers.

Cox readily says that after scores of appearances in the rarified atmosphere of the high tribunal, he still holds it in awe and remains susceptible to butterflies in the stomach.

Surrendered

On the eve of his opening argument recently in a historic case dealing with legislative apportionment, Cox went dutifully to bed at 10 p.m. By midnight he was wide awake. As the night wore on he tossed, turned and dozed fitfully.

Finally he surrendered to the butterflies and drove to work at 6 a.m.

"A lawyer never loses his awe and respect for the Supreme Court," he once said. "You never can escape the awesomeness of their responsibilities. And eventually I have come to develop a genuine fondness for the justices."

Unlike the job of a district attorney, he explained, the task of the solicitor general is "not to wade into court trying to win everything in sight."

"I like to think my arguments and very existence are aimed at helping the court," he reflected. "I believe the solicitor general must achieve a delicate balance between thinking like a justice and thinking like an advocate. And if my opponent should miss a valid argument, even though it opposes my own, I will myself point it out to the court."

It even falls to the solicitor general on occasion to go to the Supreme Court and "confess error"—in effect to tell the court that the government was wrong even in winning in lower courts and ask for a reversal.

As solicitor general, Cox has come away on top in better than two-thirds of the 40-plus cases he has argued since he was named to the job January 1961.

"A solicitor general could win them all by picking the easy ones to argue," he says. "And I have not won them all."

Born in Plainfield, N.J., the son of a patent lawyer, Cox earned his law degree at Harvard. One of his teachers was Felix Frankfurter, now a former associate justice of the Supreme Court. He later was to come under the influence of the late judge Learned Hand as his law clerk in the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

Later Cox worked in the solicitor general's office from late 1941 to 1943, when he became an associate solicitor in the Labor Department. He returned to Harvard in 1945 to become a professor of labor law.

Former President Harry S. Truman appointed him in 1952 to be chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board. He resigned in protest after four months when Truman approved a pay increase for coal miners beyond that recommended by top defense officials.

Cox married Phyllis Ames of Wayland, Mass., in 1937. They have three children.

Reared an Episcopalian, he now admits to being "in a state of lapse."

Associates of Cox describe him as "an intellectual who has the capacity to use his talents effectively."

Tigers Sneak Past Bastrop Five, 52-48

Ouachita High's gymnasium held an overflowing, spellbound crowd for approximately three hours Saturday night as it witnessed the finals of the Ouachita Invitational Basketball Tournament which produced two of the most exciting championship contests held anywhere this year. The defending double-A boys state champs, Neville, defeated Bastrop 52-48 in the last contest after Caldwell had swept from behind to edge the Neville girls 64-63 in the initial tilt of the night.

Immediately following the last game L. J. Fontenot, director of the tournament, presented the all-tournament selections which included the following.

A tie resulted in the voting for the girls most valuable player as both Yvonne May of Caldwell and Carolyn Courson of Neville, two of the finest girls performers in the state, were awarded the honor. In the championship contest, these two girls had provided a sparkling exhibition of shooting. May drilled the nets for 40 points and Courson, the Neville ace, canned 46 tallies during the dazzling show.

In the boys division Neville and Bastrop each had two selections while Ouachita had one. But West Monroe walked off with the top honor when it was announced that little Jamie Barrett, the hot-shot guard with the fine touch, was chosen the tournament's most valuable player.

West Monroe played two games in the meet and Barrett scored 25 the first night and 24 in a losing cause against Neville in the semi-finals Saturday.

Malcolm Smith and Joe Canal were selected from Neville, Jerry Harper and Buddy Quinn represented Bastrop and Dennis Crawley was Ouachita's member on the mythical club.

Setting the stage for the double-barrel thriller which was unreeled in the finals, four semi-final games were played earlier Saturday.

In girls action, Caldwell defeated Bonita, 62-43, and Neville won a real dilly from Springhill, 51-50.

Bastrop advanced by ousting the host Ouachita club, 61-49, and Neville picked up its 17th win of the campaign by toppling West Monroe, 60-50.

BOYS CHAMPIONSHIP

An ever - improving Bastrop quintet provided Neville with all it wanted and then some Saturday night and as a result they both provided a packed house all the entertainment they could possibly have wanted.

Coach Wig Riley's Rams outplayed Neville the first half, mostly on the boards, and held a 25-23 advantage.

Neville opened the scoring early on a long line-drive type jump shot by forward John Garrett for a 2-0 lead. Rickey Head promptly popped in his first of two straight jumpers to tie it up 2-2 with 1:05 gone.

This set the tempo of the entire first half as the two clubs continued to swap shots. The game was tied seven times during the first half.

Neville held a 12-9 lead going into the second quarter but all-tourney pick Buddy Quinn led an assault which quickly got Bastrop back in the heat of things and tied the contest, 16-16 with 5:00 left.

Neville could have been in worse shape at the half than it was, had not Malcolm Smith started to hit in the second quarter. The reliable all-stater took only one shot the entire first quarter and that was a desperation heave at the buzzer.

But "The Thin Man" began moving around in the second frame and popped in seven of his 16 points to keep the Neville machine moving forward.

Neville took control late in the third quarter and with 2:00 left, led by five, 38-33. Bastrop cut it in two, 38-36, with 1:35 to go when Quinn stole the ball and scored on a layup. But the Tigers played for one shot at this time and with eight seconds left Garrett cool connected from the corner for a four point advantage.

With its back to wall, Bastrop was able to match shorts with Neville the last quarter but could do no more as each team collected 12 points.

At one point, Bastrop narrowed Neville's lead to 44-42 on a shot by James Florence but the Tigers soon built it back to seven points, 50-43, with 2:30 left and had it virtually wrapped up.

The victory was the 50th for Coach Benny Hollis since taking over the reins at Neville less than two years ago. He has only seven blemishes on his record while there.

GIRLS CHAMPIONSHIP

Neville's girls seemed to be making a habit of playing in spine-tinglers Saturday, defeating Springhill by a single point and then losing to Caldwell by one.

The Tiger sextet got off to a good start against the Spartans and were leading, 15-12, at the end of the first quarter. It was already well understood by all who looked on that this was almost a personal duel between Caldwell's talented little forward Yvonne May and the Neville whiz Carolyn Courson.

As in the inital frame, Neville outscored the consoladated school three points in the second quarter and led by six, 35-29, at halftime.

In the third quarter May began getting a big assist in the scoring column from teammate Wanda Dunn, who tallied 18 in all, and the Spartan sextet started cutting the margin. Finally, with just 30 seconds to play in the third frame, May got loose on a fine drive and scored to give Caldwell the lead 50-49 going into the hectic fourth quarter.

The score was tied twice and changed hands no less than eight times during the frantic final frame.

Seconds after the start of the quarter, Courson hit for Neville to get the lead back for the Tigers, 51-50, but Dunn retaliated for Caldwell on a jumper for a 52-51 lead. The lead continued to switch hands for the next few minutes until Karen Crowe of Neville hit two free shots to tie it up 56-all.

With 2:20 left to play Courson connected on a long set shot to bring Neville from two down again and leave the score 60-60. But Dunn and May each canned baskets in the last minutes to give the winners a 64-61 lead which Courson cut to one, 64-63, with eight seconds to play. However, it was all over and Caldwell had itself anouther tourney title.

Wanda Dunn and Yvonne May clinched Caldwell Parish's runaway semifinal 62-43 victory over Bonita in Saturday's opener.

Wanda pulled down 24 points and Yvonne May put away 21. Barbara Herrington paced Bonita with 20 points.

Springhill and Neville girls tied up a semifinal struggle of two scorers with the Monroe sextet emerging with a 51-50 victory.

Jean Ann Riley whipped in 32 points for Springhill but Neville's basket artist, Carolyn Courson, tallied 34.

OUACHITA STOPPED

Ouachita's Lions stayed neck and neck with the sleek Bastrop Rams through most of the first quarter but after ending the opener two points behind, they began a steady drift behind.

With Crawley and his tall counterpart, Doug Howell grabbing away the rebounds, Bastrop watched the gap close to a shaky 41-30 when the third period closed.

But Bastrop's Harper and Buddy Quinn were not to be stopped. The tall two ripped the nets througout the game to run up 16 and 15 points respectively. Then there was the backcourt threat Ricky Head to fill in where the big boys couldn't.

The Lion revival carred the hosts to within nine points in the fourth stanza when the tally was 50-41 but a free shot put the Rams up another notch.

The Lions, in the closing seconds, kept the margin at 10 points right to the buzzer. With the count on 59-49, Head made two free throws and the buzzer ended the contest.

NEVILLE MOVES ON

A battle of the short guys erupted in the Neville - West Monroe rivalry but it was the support from the tall guys that counted as Neville boasted a 35-18 halftime lead over the fighting Rebels.

The Bengals' Joe Canal packed in 13 points in the uphill battle while his Reb counterpart, Jamie Barrett, waited until the downhill to fire open.

After keeping pace with the Tigers in the opening stanza, West Monroe weakened in the second and it looked as if the victory were clearly clinched.

As the third period waned, Barrett was hitting the basket right and in the closing quarter, Richard Anderson's rebounding combined with Head's burst pulled the Rebs to 44-30 difference.

But where Canal missed out, the Tigers had Malcolm Smith's 16 points and J. Dodd Brooks' 12 to insure success. John Garrett was not idle with 10 points.

SURVIVOR WINS

Offense Butts Defense In AFL Collision Today

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The most irrestible offense in the American Football League collides with its most immovable defense Sunday and either San Diego or Boston — whichever survives the collision—will win its first AFL title.

The game starts at 4:30 p.m. EST and will be carried nationally by ABC's television and radio networks.

The weather should be balmy and Balboa Stadium, which seats about 34,500, should be just about full.

This will be the third championship game for San Diego. Three years ago, before they moved here from Los Angeles, the Chargers lost their first championship game to the Houston Oilers. Two years ago the Oilers won the championship again by defeating San Diego.

Boston will be playing in the title game for the first time. The Patriots won the Eastern Division championship in a playoff with Buffalo and finished with eight victories, six losses and a tie.

The Chargers, who won their third Western title with an 11-3 record, defeated the Patriots 50-17 in a pre-season game and beat them twice, 17-13 and 7-6, during the regular season.

The 7-6 contest, played at Boston, was the lowest-scoring game in AFL history.

The Patriots led the league in total defense with an average of 265.3 yards allowed per game. The Chargers led in total offense, averaging 368.5 yards per game. Boston was fourth in total offense and San Diego was third in total defense.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman says the Patriots have "about as good a defense as there is in professional football." He says their defensive ends, Larry Eienhauer and Bob Dee, "are about as good as any you'll find," and Boston tackle Houston Antwine "is probably the most improved player in the league."

Boston's defense was particularly formidable against running plays, yielding an average of only 79.1 yards per game.

San Diego has the league's most effective passer, Tobin Rote, and two of its finest runners, halfback Paul Lowe and fullback Keith Lincoln.

Wisner Boys Win Meet At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) —Wisner's boys defeated Fort Necessity 57-37 to win the Winnsboro High Invitational here Saturday night. Ogden's girls took their end of the tournament with a 63-51 victory over Winnsboro.

Wisner defeated Gilbert 61-50 and Fort Necessity edged Ogden 57-55 in overtime during the boys semi-finals.

Ogden toppled Fort Necessity 54-41 and Winnsboro downed Mangham 40-34 in girls semi-finals.

Named to the boys all-tourney team were Mickey Carroll and Terry Moran, Wisner; Earl Hudson, Fort Necessity; Joe Eubanks, Ogden; Marty Harris, Gilbert and Bill Marioneaux, Winnsboro.

Named to the girls all-tourney team were Carol Thompson and Patsey Fortenberry of Ogden; Cheri Griffin and Sandra Coln, Winnsboro; Rhonda Jones, Mangham; Janice Boles, Fort Necessity; Nell Hammons, Central of Delhi.

Calvin's Boys Top Winnfield

CALVIN (Special) — Calvin's boys raced past AA Winnfield 72-46 here Saturday night with Gerry Bates scoring 17 points and Johnny Canerday 16. Bob Wyatt had 22 for Winnfield.

Calvin also won a girls ninth grade game, 52-43. Susie Hodges scored 21 points for the winners and Beth Garrett had 31 for the losers.

Nicholls State Defeats Badgers

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — Nicholls State led throughout the game in posting a 78-75 victory over Spring Hill of Mobile, Ala., Saturday night.

Gene Simmons, who started with a 25-point average, sank 24 to pace Nicholls. Craig Bernbrock was high for Spring Hill with 21.

THIS SHOT RECALLS the world record setting 17 foot 3-4 inch pole vault made by John Pennel of Northeast State College last August in Miami, Fla., the star's home town. Pennel spent a summer of record breaking vault performances and was chosen the 1963 winner of the coveted Sullivan Award.

FOR SPORTSMANSHIP

Pennel Sullivan Award Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — John Pennel, first man to valut more than 17 feet, is the 1963 winner of the Sullivan Award.

The award is given annually by the national AAU to the amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

The AAU said 524 sports authorities throughout the nation voted in its annual poll and that 165 of them rated Pennel as their top choice. He also drew 78 second place votes and was listed third on 56 other ballots. On a 5-3-1 basis, he grabbed 1,115 points.

Tommy Kono, the Hawaiian weight lifter, was second for the third straight year. He had 931 points. Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, who has lowered the world record for the 100-yard dash to 9.1 seconds, was third with 628.

Pennel is the 34th winner of the Sullivan Award which was inaugurated in 1930 when Robert T. Jones was honored after scoring his golfing grand slam. Jim Beatty, former North Carolina University middle distance runner, was the 1962 winner.

ODE, BILLY, GEORGE

Southern Trio Tops North Stars, 28-21

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Ode Burrell, Billy Lothridge and George Mira led the South to a 28-21 victory over the North in the 15th annual Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burrell, the Mississippi State halfback, scored two touchdowns on short runs. Quarterbacks Mira of Miami and Lothridge kicked all four extra points.

The South defense was hard pressed to stop a North rally led by Bill Munson of Utah State in the final period.

The Tech All-America was attempting to make the Senior Bowl's first field goal in the second quarter when his holder, Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, fumbled the snap.

Lothridge picked it up and fired a six-yard pass to his Tech teammate, end Bill Martin, for the South's third touchdown.

Munson led the North from a 28-7 deficit with two touchdown passes in the final quarter and kept the crowd on edge with his passing up to the final gun.

The North set a Senior Bowl record with 48 pass attempts, cracking the old mark of 42.

Munson passed 10 yards to Dick Drummond of George Washington for one score and then tossed two yards to Paul Krause of Iowa for another. His last pass attempt fell incomplete in the end zone as the game ended.

Burrell was chosen the game's outstanding player as well as the South's top back, and Miami tackle Dan Connors was chosen the South's outstanding lineman.

Munson was voted the North's outstanding back and Krause, an end, the Yankee's outstanding lineman.

The expected passing duel between Mira and Jack Concannon of Boston College failed to materialize. Both teams had to pass in a rain which grew heavier as the game progressed and Concannon was unable to make headway against it.

Pass interference calls led to the first touchdowns by the South and the North.

The South was given the ball at the two after an interference call early in the first quarter. Burrell took it over on the next play.

Mira made his first pass completion good for 15 yards and a touchdown later in the quarter, tossing to David Parks of Texas Tech.

The North's first score came in the first quarter after interference was called on a pass from Dick Shiner of Maryland. The North got the ball at the 10 and Shiner sneaked over from the one three plays later.

Burrell scored from the six in the third quarter and both teams battled defensively until Munson opened up his passing attack in the final period.

West Monroe Wins Meet At St. Paschal's

West Monroe won the boys division of the St. Paschal's basketball tournament here Friday night by defeating Jefferson 33-31. Terry Peddy scored 10 points for the winners and Mike Rogers had 16 for the losers. Ouachita defeated Logtown 41-16 for third place.

In the girls division Jefferson defeated Woodlawn 24-16. Linda Tullos scored 14 points for Jefferson and Lois Wade had 11 for Woodlawn. West Monroe captured third place by defeating Swartz 24-14.

Lady of Fatima won the boys sportsmanship trophy and St. Paschal's the girls.

Named to the boys all-tournament team were Mike Rogers and Ken Johnson of Jefferson; Rex Carr, Ouachita; Vernon Arrant, Logtown; and Terry Peddy of West Monroe. Mike Albritton of West Monroe was named most valuable player.

Girls all - tourney selection were Virginia Reeves of West Monroe; Lois Wade and Vickie Rutledge, Woodlawn; BeLinda Roper, Swartz; Linda Tullos, Jefferson; Marilyn Brady, St. Paschals.

Everett Case is in his 18th season as basketball coach at North Carolina State.

Luke Pulls Up To Pass Tiger In Track Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Shoot Luke overtook front-running Tiger Daumier before the stretch turn to win the $5,000 Mississippi Handicap at the Fair Grounds Saturday.

Tiger Daumier led most of the mile and one-sixteenth, followed by Levenia Prince and 5-2 favorite Count Dormal. Levenie Prince, moved up and took a three-length lead going into the stretch. But at the eighth pole, Shoot Luke moved from second place and won by two lengths.

Jockey Dennis Ward rode the winner, owned by Mrs. J. M. Branham of Tulsa, Okla., over a sloppy track in 1:50 and 2-5 to pay $7.60, $4.40 and $3.00. Levenia Prince returned $5.80 and $4.20 while Sun Ponder was worth $4.20.

Tigers Sneak Past Bastrop Five, 52-48

Ouachita High's gymnasium held an overflowing, spellbound crowd for approximately three hours Saturday night as it witnessed the finals of the Ouachita Invitational Basketball Tournament which produced two of the most exciting championship contests held anywhere this year. The defending double-A boys state champs, Neville, defeated Bastrop 52-48 in the last contest after Caldwell had swept from behind to edge the Neville girls 64-63 in the initial tilt of the night.

Immediately following the last game L. J. Fontenot, director of the tournament, presented the all-tournament selections which included the following.

A tie resulted in the voting for the girls most valuable player as both Yvonne May of Caldwell and Carolyn Courson of Neville, two of the finest girls performers in the state, were awarded the honor. In the championship contest, these two girls had provided a sparkling exhibition of shooting. May drilled the nets for 40 points and Courson, the Neville ace, canned 46 tallies during the dazzling show.

In the boys division Neville and Bastrop each had two selections while Ouachita had one. But West Monroe walked off with the top honor when it was announced that little Jamie Barrett, the hot-shot guard with the fine touch, was chosen the tournament's most valuable player.

West Monroe played two games in the meet and Barrett scored 25 the first night and 24 in a losing cause against Neville in the semi-finals Saturday.

Malcolm Smith and Joe Canal were selected from Neville, Jerry Harper and Buddy Quinn represented Bastrop and Dennis Crawley was Ouachita's member on the mythical club.

Setting the stage for the double-barrel thriller which was unreeled in the finals, four semi-final games were played earlier Saturday.

In girls action, Caldwell defeated Bonita, 62-43, and Neville won a real dilly from Springhill, 51-50.

Bastrop advanced by ousting the host Ouachita club, 61-49, and Neville picked up its 17th win of the campaign by toppling West Monroe, 60-50.

BOYS CHAMPIONSHIP

An ever - improving Bastrop quintet provided Neville with all it wanted and then some Saturday night and as a result they both provided a packed house all the entertainment they could possibly have wanted.

Coach Wig Riley's Rams outplayed Neville the first half, mostly on the boards, and held a 25-23 advantage.

Neville opened the scoring early on a long line-drive type jump shot by forward John Garrett for a 2-0 lead. Rickey Head promptly popped in his first of two straight jumpers to tie it up 2-2 with 1:05 gone.

This set the tempo of the entire first half as the two clubs continued to swap shots. The game was tied seven times during the first half.

Neville held a 12-9 lead going into the second quarter but all-tourney pick Buddy Quinn led an assault which quickly got Bastrop back in the heat of things and tied the contest, 16-16 with 5:00 left.

Neville could have been in worse shape at the half than it was, had not Malcolm Smith started to hit in the second quarter. The reliable all-stater took only one shot the entire first quarter and that was a desperation heave at the buzzer.

But "The Thin Man" began moving around in the second frame and popped in seven of his 16 points to keep the Neville machine moving forward.

Neville took control late in the third quarter and with 2:00 left, led by five, 38-33. Bastrop cut it in two, 38-36, with 1:35 to go when Quinn stole the ball and scored on a layup. But the Tigers played for one shot at this time and with eight seconds left Garrett cool connected from the corner for a four point advantage.

With its back to wall, Bastrop was able to match shorts with Neville the last quarter but could do no more as each team collected 12 points.

At one point, Bastrop narrowed Neville's lead to 44-42 on a shot by James Florence but the Tigers soon built it back to seven points, 50-43, with 2:30 left and had it virtually wrapped up.

The victory was the 50th for Coach Benny Hollis since taking over the reins at Neville less than two years ago. He has only seven blemishes on his record while there.

GIRLS CHAMPIONSHIP

Neville's girls seemed to be making a habit of playing in spine-tinglers Saturday, defeating Springhill by a single point and then losing to Caldwell by one.

The Tiger sextet got off to a good start against the Spartans and were leading, 15-12, at the end of the first quarter. It was already well understood by all who looked on that this was almost a personal duel between Caldwell's talented little forward Yvonne May and the Neville whiz Carolyn Courson.

As in the inital frame, Neville outscored the consoladated school three points in the second quarter and led by six, 35-29, at halftime.

In the third quarter May began getting a big assist in the scoring column from teammate Wanda Dunn, who tallied 18 in all, and the Spartan sextet started cutting the margin. Finally, with just 30 seconds to play in the third frame, May got loose on a fine drive and scored to give Caldwell the lead 50-49 going into the hectic fourth quarter.

The score was tied twice and changed hands no less than eight times during the frantic final frame.

Seconds after the start of the quarter, Courson hit for Neville to get the lead back for the Tigers, 51-50, but Dunn retaliated for Caldwell on a jumper for a 52-51 lead. The lead continued to switch hands for the next few minutes until Karen Crowe of Neville hit two free shots to tie it up 56-all.

With 2:20 left to play Courson connected on a long set shot to bring Neville from two down again and leave the score 60-60. But Dunn and May each canned baskets in the last minutes to give the winners a 64-61 lead which Courson cut to one, 64-63, with eight seconds to play. However, it was all over and Caldwell had itself anouther tourney title.

Wanda Dunn and Yvonne May clinched Caldwell Parish's runaway semifinal 62-43 victory over Bonita in Saturday's opener.

Wanda pulled down 24 points and Yvonne May put away 21. Barbara Herrington paced Bonita with 20 points.

Springhill and Neville girls tied up a semifinal struggle of two scorers with the Monroe sextet emerging with a 51-50 victory.

Jean Ann Riley whipped in 32 points for Springhill but Neville's basket artist, Carolyn Courson, tallied 34.

OUACHITA STOPPED

Ouachita's Lions stayed neck and neck with the sleek Bastrop Rams through most of the first quarter but after ending the opener two points behind, they began a steady drift behind.

With Crawley and his tall counterpart, Doug Howell grabbing away the rebounds, Bastrop watched the gap close to a shaky 41-30 when the third period closed.

But Bastrop's Harper and Buddy Quinn were not to be stopped. The tall two ripped the nets througout the game to run up 16 and 15 points respectively. Then there was the backcourt threat Ricky Head to fill in where the big boys couldn't.

The Lion revival carred the hosts to within nine points in the fourth stanza when the tally was 50-41 but a free shot put the Rams up another notch.

The Lions, in the closing seconds, kept the margin at 10 points right to the buzzer. With the count on 59-49, Head made two free throws and the buzzer ended the contest.

NEVILLE MOVES ON

A battle of the short guys erupted in the Neville - West Monroe rivalry but it was the support from the tall guys that counted as Neville boasted a 35-18 halftime lead over the fighting Rebels.

The Bengals' Joe Canal packed in 13 points in the uphill battle while his Reb counterpart, Jamie Barrett, waited until the downhill to fire open.

After keeping pace with the Tigers in the opening stanza, West Monroe weakened in the second and it looked as if the victory were clearly clinched.

As the third period waned, Barrett was hitting the basket right and in the closing quarter, Richard Anderson's rebounding combined with Head's burst pulled the Rebs to 44-30 difference.

But where Canal missed out, the Tigers had Malcolm Smith's 16 points and J. Dodd Brooks' 12 to insure success. John Garrett was not idle with 10 points.

SURVIVOR WINS

Offense Butts Defense In AFL Collision Today

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The most irrestible offense in the American Football League collides with its most immovable defense Sunday and either San Diego or Boston — whichever survives the collision—will win its first AFL title.

The game starts at 4:30 p.m. EST and will be carried nationally by ABC's television and radio networks.

The weather should be balmy and Balboa Stadium, which seats about 34,500, should be just about full.

This will be the third championship game for San Diego. Three years ago, before they moved here from Los Angeles, the Chargers lost their first championship game to the Houston Oilers. Two years ago the Oilers won the championship again by defeating San Diego.

Boston will be playing in the title game for the first time. The Patriots won the Eastern Division championship in a playoff with Buffalo and finished with eight victories, six losses and a tie.

The Chargers, who won their third Western title with an 11-3 record, defeated the Patriots 50-17 in a pre-season game and beat them twice, 17-13 and 7-6, during the regular season.

The 7-6 contest, played at Boston, was the lowest-scoring game in AFL history.

The Patriots led the league in total defense with an average of 265.3 yards allowed per game. The Chargers led in total offense, averaging 368.5 yards per game. Boston was fourth in total offense and San Diego was third in total defense.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman says the Patriots have "about as good a defense as there is in professional football." He says their defensive ends, Larry Eienhauer and Bob Dee, "are about as good as any you'll find," and Boston tackle Houston Antwine "is probably the most improved player in the league."

Boston's defense was particularly formidable against running plays, yielding an average of only 79.1 yards per game.

San Diego has the league's most effective passer, Tobin Rote, and two of its finest runners, halfback Paul Lowe and fullback Keith Lincoln.

Named to the girls all-tourney team were Carol Thompson and Patsey Fortenberry of Ogden; Cheri Griffin and Sandra Coln, Winnsboro; Rhonda Jones, Mangham; Janice Boles, Fort Necessity; Nell Hammons, Central of Delhi.

Calvin's Boys Top Winnfield

CALVIN (Special) — Calvin's boys raced past AA Winnfield 72-46 here Saturday night with Gerry Bates scoring 17 points and Johnny Canerday 16. Bob Wyatt had 22 for Winnfield.

Calvin also won a girls ninth grade game, 52-43. Susie Hodges scored 21 points for the winners and Beth Garrett had 31 for the losers.

Nicholls State Defeats Badgers

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — Nicholls State led throughout the game in posting a 78-75 victory over Spring Hill of Mobile, Ala., Saturday night.

Gene Simmons, who started with a 25-point average, sank 24 to pace Nicholls. Craig Bernbrock was high for Spring Hill with 21.

THIS SHOT RECALLS the world record setting 17 foot 3-4 inch pole vault made by John Pennel of Northeast State College last August in Miami, Fla., the star's home town. Pennel spent a summer of record breaking vault performances and was chosen the 1963 winner of the coveted Sullivan Award.

FOR SPORTSMANSHIP

Pennel Sullivan Award Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — John Pennel, first man to valut more than 17 feet, is the 1963 winner of the Sullivan Award.

The award is given annually by the national AAU to the amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Pennel, 23-year-old senior at Northeast Louisiana State College, made his spectacular vault at Coral Gables, Fla., his home city, on Aug. 24. He cleared 17 feet, 3-4 inch.

The AAU said 524 sports authorities throughout the nation voted in its annual poll and that 165 of them rated Pennel as their top choice. He also drew 78 second place votes and was listed third on 56 other ballots. On a 5-3-1 basis, he grabbed 1,115 points.

Tommy Kono, the Hawaiian weight lifter, was second for the third straight year. He had 931 points. Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, who has lowered the world record for the 100-yard dash to 9.1 seconds, was third with 628.

Pennel is the 34th winner of the Sullivan Award which was inaugurated in 1930 when Robert T. Jones was honored after scoring his golfing grand slam. Jim Beatty, former North Carolina University middle distance runner, was the 1962 winner.

West Monroe Wins Meet At St. Paschal's

West Monroe won the boys division of the St. Paschal's basketball tournament here Friday night by defeating Jefferson 33-31. Terry Peddy scored 10 points for the winners and Mike Rogers had 16 for the losers. Ouachita defeated Logtown 41-16 for third place.

In the girls division Jefferson defeated Woodlawn 24-16. Linda Tullos scored 14 points for Jefferson and Lois Wade had 11 for Woodlawn. West Monroe captured third place by defeating Swartz 24-14.

Lady of Fatima won the boys sportsmanship trophy and St. Paschal's the girls.

Named to the boys all-tournament team were Mike Rogers and Ken Johnson of Jefferson; Rex Carr, Ouachita; Vernon Arrant, Logtown; and Terry Peddy of West Monroe. Mike Albritton of West Monroe was named most valuable player.

Girls all - tourney selection were Virginia Reeves of West Monroe; Lois Wade and Vickie Rutledge, Woodlawn; BeLinda Roper, Swartz; Linda Tullos, Jefferson; Marilyn Brady, St. Paschals.

Everett Case is in his 18th season as basketball coach at North Carolina State.

ODE, BILLY, GEORGE

Southern Trio Tops North Stars, 28-21

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Ode Burrell, Billy Lothridge and George Mira led the South to a 28-21 victory over the North in the 15th annual Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burrell, the Mississippi State halfback, scored two touchdowns on short runs. Quarterbacks Mira of Miami and Lothridge kicked all four extra points.

The South defense was hard pressed to stop a North rally led by Bill Munson of Utah State in the final period.

The Tech All-America was attempting to make the Senior Bowl's first field goal in the second quarter when his holder, Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, fumbled the snap.

Lothridge picked it up and fired a six-yard pass to his Tech teammate, end Bill Martin, for the South's third touchdown.

Munson led the North from a 28-7 deficit with two touchdown passes in the final quarter and kept the crowd on edge with his passing up to the final gun.

The North set a Senior Bowl record with 48 pass attempts, cracking the old mark of 42.

Munson passed 10 yards to Dick Drummond of George Washington for one score and then tossed two yards to Paul Krause of Iowa for another. His last pass attempt fell incomplete in the end zone as the game ended.

Burrell was chosen the game's outstanding player as well as the South's top back, and Miami tackle Dan Connors was chosen the South's outstanding lineman.

Munson was voted the North's outstanding back and Krause, an end, the Yankee's outstanding lineman.

The expected passing duel between Mira and Jack Concannon of Boston College failed to materialize. Both teams had to pass in a rain which grew heavier as the game progressed and Concannon was unable to make headway against it.

Pass interference calls led to the first touchdowns by the South and the North.

The South was given the ball at the two after an interference call early in the first quarter. Burrell took it over on the next play.

Mira made his first pass completion good for 15 yards and a touchdown later in the quarter, tossing to David Parks of Texas Tech.

The North's first score came in the first quarter after interference was called on a pass from Dick Shiner of Maryland. The North got the ball at the 10 and Shiner sneaked over from the one three plays later.

Burrell scored from the six in the third quarter and both teams battled defensively until Munson opened up his passing attack in the final period.

Luke Pulls Up To Pass Tiger In Track Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Shoot Luke overtook front-running Tiger Daumier before the stretch turn to win the $5,000 Mississippi Handicap at the Fair Grounds Saturday.

Tiger Daumier led most of the mile and one-sixteenth, followed by Levenia Prince and 5-2 favorite Count Dormal. Levenie Prince, moved up and took a three-length lead going into the stretch. But at the eighth pole, Shoot Luke moved from second place and won by two lengths.

Jockey Dennis Ward rode the winner, owned by Mrs. J. M. Branham of Tulsa, Okla., over a sloppy track in 1:50 and 2-5 to pay $7.60, $4.40 and $3.00. Levenia Prince returned $5.80 and $4.20 while Sun Ponder was worth $4.20.

The 9,431 fans who watched the 10 races during a drizzling rain bet a total of $603,907.

Winner's Circle

A pair of Louisiana's better coaches in their respective fields turned their charges loose over the Christmas-New Year's Day holiday with results that were more than a little surprising.

Both coaches are from "Northeast State college and neither had an outfit which was supposed to do much more than participate.

Coach Lenny Fant's basketball team entered the first annual Gulf States Classic in Ruston with a 1-3 record, which may been more a result of the Indians playing five of their six games at home than anything else.

It was not an overpowering Northeast team, inexperienced with only two seniors in the starting lineup, prone at times to choke against the press.

Arrayed against the Indians was the so-called cream of the Gulf States Conference. Southwestern was picked to win the crown with Louisiana Tech and Northwestern to tie for second. In fact Northeast was the only team in the meet which wasn't seriously regarded as a conference contender.

Southwestern defeated Northwestern according to form in the first game, then the Techsters took the floor and employed that unnerving long distance accuracy they sometimes utilize. With what appeared to be disdain, they moved the ball down court, shot from agonizingly far away and zip it was two more points. The few times they missed someone was under the nets to rebound and drop it in. The Techmen glided to a 14-point halftime lead while giving the impression the margin could have been much greater.

Exactly what happened in the second half is still difficult to say. This much is known. Tech suddenly went cold. Northeast suddenly got hot with Tommy Enloe finding the range at long distance, Jimmy Walker becoming a wildman to sweep the boards clean and the whole team playing wonderfully on defense.

The Bulldogs' appeared to panic. Unable to hit from way out, they suddenly found themselves unable to do much of anything. Slowly, but inevitably, like an onrushing wave, the Indians closed the gap, went ahead and won 77-73.

It is significant that Tech, went into the tournament with a 3-2 record, both losses coming on the road to Southeastern Conference teams. In addition the Bulldogs had handed two clubs their first defeats of the season, Southeastern Oklahoma, which later won the Lake Charles holiday tournament, and Arkansas Tech in a game at Russellville.

The victory over a veteran Bulldog team was the Indians' sixth in the last seven meetings and the third in Tech's memorial gym.

The next night Northwestern managed to keep in front of a still groggy Tech team and win 88-80 for consolation honors. Then, with people still convinced the night before had been a fluke, Northeast jumped out ahead of Southwestern's GSC favorites and held on fast for a 69-65 win and the tourney title.

Both Walker and Enloe were named to the all-tournament team and richly deserved it.

After the meet Fant said, "This probably helped us more than the others because it gave us some confidence." But when he was asked if he thought it should change thinking on the conference race, Fant quickly replied, "No, not one bit."

At The Sugar Bowl

A little while later Northeast Track Coach Bob Groseclose entered a contingent in the Sugar Bowl track and field meet in New Orleans. All week before the meet the publicity centered around a number of nationally known stars from elsewhere.

When the results were in, however, it was a slightly different story.

N. Charles Wicker wrote in the Times-Picayune, "Record breaking performances in the final two events kept runners from Southeastern and Northeast State of the Gulf States Conference and Tulane's Bill Shapiro from stealing the show and making the annual Sugar Bowl track and field meet a Louisiana dominated event."

As it turned out the two GSC schools won three of eight events.

The Lions also took first and third in the 100-meter run, thanks to Bob Fanning's 10.5 effort and Dave McDonald's 11.0.

After the meet Groseclose said, "I thought we did a terrific job under the circumstances. We got to work out two days in a three week period because of the rain and snow. The boys entered five events, took a first, a second and two thirds."

He agreed that Northeast and SLC had justified the Sugar Bowl's faith in giving them an invitation along with the better known people.

It was the second surprise triumph for Groseclose. His young cross country team foiled the experts' earlier in the season by winning the GSC title despite not being considered a contender.

Groseclose credited the success in both cases with spirit. "I'm not sure how you'd define it," he said, "maybe it's a self-preservation instinct. But these boys will run their guts out for you."

Along with the desire, of course, is natural ability. As the Indians track and field fame continues to grow the ability will become increasingly easy to come by.

Morgan, for example, read a teammate's Morning World at Naval Academy. When he decided to leave, he contacted Groseclose. And he came here, despite being offered scholarships to Ohio State, Villanova, Arizona State, New Mexico, Brigham Young and a number of other schools.

Ron Hunt of the New York Mets led National League second basemen in errors last season with 26 in 142 games.

Pennel Headliner For Boston Meet

BOSTON (AP)—John Pennel, first pole vaulter ever to clear 17 feet and Sullivan Award winner as amateur athlete of the year, joins brilliant miler Tom O'Hara among the headliners in the 38th Boston Knights of Columbus Games Jan. 11.

In this curtain raiser on the AAU indoor schedule, the defenders will include hurdler Hayes Jones, unbeaten in more than 50 indoor tests; the Canadian pair of Bruce Kidd in the three-mile and Bill Crothers at 1,000 yards, and former Yale ace Jay Luck in the 600.

Pennel, 23, vaulted 17 feet, ¾ inch in his hometown of Miami last August. The Northeast Louisiana State College senior will be making his first Boston Garden appearance.

His principal competition is expected from three other 16-plus vaulters—Rolando Cruz, John Belitza and Dave Tork.

O'Hara, the little runner from Loyola of Chicago, and defender Bill Dotson of Kansas both bring sub-four-minute clockings into the O'Reilly Mile. Both are strong candidates to lower the meet mark of 4:05 set by Ron Delany in 1958.

Canadian champion and '63 runner-up Jim Irons, Pat McNeal from Kansas State, Vic Zwolak from Villanova and former Boston College star Larry Rawson also are in the mile.

Kidd, the Canadian sensation, will be challenged at three miles by Bob Schul of Miami of Ohio, recently voted top performer in the Sugar Bowl meet with his victory in the 5,000 meters. Also contesting are Jim Keefe of Central Connecticut State, Tom Larjis and Chris Williamson, an 8:50 two-miler who has beaten Kidd.

Crothers, 22-year-old pharmacist, opened his Olympic campaign with a 1:50.3. half-mile effort in San Francisco last week. Last year he lowered the K. of C. 1,000 record to 2:08.6.

John Thomas, who regained his old form by leaping 7-1½ in the San Francisco meet, heads the high jumpers.

Nationals Crush Southwesterners

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—George Bork and Hugh Rohrschneider of Northern Illinois and George Byrd of Boston University combined their plentiful talents today for a crushing 66-14 Nationals victory over the Southwest in the Southwest Challenge Bowl football game.

The slender Bork passed for three touchdowns—one to Byrd—and set up two more with his aerials as he completed 20 of 27 attempts for 243 yards. Bork also scored on a two-yard run.

Byrd scored on a 12-yard pass from Bork, a five-yard run with an interception and a six-yard scamper. He also set up two touchdowns with long kickoff returns.

Snell scored four touchdowns.

He plunged a yard on each of two TD smashes and sped seven and 35 yards for the other two.

Bork and his favorite target, Northern Illinois teammate Hugh Rohrschneider, were selected as outstanding back and lineman, respectively. Rohrschneider caught 10 passes for 207 yards.

There never was any question about which team was superior as Byrd took the opening kickoff 47 yards and the Nationals stayed on the ground, slamming to a touchdown scored by Bork.

The Nationals scored three touchdowns in the first period and two in the second. Then they racked up two more in the third and closed out with three in the final period.

The Southwest got its first touchdown in the second quarter on a 95-yard return of an intercepted pass by Pete Jacquess of Eastern New Mexico.

The other Southwest touchdown came in the final period on a seven-yard pass from Beau Carter of Fresno State to Jerry Kelley of Rice.

Star's Coach Calls Vaulter 'True Champ'

Northeast State Track Coach Bob Groseclose said Saturday that John Pennel "richly deserved" the Sullivan Award. Pennel, the Northeast pole vaulter, was announced Saturday as the winner of the coveted award, considered the top award an American amateur athlete can receive.

Groseclose called Pennel, the first man to vault 17 feet, a "true champion in every respect."

Groseclose's complete statement:

"I am most happy to hear that John has won the Sullivan Award. The manner in which John has received all his many honors and remained humble and appreciative to all those who have contributed to his success has been a constant inspiration to me. I feel that his teammates, Northeast State College and the people of the Twin Cities are proud to be included in some way among these contributors. John Pennel is really a true champion in every respect and richly deserves this great honor."

The Northeast coach said that Pennel was expected back at Northeast sometime Sunday afternoon. He has been in his hometown of Miami for the Year's Day vaulted in the Orange Bowl Track Meet, winning with 16-¾.

Pennel has less than a month of college left at Northeast. He is scheduled to graduate Feb. 1.

The Sullivan Award is the latest and biggest in a series of honors bestowed upon Pennel. Previously he was named Tack and Field Athlete of the Year by the Academy of Sports Editors and also the Columbus, Ohio, Touchdown Club. He also received the Best Single Performance Award of the National Amateur Athletic Union, the same organization which makes the Sullivan Award.

Last spring and summer Pennel broke or tied the world pole vault record seven times, ending his assault on the record books with the breaking of the 17-foot barrier Aug. 24 in Miama with 17-¾.

Dietzel Receives Long Extension For Army Pact

WEST POINT (AP) —Paul Dietzel has been given a lengthy extension on his contract as Army's football coach, it was learned Saturday.

The Military Academy confirmed Dietzel had recently signed a new contract, but would give no details on length or salary. However, it was reported the 39-year-old Ohioan's pact now runs through the 1971 season.

Dietzel, lured away from Louisiana State two years ago after gaining fame as one of the game's top coaches, has had two winning seasons at West Point—but both were climaxed by losses to Navy, making it five defeats in a row for Army in the service classic. The Cadets were 6-4 in 1962 and 7-3 this past season.

When Dietzel succeeded Dale Hall as Army coach, it is believed he was given a five-year contract. The one he recently signed reportedly adds five more years, making it run through 1971.

Dietzel is away from the academy and could not be reached for comment.

WARNS AGAINST TRUSTING SPEAKERS LIKE MORRISON

Editor, Shreveport Journal.

I have just finished watching Mayor Chep Morrison of New Orleans appear on a Cleveland, Ohio, television program, "Open Circuit."

I had seen Mayor Morrison in person several times during the last couple of Louisiana gubernatorial races while he was campaigning in my native North Louisiana, and carefully examined his campaign literature—which, as you may recall, contained pledges to "maintain segregation." I also remember Mr. Morrison's answers to a set of questions posed by The Journal after the first primary in 1959 in which he sounded like a firm supporter of the racial customs of the Deep South.

Well, it was a different type of Chep Morrison that appeared on the Cleveland television this afternoon. In answering a question from the television audience, he boasted that his part of the state had achieved more progress — yes "progress" — toward integration than most of the South. (As I recall, in 1959 he indicated that he did not consider race-mixing a goal toward which he wanted Louisiana to progress.)

Specifically, he boasted of the degree of mixing imposed upon the buses and parks of New Orleans. He pointed with pride to the fact that the New Orleans police do not arrest "Freedom Riders" who violate Louisiana laws. He blamed racial problems not upon the NAACP, or the federal government, but upon the Louisiana Legislature. He also lamented the "bigoted" attitudes prevalent in North Louisiana on racial affairs.

Not once did Mayor Morrison—who calls himself a segregationist while speaking in the South—have anything favorable about separation of the races. Instead his entire discussion of the race problem seemed to be a combination of boasts concerning the "progress" he has made in destroying segregation in New Orleans and insults directed at those Louisianians interested in preserving states' rights and racial integrity.

Here in Ohio, the only Southern spokesmen given an opportunity to address the people on radio and television seem to be those of the Chep Morrison variety. It is little wonder that many honest Northerners believe that the South is rapidly abandoning its belief in states' rights when men like him act as "representatives of responsible thinking" in Dixie.

I certainly hope that the good people of the Shreveport area are aware of the misrepresentations being spread about the true state of affairs in Louisiana, and take positive, immediate, steps to counteract them (perhaps starting out with placing gift subscriptions to The Journal in the hands of their Northern friends, relatives, and business associates.) And I also hope that they will remember Mayor Morrison's Northern speaking tours the next time he poses as a defender of segregation in North Louisiana.

Rick Bryan

Winner's Circle

A pair of Louisiana's better coaches in their respective fields turned their charges loose over the Christmas-New Year's Day holiday with results that were more than a little surprising.

Both coaches are from "Northeast State college and neither had an outfit which was supposed to do much more than participate.

Coach Lenny Fant's basketball team entered the first annual Gulf States Classic in Ruston with a 4-3 record, which may been more a result of the Indians playing five of their six games at home than anything else.

It was not an overpowering Northeast team, inexperienced with only two seniors in the starting lineup, prone at times to choke against the press.

Arrayed against the Indians was the so-called cream of the Gulf States Conference. Southwestern was picked to win the crown with Louisiana Tech and Northwestern to tie for second. In fact Northeast was the only team in the meet which wasn't seriously regarded as a conference contender.

Southwestern defeated Northwestern according to form in the first game, then the Techsters took the floor and employed that unnerving long distance accuracy they sometimes utilize. With what appeared to be disdain, they moved the ball down court, shot from agonizingly far away and zip it was two more points. The few times they missed someone was under the nets to rebound and drop it in. The Techmen glided to a 14-point halftime lead while giving the impression the margin could have been much greater.

Exactly what happened in the second half is still difficult to say. This much is known. Tech suddenly went cold. Northeast suddenly got hot with Tommy Enloe finding the range at long distance, Jimmy Walker becoming a wildman to sweep the boards clean and the whole team playing wonderfully on defense.

The Bulldogs' appeared to panic. Unable to hit from way out, they suddenly found themselves unable to do much of anything. Slowly, but inevitably, like an onrushing wave, the Indians closed the gap, went ahead and won 77-73.

It is significant that Tech, went into the tournament with a 3-2 record, both losses coming on the road to Southeastern Conference teams. In addition the Bulldogs had handed two clubs their first defeats of the season, Southeastern Oklahoma, which later won the Lake Charles holiday tournament, and Arkansas Tech in a game at Russellville.

The victory over a veteran Bulldog team was the Indians' sixth in the last seven meetings and the third in Tech's memorial gym.

The next night Northwestern managed to keep in front of a still groggy Tech team and win 88-80 for consolation honors. Then, with people still convinced the night before had been a fluke, Northeast jumped out ahead of Southwestern's GSC favorites and held on fast for a 69-65 win and the tourney title.

Both Walker and Enloe were named to the all-tournament team and richly deserved it.

After the meet Fant said, "This probably helped us more than the others because it gave us some confidence." But when he was asked if he thought it should change thinking on the conference race, Fant quickly replied, "No, not one bit."

At The Sugar Bowl

A little while later Northeast Track Coach Bob Groseclose entered a contingent in the Sugar Bowl track and field meet in New Orleans. All week before the meet the publicity centered around a number of nationally known stars from elsewhere.

When the results were in, however, it was a slightly different story.

N. Charles Wicker wrote in the Times-Picayune, "Record breaking performances in the final two events kept runners from Southeastern and Northeast State of the Gulf States Conference and Tulane's Bill Shapiro from stealing the show and making the annual Sugar Bowl track and field meet a Louisiana dominated event."

As it turned out the two GSC schools won three of eight events.

The Lions also took first and third in the 100-meter run, thanks to Bob Fanning's 10.5 effort and Dave McDonald's 11.0.

After the meet Groseclose said, "I thought we did a terrific job under the circumstances. We got to work out two days in a three week period because of the rain and snow. The boys entered five events, took a first, a second and two thirds."

He agreed that Northeast and SLC had justified the Sugar Bowl's faith in giving them an invitation along with the better known people.

It was the second surprise triumph for Groseclose. His young cross country team foiled the experts' earlier in the season by winning the GSC title despite not being considered a contender.

Groseclose credited the success in both cases with spirit. "I'm not sure how you'd define it," he said, "maybe it's a self-preservation instinct. But these boys will run their guts out for you."

Along with the desire, of course, is natural ability. As the Indians track and field fame continues to grow the ability will become increasingly easy to come by.

Morgan, for example, read a teammate's Morning World at Naval Academy. When he decided to leave, he contacted Groseclose. And he came here, despite being offered scholarships to Ohio State, Villanova, Arizona State, New Mexico, Brigham Young and a number of other schools.

Ron Hunt of the New York Mets led National League second basemen in errors last season with 26 in 142 games.

Pennel Headliner For Boston Meet

BOSTON (AP)—John Pennel, first pole vaulter ever to clear 17 feet and Sullivan Award winner as amateur athlete of the year, joins brilliant miler Tom O'Hara among the headliners in the 38th Boston Knights of Columbus Games Jan. 11.

In this curtain raiser on the AAU indoor schedule, the defenders will include hurdler Hayes Jones, unbeaten in more than 50 indoor tests; the Canadian pair of Bruce Kidd in the three-mile and Bill Crothers at 1,000 yards, and former Yale ace Jay Luck in the 600.

Pennel, 23, vaulted 17 feet, ¾ inch in his hometown of Miami last August. The Northeast Louisiana State College senior will be making his first Boston Garden appearance.

His principal competition is expected from three other 16-plus vaulters—Rolando Cruz, John Belitza and Dave Tork.

O'Hara, the little runner from Loyola of Chicago, and defender Bill Dotson of Kansas both bring sub-four-minute clockings into the O'Reilly Mile. Both are strong candidates to lower the meet mark of 4:05 set by Ron Delany in 1958.

Canadian champion and '63 runner-up Jim Irons, Pat McNeal from Kansas State, Vic Zwolak from Villanova and former Boston College star Larry Rawson also are in the mile.

Kidd, the Canadian sensation, will be challenged at three miles by Bob Schul of Miami of Ohio, recently voted top performer in the Sugar Bowl meet with his victory in the 5,000 meters. Also contesting are Jim Keefe of Central Connecticut State, Tom Laris and Chris Williamson, an 8:50 two-miler who has beaten Kidd.

Crothers, 22-year-old pharmacist, opened his Olympic campaign with a 1:50.3. half-mile effort in San Francisco last week. Last year he lowered the K. of C. 1,000 record to 2:08.6.

John Thomas, who regained his old form by leaping 7-1½ in the San Francisco meet, heads the high jumpers.

Nationals Crush Southwesterners

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—George Bork and Hugh Rohrschneider of Northern Illinois and George Byrd of Boston University combined their plentiful talents today for a crushing 66-14 Nationals victory over the Southwest in the Southwest Challenge Bowl fooball game.

The slender Bork passed for three touchdowns—one to Byrd—and set up two more with his aerials as he completed 20 of 27 attempts for 243 yards. Bork also scored on a two-yard run.

Byrd scored on a 12-yard pass from Bork, a five-yard run with an interception and a six-yard scamper. He also set up two touchdowns with long kickoff returns.

Snell scored four touchdowns.

COMIN' UP AFIELD

Duck Season Much Better

With Sam Hanna

Flyway Inventory Upcoming

Louisiana just concluded a duck season that was much improved over last year's, but the proof of the pudding won't be brought out until the annual inventory of the Mississippi Flyway is conducted within the next several days.

That's when the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service will count duck noses up and down the flyway to help determine the establishment of regulations for next season.

But the 1963-64 season in Louisiana was a good one, in view of season last year when hunters had a one-mallard limit and few days of shooting.

Richard Yancey, the assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, described the season that closed Thursday as a "real good duck season, particularly in South Louisiana."

He said the shooting was good all across the marshes of Louisiana. In fact, he said the season was excellent in the coastal region.

Catahoula Lake, which the Louisiana sportsman almost lost in a hassel over the location of the Jonesville lock and dam, had a good season while Northeast Louisiana had several days of good shooting, especially on Wham Brake during the snow.

Our area was hurt, however, because of the drought, which kept the woodlands dry. During the snow, ducks could be found in any place where the water was open.

The weather, of course, played a great part in giving Louisiana a good season, but the liberalization of the regulations also was a factor.

It should reflect an increase in duck stamps, still suffering from last year's decline because of the reduction on the season. Dick Yancey believes the increase in the turn-out of hunters will be 100 per cent over last season.

But don't forget that Louisiana, joined by several other Mississippi Flyway states, had a tough time convincing the federal authorities that the hunter was entitled to more days and more ducks, that an improved season would not hurt the waterfowl population.

This is where the January inventory comes in. Federal authorities, assisted by state authorities, will fly the flyway, estimating the number of ducks in each state of the flyway.

These figures will be used in setting the season for next winter.

But Yancey, without saying so, apparently thinks the inventory will show that the 35-day season with a four-duck limit didn't hurt the waterfowl population. Dick has never believed that gun pressure hurts the population.

Last year Louisiana ended up with 61 per cent of the ducks in the Mississippi Flyway. There are, presently, about 5-million ducks in the state (4-million in the marsh), which Yancey says is slightly more than this time last year.

If the inventory bears this trend out over the flyway, then we can't see, at the moment, a cutback next winter. In fact, we hope Louisiana will shoot for a bigger season.

And while the surveys and the studies and the conferences are being made, local sportsmen should encourage the state commission to develop a water control system for duck hunting in the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area near Monroe.

Of course, this will take money, but Northeast Louisiana will have to have water if the duck hunting is to improve. Except for a few good days, we weren't in position during the season for real good duck shooting.

Deer Season Closing

Deer hunters have until Friday to bag a buck, since the season is still open in the Delta although it is closed in the lighter deer areas of Louisiana.

When the final count has been tabulated, the state should show its biggest deer kill in history.

Of course the biggest part of the total kill has been made, because taking a buck in the latter part of the season is a bigger job than it is during the early days of the season.

What some hunters don't realize is that the bucks have already begun to shed their antlers. Two sets of antlers were found around a camp where we hunted last weekend, and for some strange reason we didn't see half as many bucks as we did a month ago.

Add this with the belief that the buck gets smarter and you've got a pretty spooky target toward the end of the season.

This thing of shedding their antlers is interesting, since some people believe that a buck grows his horns through the years until he gets a big rack in his ripe old age. They shed them annually, beginning around this time of the year, then regrow them in about three or four months.

The weather, if it's cold or if it's warm, and the condition of the deer, according to the biologists, are factors in nature's trickery of a buck shedding his prize.

It may be, there was a buck among those big does you saw.

The Cripple Gun

It hasn't been publicized often, but the .22-rifle has been back on the legal list of deer guns for the past three or four years. At one time it was against the law to shoot a deer with a .22-rifle.

But a bill in the last regular session of the Legislature, two years ago, to make the .22 illegal for deer hunting was rejected. This was unfortunate.

Every so often someone kills a deer with a 22-rifle, but in most cases, we bet, a shot from this light weapon only cripples the deer, leaving it to suffer or to escape to await death.

Game authorities in Louisiana are against having the .22-rifle as a legal weapon for deer hunting. They feel that cripple losses are bad enough without the .22.

In fact, a taxidermist told us the other day that the majority of deer he works on have previous wounds from squirrel shot or a .22-rifle.

A deer is a tough animal and a load of shot from a long distance or a .22-rifle only tends to cripple him. We don't intend to get into a discussion over the shotgun or the deer rifle, because we know that the high - powered rifle is the best, safest deer gun available. The deer rifle has more punch than the shotgun, and we haven't heard of a case yet where a hunter with a rifle killed one man and wounded three hunters, which happened in Tensas last weekend by a man with a shotgun.

What we're saying is that the .22-rifle should be outlawed for deer hunting and that hunters shouldn't shoot a deer unless they're close enough to kill him.

Little Man's Corner

The bucks were still walking and the little men made news afield.

From Monroe, George Holt, using Gordon Surgine's gun, killed two bucks on Davis Island. Hunting on the Paw Paw Island north of Tallulah, Ted Brownfield of Monroe stalked a spike and and killed him while Charles Ritchie, another local sportsman, killed his first buck, a spike.

Others getting bucks were Jimmy Perry, a 6-pointer, and Jimmy Rivers, a spike.

And, according to his hunting companions, Stanley Brister of Monroe, after four misses, finally dropped the "camp pet" in Madison Parish. It was a spike.

From West Monroe, Roland Stuart Thompson, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thompson, killed a 5-point buck in Tensas Parish. Roland killed the deer the day before Roland's 12th birthday.

W. H. Crews of Lake Providence killed an unusually large wolf near Willow Lake outside Lake Providence. A number of wolves was killed near Lake Providence last summer.

Danny Ray Fortenberry, also of Lake Providence, got an 8-point buck at the Nyanza Hunting Club. Jimmy Shepherd killed a spike and Troyce Duke got a 6-pointer.

Getting the limit of mallards in the rice fields of East Carroll were John Hankins and Phillip Hankins.

A group of Monroe hunters enjoyed a cold, windy duck hunt in Cameron Parish. They induced Edmund Brown, C. D. Oakley, Miles Sager, Dave Garrett and Robert Ewing. Two former Monroe sportsmen joined the group—Jim Ewing of Atlanta, Ga. and Theo Terzia of Shreveport.

In Tensas, the principal of Waterproof High School, Tatum Crosby, killed a spike buck and Wallace Hargon of Tensas dropped a 7-pointer.

On the fishing scene, Ed and Marion Menthupt caught the limit of white perch in Lake St. John.

As told to Paul Atkinson
Times-Picayune Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — My brother, Yelberton Abraham Tittle, just didn't happen to be-

Y. A. TITTLE

come a great passer. He worked at it.

I recall him going out in the back yard at our home about three miles from Marshall, Tex., and hanging up that old tire with a rope. He'd get that tire to swinging and still hit it on the button.

Because I'm seven years older than Y.A. I didn't get a chance to see him play much in high school. But he was an all-state fullback and one heckuva player. I was playing at Tulane University here while he was in high school.

The most vivid memory of Y.A. as a kid was that he always wanted to win—or at least tie. We'd be playing marbles, tops or football—touch or tackle—and he'd keep me playing until he won or tied me.

We have a younger brother, Don, who lives in Durant, Okla., now. Y.A. had a real swell deal worked out with Don.

Y.A. appointed Don his pass catcher. He'd tell Don that the only way he could play football was to run and the best way to do that was to run out and shag Y.A. passes.

Our father was against football at first.

When I got in high school, however, people would stop dad on the streets and ask him how his son Jack was doing in football. Sometimes they'd put in a good word for me, and that completely turned dad around. He was now a football fan.

Y.A. got some real enjoyment out of playing against Tulane when he was at LSU. In four seasons, he completed 42 of 56 passes for eight touchdowns. He completed 13 of 17 passes, including his first 12 straight, as a freshman tailback in the 25-6 LSU win of 1944.

The 1947 season was always the high point of my memory book because of the LSU-Ole Miss game. Opposing Y.A. that night was Charley Conerly, with whom he shared the quarterbacking on the Giants in 1961.

Late in the game, with Ole Miss leading 20-18, Y. A. inter-

Y. A. TITTLE
. . . The Giants' Strength

cepted one of Conerly's passes and had a wide open field for a touchdown that would have put the tigers ahead.

All of a sudden, I could see Y. A. was slowing down. It looked as though he were pulling up his pants—and that's exactly what he was doing. The last Ole Miss player with a shot at him had ripped off his belt.

Finally, it was too much for Y.A. He stumbled and fell on the Ole Miss 30 and LSU didn't score. It was a 20-18 defeat, with one of the craziest twists you could imagine.

There's two things that Y.A. has always been sensitive about—his baldness and his name.

Actually, you figure that the oldest son is going to be the one with the junior on the end of his name. But there were two ahead of Y.A.

We had an older brother, William Stafford, who died at the age of 15 with pneumonia.

Then I came along and got the name Jack.

Our father figured he needed a junior, so that's how Y.A. became Yelberton Abraham Jr. of course, the name is a family name.

Y.A. hasn't always been bald.

In high school, he had tremendously blond, curly hair.

I think it was at LSU that he started getting bald. His belief is that his headgear caused it all.

A lot of people ask me how long I think Y.A. will continue playing. He says it will be through 1964, because he has a two-year contract. Honestly, I can't see him out of football. It is just too much a part of him.

I would say that Y.A. has overstayed his original ambition. When he broke into pro football he told me he'd like to be a Pro for five years. Now he is in his 16th year.

GREATEST FEMALE GOLFER

Mickey Wright Wins Title 'Woman Athlete Of Year'

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mary Kathryn (Mickey) Wright, a tall, blonde girl from California and Texas who possibly plays golf better than any woman in the history of the game, is the woman athlete of the year for 1963.

Miss Wright won this honor in the annual Associated Press year-end poll as easily as she outscored her rivals on the golf course. She polled more than twice as many points in the voting as her nearest rival, former winner Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1963 United States tennis champion.

In 1963 Mickey, a willowy walloper who can hit a golf ball farther than most men, won 13 official tournaments on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, including the LPGA championship, and a record $34,027 in prize money. Incidentally, she annexed the Vare Trophy as the leading scorer in women's pro golf.

Wrtiers and broadcasters participating in The Associated Press poll were asked to name 1-2-3 selections for the outstanding female athlete but many of them stopped after writing "Mickey Wright." She received 87 first place votes, 21 seconds and eight thirds out of 134 ballots. On a 3-2-1 point scoring basis, Mickey drew 311 points. Miss Bueno, who won this honor in 1959 after her tennis victories at Wimbledonand Forest Hills, received only 15 firsts and 127 points for the runner-up spot.

In recognition of her selection as the outstanding woman athlete of 1963, Miss Wright will receive the Frederic C. Miller Memorial Trophy.

Five women shared the first place votes in the poll and were far ahead of the others mentioned on scattered ballots. Marion Ladewig, the bowling star, placed third with 109 points, followed by Australia's Wimbledon tennis champion, Margaret Smith, with 87 and swimming star Donna de Varona of Santa Clara, Calif., with 78.

Voting for the leaders (points on a 3-2-1 basis):

	1	2	3	Pts.
Mickey Wright, golf	87	21	8	311
Maria Bueno, tennis	15	25	32	127
Marion Ladewig, bowling	12	26	21	109
Margaret Smith, tennis	8	20	23	87
Donna de Varona, swimming	12	12	18	78

Los Angeles Triple Tied; Palmer Close

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament wound up in a triple tie Saturday at the end of 36 holes, with the familiar figure of Arnold Palmer within striking distance of the leaders.

Nursing a precarious lead were young Tommy Jacobs and Bobby Nichols, each with rounds of 69-68, and veteran Jimmy Clark, 71-66, all with total scores of 137.

With lanky Al Geiberger sandwiched in between, with 70-69—139, Palmer was just three shots behind the leaders with his second straight 70—a position he occupied a year ago before he launched what proved to be a winning drive.

Tied with Arnold was Don January, 72-68, and Don Fairfield, 71-69, while hard luck hit several gallery attractions as the tournament reached the midway mark before a crowd of more than 20,000 swarming over the Rancho Golf Club course.

Par is 36-35—71 and the weather again was summery and clear.

National Open champion Julius Boros recovered from a first round 76 for 70 and 146, but Vardon Trophy winner Bill Casper, Jr. failed to survive the cut for the first time in 25 straight tournaments dating back to the American Classic at Akron, Ohio, in August, 1962. Casper had rounds of 74-76—150.

Louisiana State Topples Georgia

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Hamp White, a 5-foot-6 sophomore, sparked Louisiana State to an 81-63 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Georgia Saturday night.

LSU trailed as much as 12 points in the first half but Georgia held only a 33-31 lead at intermission.

LSU came to life in the second half with White playmaking the Tigers into a scoring drive. Dick Maile and Billy Wilson were on the receiving end of White's accurate passes.

The Tigers built up a 22-point lead in 10 minutes and were never in danger as the 6-foot-8 Wilson controlled the backboards in his best performance of the season.

Maile had 32 points for scoring honors and Wilson had 21. Jerry Wwller, the big thorn in the side of LSU in the first half, paced Georgia with 17 points.

Duck Season Much Better

With Sam Hanna

Flyway Inventory Upcoming

Louisiana just concluded a duck season that was much improved over last year's, but the proof of the pudding won't be brought out until the annual inventory of the Mississippi Flyway is conducted within the next several days.

That's when the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service will count duck noses up and down the flyway to help determine the establishment of regulations for next season.

But the 1963-64 season in Louisiana was a good one, in view of season last year when hunters had a one-mallard limit and few days of shooting.

Richard Yancey, the assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, described the season that closed Thursday as a "real good duck season, particularly in South Louisiana."

He said the shooting was good all across the marshes of Louisiana. In fact, he said the season was excellent in the coastal region.

Catahoula Lake, which the Louisiana sportsman almost lost in a hassel over the location of the Jonesville lock and dam, had a good season while Northeast Louisiana had several days of good shooting, especially on Wham Brake during the snow.

Our area was hurt, however, because of the drought, which kept the woodlands dry. During the snow, ducks could be found in any place where the water was open.

The weather, of course, played a great part in giving Louisiana a good season, but the liberalization of the regulations also was a factor.

It should reflect an increase in duck stamps, still suffering from last year's decline because of the reduction on the season. Dick Yancey believes the increase in the turn-out of hunters will be 100 per cent over last season.

But don't forget that Louisiana, joined by several other Mississippi Flyway states, had a tough time convincing the federal authorities that the hunter was entitled to more days and more ducks, that an improved season would not hurt the waterfowl population.

This is where the January inventory comes in. Federal authorities, assisted by state authorities, will fly the flyway, estimating the number of ducks in each state of the flyway.

These figures will be used in setting the season for next winter.

But Yancey, without saying so, apparently thinks the inventory will show that the 35-day season with a four-duck limit didn't hurt the waterfowl population. Dick has never believed that gun pressure hurts the population.

Last year Louisiana ended up with 61 per cent of the ducks in the Mississippi Flyway. There are, presently, about 5-million ducks in the state (4-million in the marsh), which Yancey says is slightly more than this time last year.

If the inventory bears this trend out over the flyway, then we can't see, at the moment, a cutback next winter. In fact, we hope Louisiana will shoot for a bigger season.

And while the surveys and the studies and the conferences are being made, local sportsmen should encourage the state commission to develop a water control system for duck hunting in the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area near Monroe.

Of course, this will take money, but Northeast Louisiana will have to have water if the duck hunting is to improve. Except for a few good days, we weren't in position during the season for real good duck shooting.

Deer Season Closing

Deer hunters have until Friday to bag a buck, since the season is still open in the Delta although it is closed in the lighter deer areas of Louisiana.

When the final count has been tabulated, the state should show its biggest deer kill in history.

Of course the biggest part of the total kill has been made, because taking a buck in the latter part of the season is a bigger job than it is during the early days of the season.

What some hunters don't realize is that the bucks have already begun to shed their antlers. Two sets of antlers were found around a camp where we hunted last weekend, and for some strange reason we didn't see half as many bucks as we did a month ago.

Add this with the belief that the buck gets smarter and you've got a pretty spooky target toward the end of the season.

This thing of shedding their antlers is interesting, since some people believe that a buck grows his horns through the years until he gets a big rack in his ripe old age. They shed them annually, beginning around this time of the year, then regrow them in about three or four months.

The weather, if it's cold or if it's warm, and the condition of the deer, according to the biologists, are factors in nature's trickery of a buck shedding his prize.

It may be, there was a buck among those big does you saw.

The Cripple Gun

It hasn't been publicized often, but the .22-rifle has been back on the legal list of deer guns for the past three or four years. At one time it was against the law to shoot a deer with a .22-rifle.

But a bill in the last regular session of the Legislature, two years ago, to make the .22 illegal for deer hunting was rejected. This was unfortunate.

Every so often someone kills a deer with a 22.-rifle, but in most cases, we bet, a shot from this light weapon only cripples the deer, leaving it to suffer or to escape to await death.

Game authorities in Louisiana are against having the .22-rifle as a legal weapon for deer hunting. They feel that cripple losses are bad enough without the .22.

In fact, a taxidermist told us the other day that the majority of deer he works on have previous wounds from squirrel shot or a .22-rifle.

A deer is a tough animal and a load of shot from a long distance or a .22-rifle only tends to cripple him. We don't intend to get into a discussion over the shotgun or the deer rifle, because we know that the high - powered rifle is the best, safest deer gun available. The deer rifle has more punch than the shotgun, and we haven't heard of a case yet where a hunter with a rifle killed one man and wounded three hunters, which happened in Tensas last weekend by a man with a shotgun.

What we're saying is that the .22-rifle should be outlawed for deer hunting and that hunters shouldn't shoot a deer unless they're close enough to kill him.

Little Man's Corner

The bucks were still walking and the little men made news afield.

From Monroe, George Holt, using Gordon Surgine's gun, killed two bucks on Davis Island. Hunting on the Paw Paw Island north of Tallulah, Ted Brownfield of Monroe stalked a spike and and killed him while Charles Ritchie, another local sportsman, killed his first buck, a spike.

Others getting bucks were Jimmy Perry, a 6-pointer, and Jimmy Rivers, a spike.

And, according to his hunting companions, Stanley Brister of Monroe, after four misses, finally dropped the "camp pet" in Madison Parish. It was a spike.

From West Monroe, Roland Stuart Thompson, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thompson, killed a 5-point buck in Tensas Parish. Roland killed the deer the day before Roland's 12th birthday.

W. H. Crews of Lake Providence killed an unusually large wolf near Willow Lake outside Lake Providence. A number of wolves was killed near Lake Providence last summer.

Danny Ray Fortenberry, also of Lake Providence, got an 8-point buck at the Nyanza Hunting Club. Jimmy Shepherd killed a spike and Troyce Duke got a 6-pointer.

Getting the limit of mallards in the rice fields of East Carroll were John Hankins and Phillip Hankins.

A group of Monroe hunters enjoyed a cold, windy duck hunt in Cameron Parish. They included Edmund Brown, C. D. Oakley, Miles Sager, Dave Garrett and Robert Ewing. Two former Monroe sportsmen joined the group—Jim Ewing of Atlanta, Ga. and Theo Terzia of Shreveport.

In Tensas, the principal of Waterproof High School, Tatum Crosby, killed a spike buck and Wallace Hargon of Tensas dropped a 7-pointer.

On the fishing scene, Ed and Marion Menthupt caught the limit of white perch in Lake St. John.

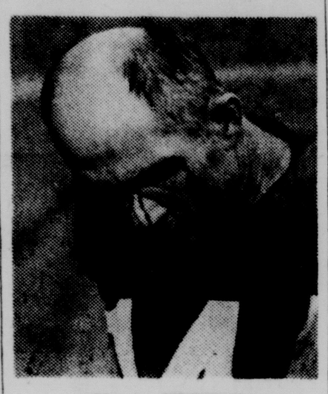
Brother Remembers A Younger Y. A. Tittle

EDITORS: Yelberton Abraham Tittle has become one of the legendary figures of the National Football League and he's still playing. Here is the story on Tittle's rise to greatness by his brother, Jack Tittle, a New Orleans insurance agent, as told to Paul Atkinson of the Times-Picayune.

By JACK TITTLE
As told to Paul Atkinson
Times-Picayune Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — My brother, Yelberton Abraham Tittle, just didn't happen to become a great passer. He worked at it.



Y. A. TITTLE
. . . A rugged game

I recall him going out in the back yard at our home about three miles from Marshall, Tex., and hanging up that old tire with a rope. He'd get that tire to swinging and still hit it on the button.

Because I'm seven years older than Y.A. I didn't get a chance to see him play much in high school. But he was an all-state fullback and one heckuva player. I was playing at Tulane University here while he was in high school.

The most vivid memory of Y.A. as a kid was that he always wanted to win—or at least tie. We'd be playing marbles, tops or football—touch or tackle—and he'd keep me playing until he won or tied me.

We have a younger brother, Don, who lives in Durant, Okla., now. Y.A. had a real swell deal worked out with Don.

Y.A. appointed Don his pass catcher. He'd tell Don that the only way he could play football was to run and the best way to do that was to run out and shag Y.A. passes.

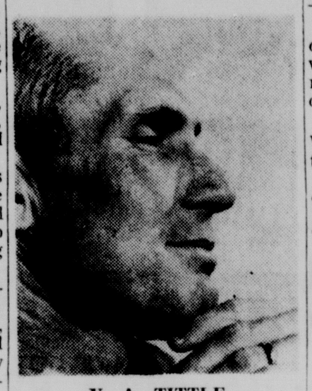
Our father was against football at first.

When I got in high school, however, people would stop dad on the streets and ask him how his son Jack was doing in football. Sometimes they'd put in a good word for me, and that completely turned dad around. He was now a football fan.

Y.A. got some real enjoyment out of playing against Tulane when he was at LSU. In four seasons, he completed 42 of 56 passes for eight touchdowns. He completed 13 of 17 passes, including his first 12 straight, as a freshman tailback in the 25-6 LSU win of 1944.

The 1947 season was always the high point of my memory book because of the LSU-Ole Miss game. Opposing Y.A. that night was Charley Conerly, with whom he shared the quarterbacking on the Giants in 1961.

Late in the game, with Ole Miss leading 20-18, Y. A. intercepted one of Conerly's passes and had a wide open field for a touchdown that would have put the tigers ahead.



Y. A. TITTLE
. . . The Giants' Strength

All of a sudden, I could see Y. A. was slowing down. It looked as though he were pulling up his pants—and that's exactly what he was doing. The last Ole Miss player with a shot at him had ripped off his belt.

Finally, it was too much for Y.A. He stumbled and fell on the Ole Miss 30 and LSU didn't score. It was a 20-18 defeat, with one of the craziest twists you could imagine.

There's two things that Y.A. has always been sensitive about—his baldness and his name.

Actually, you figure that the oldest son is going to be the one with the junior on the end of his name. But there were two ahead of Y.A.

We had an older brother, William Stafford, who died at the age of 15 with pneumonia.

Then I came along and got the name Jack.

Our father figured he needed a junior, so that's how Y.A. became Yelberton Abraham Jr. of course, the name is a family name.

Y.A. hasn't always been bald.

In high school, he had tremendously blond, curly hair.

I think it was at LSU that he started getting bald. His belief is that his headgear caused it all.

A lot of people ask me how long I think Y.A. will continue playing. He says it will be through 1964, because he has a two-year contract. Honestly, I can't see him out of football. It is just too much a part of him.

I would say that Y.A. has overstayed his original ambition. When he broke into pro football he told me he'd like to be a Pro for five years. Now he is in his 16th year.

GREATEST FEMALE GOLFER

Mickey Wright Wins Title 'Woman Athlete Of Year'

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mary Kathryn (Mickey) Wright, a tall, blonde girl from California and Texas who possibly plays golf better than any woman in the history of the game, is the woman athlete of the year for 1963.

Miss Wright won this honor in the annual Associated Press year-end poll as easily as she outscored her rivals on the golf course. She polled more than twice as many points in the voting as her nearest rival, former winner Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1963 United States tennis champion.

In 1963 Mickey, a willowy walloper who can hit a golf ball farther than most men, won 13 official tournaments on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, including the LPGA championship, and a record $34,027 in prize money. Incidentally, she annexed the Vare Trophy as the leading scorer in women's pro golf.

Wrtiers and broadcasters participating in The Associated Press poll were asked to name 1-2-3 selections for the outstanding female athlete but many of them stopped after writing "Mickey Wright." She received 87 first place votes, 21 seconds and eight thirds out of 134 ballots. On a 3-2-1 point scoring basis, Mickey drew 311 points. Miss Bueno, who won this honor in 1959 after her tennis victories at Wimbledonand Forest Hills, Clara, Calif., with 78.

Voting for the leaders (points on a 3-2-1 basis):

	1	2	3	Pts.
Mickey Wright, golf	87	21	8	311
Maria Bueno, tennis	15	25	32	127
Marion Ladewig, bowling	12	26	21	109
Margaret Smith, tennis	8	20	23	87

received only 15 firsts and 127 points for the runner-up spot.

In recognition of her selection as the outstanding woman athlete of 1963, Miss Wright will receive the Frederic C. Miller Memorial Trophy.

Five women shared the first place votes in the poll and were far ahead of the others mentioned on scattered ballots. Marion Ladewig, the bowling star, placed third with 109 points, followed by Australia's Wimbledon tennis champion, Margaret Smith, with 87 and swimming star Donna de Varona of Santa Clara, Calif., with 78.

Los Angeles Triple Tied; Palmer Close

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament wound up in a triple tie Saturday at the end of 36 holes, with the familiar figure of Arnold Palmer within striking distance of the leaders.

Nursing a precarious lead were young Tommy Jacobs and Bobby Nichols, each with rounds of 69-68, and veteran Jimmy Clark, 71-66, all with total scores of 137.

With lanky Al Geiberger sandwiched in between, with 70-69—139, Palmer was just three shots behind the leaders with his second straight 70—a position he occupied a year ago before he launched what proved to be a winning drive.

Tied with Arnold was Don January, 72-68, and Don Fairfield, 71-69, while hard luck hit several gallery attractions as the tournament reached the midway mark before a crowd of more than 20,000 swarming over the Rancho Golf Club course.

Par is 36-35—71 and the weather again was summery and clear.

National Open champion Julius Boros recovered from a first round 76 for 70 and 146, but Vardon Trophy winner Bill Casper, Jr. failed to survive the cut for the first time in 25 straight tournaments dating back to the American Classic at Akron, Ohio, in August, 1962. Casper had rounds of 74-76—150.

Louisiana State Topples Georgia

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Hamp White, a 5-foot-6 sophomore, sparked Louisiana State to an 81-63 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Georgia Saturday night.

LSU trailed as much as 12 points in the first half but Georgia held only a 33-31 lead at intermission.

LSU came to life in the second half with White playmaking the Tigers into a scoring drive. Dick Maile and Billy Wilson were on the receiving end of White's accurate passes.

The Tigers built up a 22-point lead in 10 minutes and were never in danger as the 6-foot-8 Wilson controlled the backboards in his best performance of the season.

Maile had 32 points for scoring honors and Wilson had 21. Jerry Wwller, the big thorn in the side of LSU in the first half, paced Georgia with 17 points.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

90,663 Books Now In Local Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS,
Ouachita Parish Librarian

I am happy to report to you that on January first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library consisted of 90,663 books. This means that during the year of 1964 we will need to make a net gain of 11,000 books in order to reach our goal of one book per capita for the people of Ouachita Parish. One year ago we had exactly 80,000 books. A total of 12,426 books were added during the year, but during the same period 1,763 books were discarded or lost from the collection. 59,953 of our books are adult books and 30,710 are juvenile books. They are distributed among the different libraries as follows: 40,558 volumes are in the Main Library, 15,708 are in the West Monroe Library, 17,090 volumes form the Bookmobile collection, 12,148 books are found at the Anna Meyer Branch, and 5,159 volumes are in the Carver branch collection. When the Ouachita Parish Public Library became a tax supported library on January first 1948 the book collection consisted of only 22,823 books. Of this number 18,789 were adult books and 4,034 were juvenile books. At that time it seemed almost impossible to ever reach the goal of a book collection which met the minimum standard for a library our size. Now we are in sight of this goal and feel confident that we will reach it during 1964.

I wish that all of you could have seen the use that the students of Ouachita Parish and the City of Monroe have made of the libraries this week. The Libraries have been literally packed with students ranging from elementary grades through college and we are delighted that we have been able to fill their requests and that we have had enough people to help them find the material they need.

There are many new books available for those of you who are ready to settle down for serious reading and study. "The Grove of Eagles" by Winston Graham is a very interesting historical novel. The setting is the Cornish coast of England during the time of the Spanish Armada. The field of non-fiction includes books for every reader. "Reflections On Growing Old" by John S. J. La Farge is an interesting book of pastoral psychology. Clive Irving has written a book which will interest some readers it is "Anatomy Of A Scandal" and deals with the Profumo affair. "Statesmen and Admirals" by Thaddeus V. Tulja deals with the Naval policy in the far East. "The Quiet Crisis" by Stewart L. Udall is a very fine discussion of the condition of the natural resources of this country. "Corporations In Crisis" by Richard Austin Smith will interest many businessmen.

Students will enjoy reading "The Uses of The University" by Clark Kerr. A helpful book for teachers is "Language Arts For Today's Children" prepared by the National Council of Teachers of English. "Watchers of the Skies" by Willy Ley is an informal history of astronomy from Babylon to the Space Age. Lida Webb is the author of the very interesting "Easy guide to Japanese flower arrangement styles." Readers of the Heloise column will enjoy her "Kitchen Hints" which has just appeared in book form. "The Art of Spaghetti Cookery" by Myra Waldo is a new cookbook. The art of Crewel embroidery is being revived and the library has two books on this subject. One is "Creative Canvas Embroidery" by Bucky King and the other is "Crewel Embroidery, Old and New" by the editor's of Weldon's needlecraft.

A new collection of poetry consists of "73 Poems" by E. E. Cummings. "Tiger, Tiger Burning Bright" is a new play by Peter S. Feibleman. There are several new books of a humorous nature in the literary field; "The McLandress dimension" by Mark Epernay; "Mr. Dooley Remembers" by Finley Peter Dunne; "How To Grow Up in One Piece" by Robert Paul Smith and "A Short History of Fingers" by Harry Allen Smith.

Travellers will want to read "Eating and Drinking in Europe" by William E. Massee. "The Leaven of Democracy" by Clement Eaton is a thorough discussion of the rise of democracy in America during the time of Andrew Jackson. "Pirate, Pawnee and mountain man" by John Myers adds much new light on the frontier life of the Old West. "Death of The Battleship" by Richard Hough is an account of the sea battle in which the "Prince of Wales" was lost. "Yanks Don't Cry" by Martin Boyle is an account of the Japanese Prisons in World War II, while "Spies and Stratagems" by Stanley P. Lovell is concerned with the Secret Service during this war. "Latin America" by Carleton Beals is a good discussion of present conditions in that continent. Samuel Antek has written a very fine account of one of the most colorful musical figures of our day titled "This Was Toscanini."

Two new reference books have been added to the general reference collection. They are; "The Concise Encyclopedia of Modern World Literature", edited by Geoffrey Grigson and "A Dictionary of Literary Terms" edited by Geoffrey Grigson and "A Dictionary of Literary Terms" edited by Charles Duffy. There are also three new books in the genealogy collection; "Dallas County, Alabama-Orphans Court minutes and tombstone inscriptions, 1818 to 1866" was compiled by Flora England; "Early wills of Mecklenburg County, Virginia" compiled by Katherine B. Elliott covers the period from 1765 to 1799, while "Abstracts of early records of Nash County, North Carolina" compiled by Joseph Watson covers the period of 1777-1859. There will be someone who needs each one of these books.

I would like to take this opportunity to wish all of the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library a Happy New Year and invite all of you to continue to use the Library resources.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A suvey shows that almost all major American cities are replacing their electric trolleys with motor coaches, according to the Seattle Transit System. The number of cities using them has dwindled from 48 in 1945 to 15. And 14 of those 15 cities plan to abandon them within the next year.

Booster Singing Convention Sets Meeting Today

The Booster Singing Convention, organized here in January, 1937, will hold its regular monthly session this afternoon at 1:30 in Benoit Recreation Center, 1700 Oaklawn Drive.

This was announced Saturday by Garland May, pesident, who gave some background on the organization.

The group held its first singing meet in the old Missouri Pacific Booster Hall in the 400 block of Ouachita Ave. It continueed to meet there every month until the building was dismantled several months ago.

May said the session over the years had attracted a number of leading gospel song quartets such as the Blackwood Brothers, Stamps Quartet, and Hartford Quartet.

He said this afternoon's program will consist of congregational singing from the 1964 song books, along with special singing by such groups as the Southerners, Rhythmaries, and Calvary Trio. Some visiting groups also may be featured. A number of song directors from around the area are expected to be in attendance at the meeting.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

90,663 Books Now In Local Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS,
Ouachita Parish Librarian

I am happy to report to you that on January first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library consisted of 90,663 books. This means that during the year of 1964 we will need to make a net gain of 11,000 books in order to reach our goal of one book per capita for the people of Ouachita Parish. One year ago we had exactly 80,000 books. A total of 12,426 books were added during the year, but during the same period 1,763 books were discarded or lost from the collection. 59,953 of our books are adult books and 30,710 are juvenile books. They are distributed among the different libraries as follows: 40,558 volumes are in the Main Library, 15,708 are in the West Monroe Library, 17,090 volumes form the Bookmobile collection, 12,148 books are found at the Anna Meyer Branch and 5,159 volumes are in the Carver branch collection. When the Ouachita Parish Public Library became a tax supported library on January first 1948 the book collection consisted of only 22,823 books. Of this number 18,789 were adult books and 4,034 were juvenile books. At that time it seemed almost impossible to ever reach the goal of a book collection which met the minimum standard for a library our size. The World For WOMEN

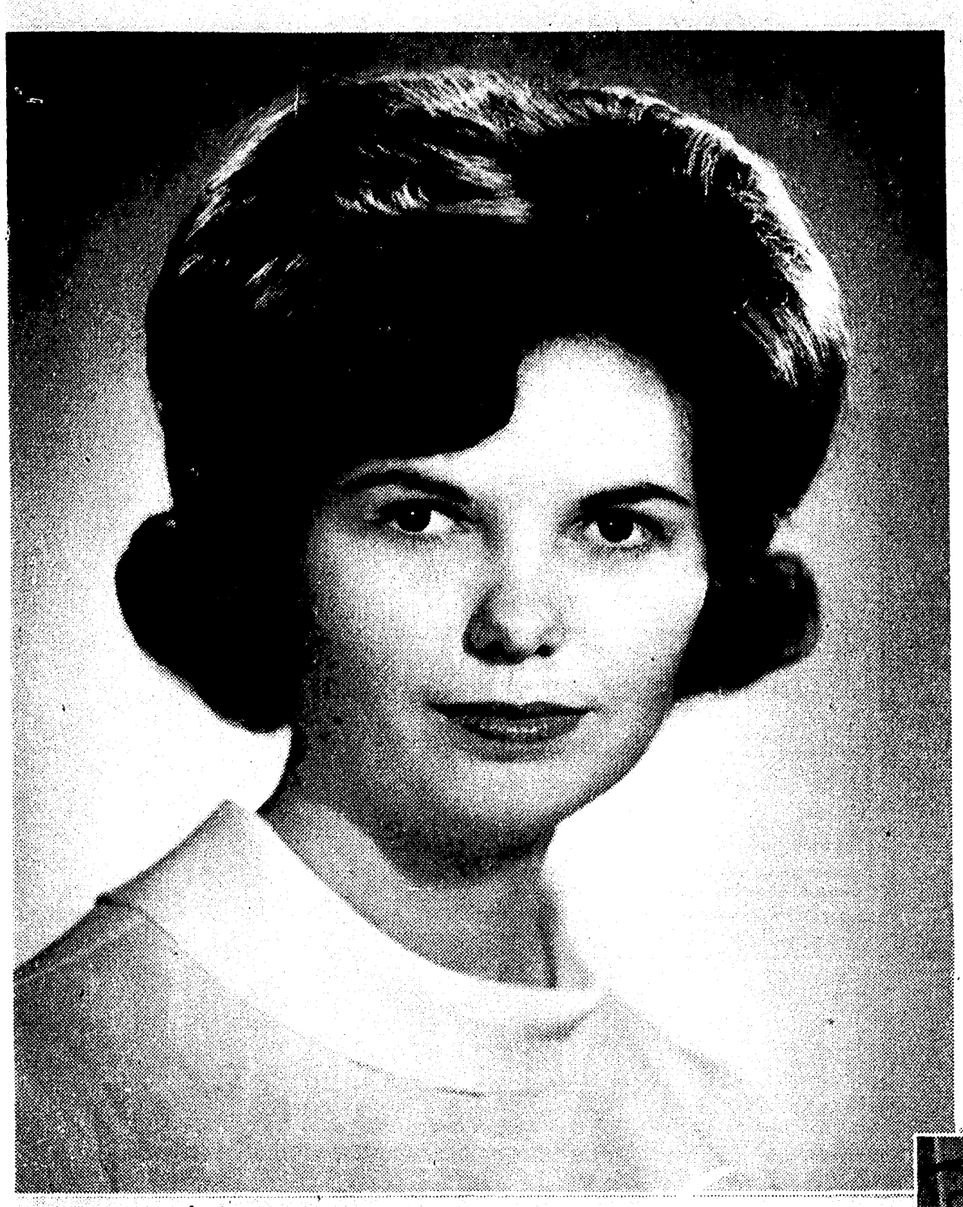
January 5, 1964



At right: Miss Marilyn Roark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roark, 1604 McMillan, West Monroe, became the bride of Archie M. Stewart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stewart, of Tallulah in a double ring ceremony at Claiborne Methodist Church on December 27. After a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple will be at home in Fredericksburg, Virginia, where Mr. Stewart is stationed at the Quantico Marine Base.

Above: Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sandra Kay Johnson, 104 Willow, Monroe to Henry Edgar Dubuy Jr., lieutenant United States Air Force, stationed at Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kansas. Parents of the betrothed couple are Mr. and Mrs. Emory Harold Johnson of Ulysses, Kansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edgar Dubuy of Scottsdale, Arizona. The wedding will be an event of February 10 in St. Andrews Methodist Church, Sterlington at 7 p.m.

Below: Being welcomed to Monroe are Mr. and Mrs. Siddons S. Service and daughters, Marcia, left and Sally, right. Mr. Service who came to Monroe earlier in the year was joined recently by his wife and daughters from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and the family has established a home at 1001 Speed. Marcia transferred from Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., to Louisiana State University, where she is a sophomore. Sally, who graduated from high school last June, is a freshman at the University of Indiana. Both girls have been spending the holiday vacation from classes with their parents here.

MRS. PAUL A. LEMKE JR.

Jonesville Church Scene Of Lemke-Owens Vows

First Methodist Church of Jonesville was scene of the ceremony Thursday, December 26 which united in marriage Miss Joy Owens and Paul A. Lemke Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Owens of Harrisonburg and Mr. Lemke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Lemke Sr., of New Orleans.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Roy L. Garrett.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie styled with close fitting bodice and featuring scoop neckline, etched with appliques of lace and seed pearls. The bell-shaped skirt was trimmed with lace and draped into a full chapel train. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and French crystals and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow throated white orchids, surrounded by feathered chrysanthemums and lace leaves. The bride also carried a handkerchief which belonged to her grandmother.

Attending the bride were Miss Mary Louise Wall, as maid of honor; Miss Sharon Ann Lemke, Miss Glenda Finlay and Miss Betty McHale, as bridesmaids and Miss Jane Richardson and Miss Debra Bradford, junior bridesmaids. Miss Susan Oliphant was flower girl and Miss Janet Bird acted as ring girl.

The attendants wore identical gowns of American Beauty rose velveteen, styled with round necklines draped in back and softly pleated skirts. Their headdresses of matching tulle were attached to velveteen tiaras and they carried colonial bouquets of feathered chrysanthemums. The flower girl carried a white basket of rose petals.

John Hantel served as best man for Mr. Lemke and groomsmen were Jack Owens Jr., Samuel Barra and Arthur Welden. Michael McCarver served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother was wearing a pink silk dress with jeweled neckline and matching accessories and the groom's mother wore a green lace gown with accessories to match. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Marilyn Roark Is Bride Of Archie M. Stewart Jr.

Miss Marilyn Roark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roark, 1604 McMillan, West Monroe, became the bride of Archie M. Stewart Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stewart, of Tallulah in a double ring ceremony December 27, in Claiborne Methodist Church.

Two large baskets of white stock with pink chrysanthemums and fern were placed at the altar against a background of candelabra entwined with magnolia leaves and holding pink tapers. Rev. J. Robinson performed the ceremony at 6:30 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by Miss Biddy Dupree, organist and Dave Norris, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, with appliques of pearls and bugle bead encircling the neckline and extending over the short skirt, styled with a straight front and back fullness. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. Her headdress was a large peau de soie rose encrusted with pearls which held her bouffant shoulder length veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white split carnations encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Billy Roark, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink peau de soie, styled similar to the bride's with elbow sleeves and tiny covered buttons down the back. She wore a pink bow headdress and carried a bouquet of white glamellias.

Candlelighters were Miss Ann Rinehart and Miss Sally Collins, who were dressed identically to the honor attendant and wore corsages of white chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was August Willet. Ushers were Stephen Richardson, brother-in-law of the groom and Ronald Roark, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Pink chrysanthemums white candytuft and fern with pink tapers formed the centerpiece for the bride's table covered with a ruffled cloth of pink organdy. Mrs. Stephen Richardson, sister of the groom, served the wedding cake and Miss Beth Bradshaw presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. Bertha Mae Wallace, Mrs. W. R. Roark and Miss Pat Humphries. Mrs. Milton McVey had charge of the bride's guest book.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple left for Fredericksburg, Virginia where they will reside while Mr. Stewart is an officer candidate at Quantico Marine Base. A graduate of West Monroe high school the bride attended Louisiana Tech and is a member of Phi Mu. Mr. Stewart was graduated from Tallulah high school and from Louisiana Tech and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

GOLD BAGS

That ubiquitous black satin envelope of an evening purse just won't do this season. There's a return to "old world" elegance in accessories and the revival definitely goes for handbags, too, says Ivan Kessler. Kessler, a handbag manufacturer, recommends the beaded bag — the brighter the colors the better.

Crossett Man Claims Bride In Alabama

MRS. DAVID CLAYTON WELCH

Miss Martha Sue James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Irving James of Tuscaloosa, Ala., became the bride of David Clayton Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Clayton Welch of Crossett, Ark., on Saturday, December 28.

Dr. John Henry Chitwood officiated at the double ring ceremony in the First Methodist Church of Tuscaloosa at 8 p.m. Traditional nuptial music was presented by Miss Emmett Lewis, organist and Mrs. Warren Day, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with a full flared skirt, terminating in a chapel train. The bodice and front panels were appliqued with Alencon lace and long sleeves ended in petal points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a small crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Harry Allen Wright Jr., attended her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph Ogburn Holloway Jr., sister of the bride of Raleigh, N.C., Miss Mary Ann Scott, cousin of the bride, Montevallo, Ala., Miss Sue Welch, sister of the groom, Shreveport, and Mrs. Robert Norton Rice of Montgomery. They wore sheath gowns of willow green chiffon and carried bouquets of white poinsettias.

Mr. Welch served his son as best man. Groomsmen-ushers were Duncan McCormick of Daytona Beach, Fla., Robert Naugher and Bill Greenwood of Little Rock, Ark., Robert McCaughan of Brunswick, Ga., Herman Birney and Charlie Mohling of Huntsville and David James, brother of the bride of Opelika, Ala. David James Jr., nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore a gown of gold brocade with corsage of green and gold cymbidiums. Mrs. Welch, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green lace gown with a corsage of green and gold cymbidiums.

MRS. PAUL A. LEMKE JR.

Jonesville Church Scene Of Lemke-Owens Vows

First Methodist Church of Jonesville was scene of the ceremony Thursday, December 26 which united in marriage Miss Joy Owens and Paul A. Lemke Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Owens of Harrisonburg and Mr. Lemke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Lemke Sr., of New Orleans.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Roy L. Garrett.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie styled with close fitting bodice and featuring scoop neckline, etched with appliques of lace and seed pearls. The bell-shaped skirt was trimmed with lace and draped into a full chapel train. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and French crystals and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow throated white orchids, surrounded by feathered chrysanthemums and lace leaves. The bride also carried a handkerchief which belonged to her grandmother.

Attending the bride were Miss Mary Louise Wall, as maid of honor; Miss Sharon Ann Lemke, Miss Glenda Finlay and Miss Betty McHale, as bridesmaids and Miss Jane Richardson and Miss Debra Bradford, junior bridesmaids. Miss Susan Oliphant was flower girl and Miss Janet Bird acted as ring girl.

The attendants wore identical gowns of American Beauty rose velveteen, styled with round necklines draped in back and softly pleated skirts. Their headdresses of matching tulle were attached to velveteen tiaras and they carried colonial bouquets of feathered chrysanthemums. The flower girl carried a white basket of rose petals.

John Hantel served as best man for Mr. Lemke and groomsmen were Jack Owens Jr., Samuel Barra and Arthur Welden. Michael McCarver served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother was wearing a pink silk dress with jeweled neckline and matching accessories and the groom's mother wore a green lace gown with accessories to match. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Marilyn Roark Is Bride Of Archie M. Stewart Jr.

Miss Marilyn Roark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roark, 1604 McMillan, West Monroe, became the bride of Archie M. Stewart Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stewart, of Tallulah in a double ring ceremony December 27, in Claiborne Methodist Church.

Two large baskets of white stock with pink chrysanthemums and fern were placed at the altar against a background of candelabra entwined with magnolia leaves and holding pink tapers. Rev. J. Robinson performed the ceremony at 6:30 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by Miss Biddy Dupree, organist and Dave Norris, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, with appliques of pearls and bugle bead encircling the neckline and extending over the short skirt, styled with a straight front and back fullness. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. Her headdress was a large peau de soie rose encrusted with pearls which held her bouffant shoulder length veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white split carnations encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Billy Roark, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink peau de soie, styled similar to the bride's with elbow sleeves and tiny covered buttons down the back. She wore a pink bow headdress and carried a bouquet of white glamellias.

Candlelighters were Miss Ann Rinehart and Miss Sally Collins, who were dressed identically to the honor attendant and wore corsages of white chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was August Willet. Ushers were Stephen Richardson, brother-in-law of the groom and Ronald Roark, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Pink chrysanthemums white candytuft and fern with pink tapers formed the centerpiece for the bride's table covered with a ruffled cloth of pink organdy. Mrs. Stephen Richardson, sister of the groom, served the wedding cake and Miss Beth Bradshaw presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Herbert Rinehart. Mrs. Bertha Mae Wallace, Mrs. W. R. Roark and Miss Pat Humphries. Mrs. Milton McVey had charge of the bride's guest book.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple left for Fredericksburg, Virginia where they will reside while Mr. Stewart is an officer candidate at Quantico Marine Base. A graduate of West Monroe high school the bride attended Louisiana Tech and is a member of Phi Mu. Mr. Stewart was graduated from Tallulah high school and from Louisiana Tech and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

GOLD BAGS

That ubiquitous black satin envelope of an evening purse just won't do this season. There's a return to "old world" elegance in accessories and the revival definitely goes for handbags, too, says Ivan Kessler. Kessler, a handbag manufacturer, recommends the beaded bag — the brighter the colors the better.

MRS. RAYMOND MORRIS WILENZICK

Trip To Mexico Follows Wilenzick-Glaser Vows

In a candlelight ceremony at the Fountainbleu Hotel in New Orleans on Sunday, December 22, Miss Phyllis Glaser, daughter of Mrs. Doris Rosenbaum Glaser of New Orleans and Philip Schatz Glaser of Charlotte N. C. became the bride of Dr. Raymond Morris Wilenzick, son of Mrs. Mark H. Wilenzick and the late Mr. Wilenzick of New Orleans, formerly of Monroe.

The wedding was solemnized at 3 p.m. with Dr. Julian B. Feibelman of Temple Sinai officiating. Pyramid clusters of palms formed the background for the improvised altar and nine-branched candelabra, entwined with white stock were placed on either side of the aisle.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Harry Cohen, pianist and Harry Cohen, violinst and preceding the wedding march Mr. Cohen sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Harold Meyerhardt of New York, wore a floor length gown of white satin fashioned on princess lines with decollete neckline etched with appliques of lace and pearls. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a white satin tiara, encircled with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white stock, lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses. For adornment she wore an heirloom diamond sunburst which belonged to the bridegroom's maternal great grandmother.

The ceremony was solemnized by the bride and groom drinking from the silver wine goblet that was presented to the bride's great grandparents on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Stephen Allen Cohen, matron of honor and Miss Clair Solomon of Monroe, maid of honor. They wore emerald green satin gowns, fashioned on slim lines with bouffant overskirts attached by front bows. The bodice featured circlet necklines and short cap sleeves. Their head pieces were flat bows with matching veils and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow roses.

Dr. Sydney Schochet Jr. served as best man and groomsmen were Selwyn Dante and Dr. Frank Durham. Ushers were Nathan Josel and Stephen Allen Cohen.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed Mrs. Glaser, the bride's mother, wore a gown of aqua peau de soie with lace bodice and a hat of darker shade. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Wilenzick, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of champagne chiffon with lace bodice and darker accessories. She wore a corsage of bronze cymbidium orchids.

The couple left following the reception for a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, Mexico. For traveling the bride wore a sheath dress of white wool and a cashmere coat with white mink collar and matching hat. Her corsage was of garnet roses. The couple will be at home after January 1 at 8405 Palmetto St., in New Orleans.

Among the out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Milton Meyerhart, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meyerhart, Miss Maxine Meyerhart, all of St. Louis, Mo., Harold Meyerhart of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cohen, Houston, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Milton King, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Wilenzick, Mrs. Alex Wilenzick, all of Monroe; Mrs. Milton Unger of Los Angeles Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dante of Winnsboro and Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn L. Dante, Gary, Jani and Craig of Columbia.

Winter White Fashions Need Right Make-Up

This season, "winter white" is so prevalent in fashions and fashion accessories, especially for evening wear, that every woman should know exactly the right make-up techniques and shades to complement this basic, but striking color.

According to a beauty authority the most important thing to remember is to apply a flawless overall make-up, since white points up beauty errors more than other colors. For your foundation make-up, go to the beige-rose or rose-beige complexion tones to provide needed warmth and to avoid any possibility of a pale appearance. Enhance this look of health even further by applying the new pastel tint rouge, which comes in liquid form and is color - coordinated with your complexion tone to give a natural look of warmth. This unique requisite, because of its consistency and skin-tone colors, can be applied over a larger area than regular rouge — even to the forehead and chin areas.

Eye shadow should be used in misted shades for a luminous quality which gives the wearer an attractive ethereal look when worn with white. As with all fashions, well - defined eyes are a must so don't spare the eyeliner or mascara.

Wilson-Hudson Vows Read In Snellings Home

A candlelight ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Snellings, united in marriage Mrs. Lola Nelson Hudson of Washington, D.C., and George Angus Wilson of Dallas, Texas. Elder Jay D. Terry of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints officiated at the exchange of vows at 5 p.m. Friday, December 27.

White wedding bells were tied with red velvet ribbon and pine cones at fan lights over the doors and also swung from the ceiling medallion. On the mantel was a natural wood creche, placed before the mirror which was wreathed with red velvet and magnolia leaves.

The bride wore a dressmaker suit of light brown sheer wool, her flowers were green phalaenopsis orchids tied with brown velvet ribbon.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The dining room of the Snellings home was decorated with an espaliered tree of magnolia leaves highlighted with white lights and gold birds. Centering the table was an antique coffee urn filled with white chrysanthemums. A white orchid topped the wedding ring cake.

The couple left immediately on a wedding trip to Puerto Rico, Antiqua and Jamaica. Upon their return they will be at home in Dallas.

Guests for the wedding included visitors from Dallas, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Del Rio and Longview, Texas as well as law school classmates of Mr. Wilson from Monroe.

Pompons Add Color To Party

Are you looking for a new decoration idea for your next big party? Here's one that will add color and warmth to your party room.

Make pompons of facial tissues in large, medium and small sizes. Pompons are easy to make. Here's how: take six tissues of the color your want. Fold the tissues in half and fringe with scissors, making cuts one-fourth inch apart up to one inch from the top. Shake the fringe out and wrap around the end of a thin dowel stick. Fasten with heavy thread or fine wire—and you'll have a giant tissue pompon.

For a gay dance, use all white tissues to make pompons that look like snowballs. Or you might try a combination of pink, yellow and aqua tissues. Hang the pompons from the ceiling and tie in clusters for corner decorations.

Besides decorating your room and being wonderful conversation-starters, they make ideal favors for each guest when the party's over.

Lowly Hemp In Fashion

The manila hemp which as rope is hurled adroitly around posts to dock steamships throughout the world is now a fibre for fashion.

The Manila Development Board reports that significant progress has been made in efforts to cottonize or soften abaca so that it may be woven easily and remain soft in apparel.

Are you looking for a new decoration idea for your next big party? Here's one that will add color and warmth to your party room.

Make pompons of facial tissues in large, medium and small sizes. Pompons are easy to make. Here's how: take six tissues of the color your want. Fold the tissues in half and fringe with scissors, making cuts one-fourth inch apart up to one inch from the top. Shake the fringe out and wrap around the end of a thin dowel stick. Fasten with heavy thread or fine wire—and you'll have a giant tissue pompon.

For a gay dance, use all white tissues to make pompons that look like snowballs. Or you might try a combination of pink, yellow and aqua tissues. Hang the pompons from the ceiling and tie in clusters for corner decorations.

Besides decorating your room and being wonderful conversation-starters, they make ideal favors for each guest when the party's over.

Lowly Hemp In Fashion

The manila hemp which as rope is hurled adroitly around posts to dock steamships throughout the world is now a fibre for fashion.

The Manila Development Board reports that significant progress has been made in efforts to cottonize or soften abaca so that it may be woven easily and remain soft in apparel.

MISS NANCY BLAKE

MR. AND MRS. JAROY WEBER JR.

Jaroy Weber Jr. Claims Beaumont Girl As Bride

In a double ring ceremony performed by the bridegroom's father, Miss Sharlene Ferris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ferris, Beaumont, Texas, became the bride of Jaroy Weber Jr., Durham, N.C., son of Dr. and Mrs. Jaroy Weber Sr., of Beaumont, formerly of West Monroe.

Vows were exchanged at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, December 27 in the First Baptist Church of Beaumont, where Dr. Weber is pastor. A pyramid arch of candles with flocked spruce accented with pink carnations formed a background for the ceremony.

Nuptial music was provided by Mr. Beal, student at Baylor University, Waco, Tex., organist and Mrs. Bart Neal of Houston, Texas, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of candlelight peau de soie enriched with pearl-accented Belgian lace and designed with a chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion was attached to a queen's crown of pearl-studded peau, and complementing her gown was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a white Bible crested with a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Darla Jean Ferris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a dress of cranberry red velvet with matching shoes and a red velvet rose headdress with pink tulle veil. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Miss Ruth Kathlene Ferris, sister of the bride; Miss Nettie Beth Weber, sister of the groom; Miss Pamela Jean Rushing, Natchitoches, Miss Linda Kirkland of Baton Rouge and Miss Glenda Sandefer. Each carried a single long stemmed red rose.

Flower girl was Miss Karen Margaret Ferris, also dressed like the other attendants.

Serving as best man for his brother was Billy Weber. Groomsmen - ushers were B. J. Barron, Gainesville, Fla., W. C. Roper, Dallas, Tex., Lt. Mike Wallace of Olmsted, Pa., Bob Calmes, Houston, Tex., Rev. Edgar Wiggins, Monroe and R. E. Dragoo Jr., Huntsville, Ala.

Mrs. Ferris, mother of the bride, wore a blue lace sheath with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Weber, wore an imported blue brocade silk sheath with matching jacket and accessories and white kid gloves. Both wore white orchid corsages.

A reception followed in the church parlor where the bride's table, overlaid with a white net floor length cover, was centered with an arrangement of pink and red carnations. The tiered wedding cake, topped with wedding bells and doves was served from one end of the table with pink punch in a crystal bowl served opposite.

The couple left to establish a home in Durham, N.C., where Mr. Weber is a second year student in the school of medicine at Duke University. He received his B.A. degree cum laude in 1962 from Baylor University and was named outstanding premedical student of that year. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Alpha Epsilon Delta, international honorary premedical society and Alpha Chi, national scholarship fraternity. The bride is also a graduate of Baylor University and a member of Alpha Omega sorority.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Viola Ferris and Mrs. Bernice Fritz, of Missouri; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rushing and family, Natchitoches, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirkland, Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hislop Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McKay, Mrs. James Nelson and Miss Kathy Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Humble, Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Wiggins, all of Monroe; Mrs. Ed Weber, Mr. and Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. George Richards of Alexandria.

Colorful Suede Shoes Return For Spring Wear

NEW YORK — Suede leather shoes are back as a natural footnote to the new "soft look" that's sweeping the fashion scene — and sweeping the sportive look out.

An inspection of the new leather shoe collection presented here by Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America revealed that suede leather will be seen in footwear for many occasions this spring.

In daytime slings and spectators, suede leather will be important chiefly in pastel shades. Soft and nappy to the hand, the suede leather sling is the essence of femininity.

For late day — from cocktail time to curtain call — it will be deep colored suedes in slim pumps and slinky sandals. At home, you'll wear suede leather mules and slippers richly trimmed in handsomely embossed leathers or elegant french ribbon. For any time of day suede leather is a wonderful team mate for silks and light wools, and for prints.

One of the fashion facts you'll need to know this spring is that suede is leather — real suede, that is. If you ask — as who doesn't — "Is this shoe suede or leather?" the clerk who knows his shoes will tell you that suede is made from the softest kidskins available. This beautiful leather is buffed to produce a fine nap in which light patterns play as you run your finger over the surface.

It's hard to make a mistake about real suede leather. If you pick up an occasional shoe that is made of an imitation material, you quickly learn the truth. It has a coarse, rubberly feel when you try to smooth the nap in one direction. And the color doesn't seem to run deep.

Shaping the flattering crescent toe, foot-moulding suede leather uppers get an assist from slim flexible leather soles. The sturdy but lightweight leather sole offers a firm support for the thin, elongated suede leather upper.

Among the more popular suede leather colors this spring will be: pink ice, blue ice and Georgia peach in pastels; red, kelly green and brown in deep shades and off-white, soft gray and otter as neutrals. Off-white will be one of the more important suede tones. It is used extensively in all-white pumps, in combination with both pastel and vivid tones, and as detailing, under and overlays and in straps and strippings.

Ruffles Make Fashion Stir In Spring '64

Now that spring collections have been rounded out, more and more ruffles are to be seen in everything from swimsuits to lingerie and evening gowns.

A couple of seasons ago there was a brief flurry of ruffles, but the time wasn't quite ripe for their acceptance. Now there's a feeling in the air, partly sparked by lots of ruffles in Paris.

Lots of at-home clothes and dinner pajamas use ruffling for their only trim. Costumes have little ruffled jackets, and capelets for suits often have ruffled edges.

Everybody seems to want a little more in clothes, but not a big silhouette disturbance. Ruffles are an easy bit of more.

MRS. BRADLEY RIX WILSON

Carolyn Ann Swearingen Wed In Dallas Church

Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums with burning white tapers against a background of greenery formed a setting in Royal Oaks Baptist Church, Dallas, for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Ann Swearingen and Bradley Rix Wilson, both of Dallas, which was solemnized Sunday, December 22.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson L. Swearingen of Ruston and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilson of Stroud, Oklahoma.

Rev. C. S. Cadwallader Sr., grandfather of the bride, performed the double ring vows at 3 p.m. assisted by Rev. Victor Coffman, pastor of the church.

Appropriate wedding music was provi i by Mrs. Victor Coffman, organist and Norman Hayes, soloist.

Mr. Swearingen gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white embossed brocade was designed with an empire princess silhouette and featured a detachable peau de soie chapel length train. The bodice was hand - embossed with seed pearls and crystals and her veil of tulle was held by a crown of lace encrusted with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of stephanotis and feathered carnations surrounding a white orchid, atop a white Bible, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Sharon Jean Swearingen attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a short gown of pale pink brocade and carried a nosegay of pink roses and carnations.

Tony Federson served as best man for Mr. Wilson and ushers were Lawson Swearingen Jr. student at Northeast Louisiana State College, brother of the bride and Jim Roane of Dallas, Texas.

For the occasion Mrs. Swearingen was wearing a gown of brilliant blue lace over taffeta, with bell-shaped skirt. She wore a matching sequined pillbox hat and shoes and a purple orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua sheath dress with a small mink circlet hat and beige accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor where the refreshment table was covered with icy pink net over taffeta table cloth. Mrs. Clint Harris, Leesville, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl and Miss Tammy Slavers served the cake. Tea girls were Miss Susan Harris and Miss Patricia Harris, of Leesville, cousins of the bride.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Texas the bride changed into a white wool ensemble edged with navy. Her accessories were navy and she wore an orchid corsage. The couple will be at home at 4015 Simpson, Apt. 218 in Dallas.

Mrs. Wilson was graduated from Baylor University in Waco, Tex., and is presently employed for an oil company in Dallas. Mr. Wilson graduated from the University of Oklahoma and is now a student at Baylor University College of Dentistry in Dallas. He is a member of Xi Psi Phi.

Johnson Girls Set Pace For Europe's Teens

By YVETTE de la FONTAINE

ROME — (WNS) — Europe's teen-age singing idols are calling upon Lynda Bird Johnson, 19, and Lucy Baines Johnson, 16, to set the feminine example of 1964 for young girls all over the world.

"The American President's daughters are the obvious world choices to lead young women in fashion, manners and entertainment," declared Rita Pavone, 16, who has sold 4 million records in Italy.

"We do not know anything about these Johnson girls, but we are waiting breathlessly to hear," said Helena Majdaniec, 19, who heads a Polish rock 'n' roll group called the Black and Blue.

Martine Jourdan, 18, the Francoise Sagan of French singers, is already composing songs titled "The First Flight of Lynda Bird" and "Who Is Lucy Baines?"

Marujita, the beautiful idol of Spain, paid tribute to the Johnson girls by putting them both on the menu at her Miss Europa Restaurant in Majorca. The Lucy Baines Especialidad is chili con carne with a hamburger. Lynda Bird Puddin in a banana souffle covered with angelic white fluff and almond sprinklings.

"Perhaps the fact that we have not heard much about President Johnson's daughters is an indication that they will lead girls back to reticence and restraint," commented Tiny Yong, a 17-year-old Oriental beauty from Saigon who has been singing with such stars as Gilbert Becaud and Johnny Hallyday.

Pierre Peret, a teen-age Belgian who has been bringing back romantic love songs, hopes that that is exactly what they will do.

"Is is the obvious next step into the future," he said. "Rock is dead, the Twist is dying, and the Surf cannot stay afloat."

Ho Hai Thanh, 18, and his brother, Trach Thanh, 19, singing refugees who fled Viet Nam when rock singing and twist dancing were banned there, admitted that Western noise is a bit too much and that they look to a future of more delicate, dignified women.

"We ourselves now wear only kimonos when we perform," said Ho Hai Thanh. "Girls' eyes glisten when they see them, and they beg us to give them one."

"Beauty is due for a big comeback," predicted his smiling brother. "I hope that President Johnson's two princesses will help us all find it."

Coeds Select Split Level As Dream House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What kind of a house do you want after you're married? That question was put to 2,000 coeds from Oregon State College, Pennsylvania State University and the universities of Oregon, Tennessee and Minnesota.

The dream house, as reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was a modern split-level or ranch type with three bedrooms, one bath, one powder room, ample dining space. The price the coeds expect to pay: about $17,000.

New 'Phone Dials Itself

A new telephone for the home automatically dials. It's called a card dialer. You insert a coded plastic card and push a start bar. Cards are coded with a pencil point or similar object.

The manufacturer reports the card dialer is designed for those who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently. Space is provided in the phone itself for filing 40 cards.

SAUTE FRUIT

For a tasty treat, dip drained canned apricot halves or peach slices in well beaten egg, roll in sifted dried bread crumbs, then saute in hot fat in skillet. Serve piping hot.

Pierre Peret, a teen-age Belgian who has been bringing back romantic love songs, hopes that that is exactly what they will do.

"Is is the obvious next step into the future," he said. "Rock is dead, the Twist is dying, and the Surf cannot stay afloat."

Ho Hai Thanh, 18, and his brother, Trach Thanh, 19, singing refugees who fled Viet Nam when rock singing and twist dancing were banned there, admitted that Western noise is a bit too much and that they look to a future of more delicate, dignified women.

"We ourselves now wear only kimonos when we perform," said Ho Hai Thanh. "Girls' eyes glisten when they see them, and they beg us to give them one."

"Beauty is due for a big comeback," predicted his smiling brother. "I hope that President Johnson's two princesses will help us all find it."

Coeds Select Split Level As Dream House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What kind of a house do you want after you're married? That question was put to 2,000 coeds from Oregon State College, Pennsylvania State University and the universities of Oregon, Tennessee and Minnesota.

The dream house, as reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was a modern split-level or ranch type with three bedrooms, one bath, one powder room, ample dining space. The price the coeds expect to pay: about $17,000.

New 'Phone Dials Itself

A new telephone for the home automatically dials. It's called a card dialer. You insert a coded plastic card and push a start bar. Cards are coded with a pencil point or similar object.

The manufacturer reports the card dialer is designed for those who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently. Space is provided in the phone itself for filing 40 cards.

SAUTE FRUIT

For a tasty treat, dip drained canned apricot halves or peach slices in well beaten egg, roll in sifted dried bread crumbs, then saute in hot fat in skillet. Serve piping hot.

MRS. PHILIPPE OSZUSCIK

Oszuscik-Calton Vows Read In Home Ceremony

A New Year's Day ceremony united in marriage Miss Cynthia Calton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Calton of Columbia and Philippe Oszuscik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josef Oszuscik, of Jacksonville, Florida.

The double ring ceremony at 9 a.m. January 1 was performed by Rev. Bond in the home of the bride's parents, where 14-branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers flanked the improvised altar, which was decorated in greenery. Miss Shermie Clark, pianist, played appropriate music and the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional floor length gown of white satin with overskirt of white tulle. The basque bodice featured long tapered sleeves and tiny covered buttons from the neckline to the waist in back. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a tiara of white pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Nelda Thames, maid of honor, was wearing a short dress of pink peau de soie, styled with fitted bodice and belled skirt. Her headdress of matching fabric held a pink tulle veil and she carried a single pink carnation.

Serving as best man was Jessie B. Newcomer.

For the ceremony and reception which followed the bride's mother, Mrs. Calton, wore a pale blue wool model with accessories to match and a corsage of pink carnations.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a pink wool suit with matching pink hat, black lizard accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The couple will be at home at 3511 Madison, Monroe.

A graduate of Columbia high school, Mrs. Oszuscik will graduate in August 1964 from Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Oszuscik graduated from Englewood high school, Jacksonville, Fla., and from Northeast Louisiana State College, where he was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity; Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Kappa Pi and is listed in Who's Who in American Universities and colleges.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Miss Vivian Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch of Minden.

Always the most hospitable of towns, Monroe really gives the red-carpet treatment to her own: former residents who have moved away and come back for visits. This past weekend-through-New Year's presented a marvelous opportunity for entertaining, what with about a dozen couples and their children back in town.

A round of parties honored LEILA and JIM EWING, who were here from Atlanta with their children, JIM and LAYNE, as guests at the EDMUND BROWNS. Last Friday JUNE McHENRY, SARA TERZIA, and ANN WESTROM were hostesses at luncheon at the McHenry home. Wrought iron trees wreathed with holly held lighted candles on the tables. The buffet luncheon served to twenty-five guests included smoked ham, asparagus casserole, Bing cherry salad, and pecan pies for dessert.

More out of towners who arrived in time for the ladies to attend this party were ANN and JACK TERZIA of Baton Rouge; ANN and THEO TERZIA of Shreveport. They visited relatives over the weekend.

Saturday night the Browns and JACK EASTERLINGS honored Jim and Leila with open house at the Easterling home. SUE and BOB DOUGHERTY of Fort Smith, Arkansas, were also named guests of honor at this time. Holiday decorations were used throughout the house. A red felt cloth covered the dining table, which was centered with holly in a silver tureen. Over a hundred guests called to greet the visitors.

Hunting occupied the men on Sunday, with the ladies invited for a snack at GLO and BILLY WRIGHT's camp on the river. Monday's hostess was CISSY RYAN, who invited Leila's former bridge club for lunch at the Paragon. The ten guests turned the affair into a surprise stork shower for the honoree.

Sixteen ladies attended a luncheon given for Leila on Tuesday by JIBBY FOX and MARY ALICE HUSTED, at the Fox residence on Loop Road. Ten were seated in the dining room at a table centered with a reflector holding a candy house encircled with camellias. The table in the den was decorated with golden apples, pears, and ivy. The menu included chicken tetrazzini, congealed sweet and sour beets, marinated string beans with hearts of artichokes, and for dessert, coffee with holiday confections and sugared nuts . . . That night, New Year's Eve, GEORGE and MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS entertained at buffet supper for the Ewings and their closest friends.

Speaking of Ann Noel, as we were above, she and John were honored by Carol and PAUL TENNIS at their home on Sunday evening. A few old friends were invited to sit and chat. Carol centered her table with a gold wreath encircling a red candle and fresh holly. Snacks included smoked ham, hogshead cheese, dips, and candies.

Here from Glastonbury, Connecticut, were CAROLYN and JIMMY BROWN and their children, STEVE, PHILIP, and NANCY. They were guests of her parents, the COURTNEY OLIVERS. Last Sunday morning, BLANCHE OLIVER invited family and a few intimate friends for milk punch. She served her special Creole eggplant, with cheeses and holiday confections.

Saturday night, CHECHE and BURCHALL LILES were hosts to a few couples, friends of the Browns, at a small holiday party. On the mantel, CheChe used a green wrought iron candlestick with a red votive light. Centering the green velvet runner on the dining table was a branched silver candelabra with greenery and red Christmas balls. The buffet offered meat balls with hot biscuits, pickled shrimp, Missouri ham, and other holiday treats.

Old friends of ARDEN and BILL M'DOWELL enjoyed a visit with them last Friday night when EVELYN and ROY COLE were hosts at their home on Pargoud boulevard. Ten couples attended the party, snacked, and talked.

Guests from Houston, Texas, were BETTY and ROSS M'DADE, here with her sister and family, the GARLAND HAMMONS. They made a quick trip, arriving Friday, spending Saturday in Lake Village, Arkansas, and leaving Monday. Sunday the men went hunting, and that evening, JEAN and DON GIFFEN invited the group over for a catching-up session. Six couples, old friends of the honorees, enjoyed this opportunity for a visit.

Here from Great Neck, Long Island, New York, for a Southern (?) holiday season were SYDNIE and HARRY BALTERMAN and their children, LOIS and ALISA. They were guests of SYDNIE'S parents, ALMA and BERT HEINBERG, for two weeks: arriving in the midst of our snow, leaving yesterday for home.

Sydnie and other out of town visitors were named guests of honor when ROSALYN STRAUSS was hostess for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club last Friday at noon. Also honored were MARGOT GARON of New Orleans; HELEN PACKMAN of St. Louis; and JOEL STERN of New Orleans; all of whom were visiting relatives here. Twelve guests were seated at the table in the private dining room, which was covered with a green cloth. A large white candle in a gold holder with gold grapes formed the centerpiece.

Popular couple here during the holidays were PAT and JACK MADDEN, who moved from Monroe to Brevard, North Carolina during the summer. They were here at the Admiral Benbow from Saturday until Thursday of this week, and were entertained by their many friends. Saturday night MARY ALICE and D. V. LOFLIN invited the Maddens' former neighbors for oyster loaf at their home on Pargoud boulevard. Ten guests were seated at a table decorated with a white candle encircled with magnolia leaves and tiny figures of angels blowing horns . . . On Sunday at noon, the JOHN MULLENS home was scene of a family dinner party, while BETTY B JACKSON was hostess for Sunday night supper at her home.

Monday afternoon JAMES SALISBURY and EWING BROWN were hosts to a group of the junior high set, honoring visitors: BOBBY DOUGHERTY, CONRAD MADDEN and JIMMY EWING. The boys went bowling and then to the Salisbury home for sandwich supper.

Members of the Maddens' couples bridge club and a few other friends gathered at the JIM FAUCETTS Monday night. Nell decorated with white and gold bells in the entrance hall, and with fresh fruit and greenery in the family room. The dining table was centered with a compote filled with one large gold candle wreathed with pine boughs and holly. Tuesday night New Year's Eve, PAT and BILL RILEY invited the Maddens' former neighbors for dinner. Twelve guests were seated at a table centered with a figure of Father Time. The menu included steak, wild rice casserole, and marinated green beans with champagne at midnight.

During their residence here, the Maddens entertained each New Year's Day with dinner and game-watching. Wednesday the ROY LEDBETTERS invited the group to meet for this year's party at their house, with the Maddens. Buffet dinner included ham, hot tamales, blackeyed peas, and a fabulous assortment of desserts brought by guests. Between thirty and forty dropped by between noon and four.

New Yer's Eve is always best party night of the year. POLLY and LOUIS MILNER were hosts at open house at their home on Park avenue between the hours of seven and nine. Polly was wearing a white crepe sheath with overblouse embroidered in irridescents. A bouquet of yellow chrystanthemums decorated the entrance, while red carnations were used in the living room.

White carnations and tiny bells filled the crystal and silver epergne which centered the dining table. A silver chafing dish at one end held hot dip of crabmeat, sherry and cheese; to be eaten with bite - size pastry shells. Other goodies included an egg and cheese dip, pickled shrimp, ham and barbecued beef. On the buffet were marinated black eyed peas, with corn chips for dipping. About fifty close friends were invited to call.

Last Sunday evening JACQUE and GENE BIEGENWALD entertained with open house at their home on Auburn avenue. Jacque received in an ankle-length white satin sheath, ornamented with a stunning lavalier. White New Year's bells swinging from the ceiling created a festive atmosphere in the living room. The dining table, centered with poinsettias, held a crystal punch bowl at one end; and at the other, a crystal carafe of hot spiced tomato juice. Over one hundred guests called between seven and nine.

A New Year's theme was noted on the table when CAROL and HANK WELLS invited a few friends to drop by on Tuesday evening. Burning away the hours was a tall white candle in a gold candlestick hung with serpentine and confetti. Cranberry spiced punch was offered at one end of the table, egg nog at the other. Goodies included smoked turkey, sardine sandwiches, walnut cake and cranberry bread.

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care;
When it's strong as your hand can make it,
Put all your troubles there;
Hide there all thought of your failures,
And each bitter cup that you quaff;
Lock all your heartaches within it,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
Tell no one else its contents,
Never its secrets share;
When you've dropped in your care and worry
Keep them forever there;
Hide them from sight so completely
That the world will never dream half;
Fasten the strong box securely—
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

Couple Wed In Home Of Bride's Parents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, 503 Plum, Monroe, was scene of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Sherry Fitzgerald to Gerald Lynn Thorne, son of Mrs. W. F. Petty and Shelby Thorne, both of Monroe.

Rev. Leon Ivey performed the double ring ceremony at 6 p.m. on December 21 as the couple stood before an arch of greenery and white pompons flanked by baskets of pink gladioli and candelabra holding pink tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a white wool dress, fashioned with scoop neckline and A-line skirt. A white pillbox hat, white shoes and gloves completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds, surrounded by white carnations, atop a white Bible.

Miss Bonita Brannen, maid of honor, wore a pink suit with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of white pompons.

Terry Fitzgerald, brother of the bride, attended Mr. Thorne as best man.

Mrs. Fitzgerald chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of blue wool with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a brown floral jersey ensemble with harmonizing accessories. Both wore corsages of white pompons.

A reception followed in the home. Covered with a pink cloth the bride's table was centered with the wedding cake, surrounded by ivy and pink roses. At opposite ends of the table were the punch bowl and the silver coffee service.

For going - away the bride changed into a white wool sheath with red accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The couple will establish a home in Monroe. Mr. Thorne is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school where Mrs. Thorne is scheduled to graduate in May.

ONLY AS GHOST

NEW YORK (AP) — John Gielgud's voice only will take part in the "Hamlet" being produced on Broadway this spring.

Gielgud, who is directing the production that stars Richard Burton, Alfred Drake and Hume Cronyn, has recorded the ominous dialogue of the drama's Ghost. A shaft of light will indicate the specter's presence on stage while loudspeakers throughout the theater boom the words.

Louisiana Tech Students Wed In Winnfield Church

A white satin prie dieu beneath an arch of greenery flanked by baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums formed a setting in East Winnfield Baptist church for the wedding of Miss Eula La Verne Cockerham and Bobby Gene Jordan on Friday, December 27.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cockerham of Joyce and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jordan Tullos.

Branched candelabra holding lighted tapers completed the altar setting and candles with greenery were used in the windows. Rev. Kenneth F. Wall and Rev. Charlie Christie performed the double ring vows at 8 p.m. following appropriate nuptial music by Mrs. Kenneth F. Wall, organist and Beverly Thomas, soloist.

Given in marraige by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace combined with lustrous peau de soie, styled with bouffant pleated skirt and scalloped front neckline, etched with seed pearls and sequins. Her veil of imported silk bridal illusion cascaded from a crown of miniature pearls and crystal beads. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

Serving as matron of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James Carter, who wore a short gown of aqua silk organza, with a matching organza pillbox. Her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums.

James Carter attended Mr. Jordan as best man and ushers were Jack I. Cockerham, Bill Cockerham and Edis Ray Sanders.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a tailored suit of ice blue wool knit with black accessories and corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a suit of champagne beige with brown accessories and white carnation corsage.

The church reception room was transformed into a garden setting of greenery and white chrysanthemums for the reception which followed the ceremony. White and silver wedding bells formed the centerpiece for the bride's table from which punch and cake were served.

For a wedding trip to points in north Louisiana the bride wore a taupe suit with brown accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

Both are graduates of Winnfield high school and are now junior students at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston, where they will be at home.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Cockerham, Jackie and Debra, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cockerham and Dean, Jena; Mrs. Joe Baker, Barbara and Bobby of Jacksonville, Texas and Mrs. Katie Sinfield, Bedford, England.

Queen's Stylist Brings 'Cone' Coiffure To U.S.

NEW YORK— (WNS) —Peter Besser Raymond is known to his royal and noble clientele in London simply as Raymond, but that's as far as Queen Elizabeth II's hair stylist goes with the conventional image of his profession.

He looks more like a boxer, dresses rather like an American, has an easy flow of conversation which belies his British accent, and was born French anyhow.

"My father was a hairdresser — nobody called them stylists in those days," he said matter-of-factly. "I started helping him when I was 9, after school."

But Raymond trained as a violinist. One of his classmates was the now vastly popular conductor, Mantovani. Raymond decided in favor of hair styling when he saw lines of unemployed musicians outside the booking offices.

"Now I wouldn't do anything else," he said cheerfully. But actually, he does a lot of other things, including skiing, skin diving and running a racing stable.

Raymond was here to show American women his new "cone" hairdo. With him was Rosalie Ashley, a pretty blonde English actress and TV personality, who was wearing the daytime version of the style. This consists of a soft, center-parted cut which brings the ends of the smooth sides forward onto the face. Hair at the back of the crown is cut and permanented (at the roots only) to lift it high.

"For evening I really launch the cone," he said, and pulled forth a small structure of wire and webbing with blonde hair wrapped around it. Two little combs fastened it to Miss Ashley's head in a trice, and he quickly combed the free ends into her own hair.

"There's no teasing, no pins, practically no spraying needed. I've never liked styles that required a lot of fussing. Even the palm was a matter of cutting."

The palm, later known as the artichoke, was one of the many styles Raymond has originated in his 25 years as London's top stylist. No, he isn't that old; he started while still in his teens, winning contests right off the bat.

"Hair styles are like any art form; the ideas come from everywhere. I had a nervous poodle who bit me once, and that inspired the poodle cut. A one-sided coiffure called the Miranda was first done for a woman who wanted to conceal her hearing aid ear button."

Like most Continental stylists, Raymond learned entirely by apprenticeship, starting with his father, and his personal skills include even wig-making. His father migrated to London, which is how Raymond became English, but he also speaks French and Italian, so he left the parental roof early for good jobs in Continental salons.

"Father wouldn't pay. No European father will pay his own son anything much. But he was right in believing I should follow him in the same business."

Today Raymond runs a chain of 16 salons and a cosmetics company and has affiliations with 50 other salons. He doesn't talk about his royal client, but he talks a blue streak about everything else. And the cone hairdo is really very pretty.

FRANK TOPPER

A tempting kraut topping for frankfurters is made by mixing 1 can (11 ounces) of condensed cheese soup, 2 cups drained kraut, ¼ cup of milk, ½ teaspoon of prepared mustard and ½ teaspoon of caraway seed. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently until hot. Serves 6.

MRS. MARVIN CALVIN CONRAD JR.

Terry Littlefield Bride Of Marvin C. Conrad Jr.

A candlelight ceremony Tuesday, December 24 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Philip Littlefield of Kilbourne, united in marriage Miss Terry Jane Littlefield and Marvin Calvin Conrad Jr., of West Monroe. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Calvin Conrad of West Monroe.

Rev. C. J. T. Cotten performed the double ring ceremony before an ivy-entwined arch, flanked by baskets of white poinsettias and white tapers. Mrs. Dwain Tharpe, sister of the bride, presented a program of wedding music.

Wearing a gown of white peau de soie and lace, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bodice with long tapered sleeves and Florentine neckline was a network of reembroidered Alencon lace on French net. An overlay of matching lace aproned the dome shaped skirt and sculptured folds of silk belled from the waist into a full chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion cascaded from a crown of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid and lily of the valley.

Miss Martha McCabe of Rosedale, Miss., maid of honor, wore an imported red woolen suit. Her headdress was a satin and velvet pillbox with illusion veil.

Mr. Conrad attended his son as best man and ring bearer was Steven Dwain Tharpe, nephew of bride.

Mrs. Littlefield chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece red knit suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Conrad, mother of the groom, selected a beige wool model with brown accessories and both wore white corsages. Mrs. R. F. Scott, grandmother of the bride, wore a light blue silk dress and as orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents. The bride's table in the dining room was covered with pink satin overlaid with a hand crocheted lace cloth and held a central arrangement of white poinsettias and stock. Miss Brenda Littlefield, cousin of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Bill Broom, Dallas, Tex., presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. Conrad attended Northeast Louisiana State College and Louisiana Tech where he majored in electrical engineering. He has just completed Doppler Radar Navigation System school at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., and has been reassigned to Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nevada. Mrs. Conrad graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College and is presently teaching in St. Francisville.

Watt-Thompson Vows Read In Natchez Church

The marriage of Miss Katy Thompson and James M. Watt Jr. was solemnized December 22 in a double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. in the Fourth Street Church of Christ in Natchez. Rev. William Huggin, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thompson of Natchez and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Watts of Vicksburg, Miss.

Mrs. W. F. Cotten of Clinton served as her sister's matron of honor and junior bridesmaid was Miss Betsy Andrews. Gordon Cotton of Vicksburg, was best man and ushers were Charles Deevers of Memphis, Tenn., and Donnie Andrews of Vicksburg.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn and the couple is now at home in Vicksburg, where Mr. Watt is with the U.S. Corps of Engineers. Mrs. Watt is a member of the faculty at Bowmar Avenue School in Vicksburg.

Synthetic Wig Has Look Of Shaggy Rug

A new synthetic wig for women started as a roll of Dynel fiber, 22 inches long and 54 inches wide. The material looks like a shaggy rug. The cloth is cut into strips, using furriers knives. Individual strips are sewn together then — as a mink coat is sewn, to form a shape patterned to fit milady's head.

A piece of elastic is stitched inside, making the wig adjustable to fit every head size and enabling the wearer easily to tuck her own locks inside. The wig, which is washable, gets its shape this way: it's put on a wig block. The next steps: brush, comb and lacquer it into a variety of styles.

MRS. PAUL LAWRENCE BRADLEY

Seasonal Decor Featured At Bradley-Moore Vows

Vows uniting Miss Myron Cecille Moore and Paul Lawrence Bradley were solemnized Sunday, December 22 at 4 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church at Oak Grove. The Rev. Jean Germaine performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Moore of Oak Grove and Mr. Bradley is the son of Mrs. Helen Bradley, Oak Grove and John W. Bradley, Louisville, Miss.

Red poinsettias were used on the altar with candelabra holding white tapers at either side. A nativity scene inside the altar completed the setting.

Mrs. N. W. Causey, organist and Zeke Myers of Lake Providence, presented traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of satin peau de soie featuring a wide band of Alencon lace along the jacket edge and each side of the front panel in the skirt. The jacket was styled with long tapered sleeves and the skirt swept into a chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a bandeau of lace and seed pearls adorned with a satin peau de soie bow to match her gown. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley and white tulle centered with a white orchid, and showered with streamers.

Mrs. John Robert Hurley, Ruston, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Billie Jean Rush and Miss Bonnie Cole, both of Shreveport. Miss Libby Sue Crew of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore full skirted frocks of red brocade styled with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and elbow sleeves. They carried white fur muffs to which red poinsettias were tied with red velvet loops. Small white fur hats completed their costumes.

Earl Bradley of Monroe, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen-ushers were Fred Bradley, brother of the bridegroom; Jimmy Bradley and John Robert Hurley. Jim Herlevic, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, chose for the occasion a dark Jade green wool model with white hat, trimmed in Jade, white gloves and black suede accessories. Her corsage was of miniature red roses tied with red velvet. Mrs. Bradley, mother of the groom, chose an olive green silk shantung with brown accessories, white prayer veil. Her corsage was also of red roses tied with red velvet.

Focal point of the church social hall, scene of the reception which followed, was a wedding tree of white wedding bells tied with red ribbons. Wedding ring centerpieces and other holiday decorations were used on the various tables. Miss Suzy Bradley, sister of the groom, invited guests to sign the register at a table decorated with a white memory candle with small pictures of the bride and groom on each side.

A lace - trimmed linen cloth covered the refreshment table, at one end of which was the tiered wedding cake with the crystal punch bowl opposite. The all white cake was topped with a fresh bouquet of white carnations tied with red velvet. Red carnations in frozen ice floated in the bowl of cherry punch. Centering the serving table was an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, pompons and leatherleaf fern, decorated with golden balls in a crystal epergne. Serving were Mrs. James Earl Shivers, Miss Lynda Fox, Miss Linda Jones and Miss Gail Weems, all of whom were presented corsages of feathered white carnations.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a winter white suit with fox fur collar, brown hat and lizard accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet. The couple has established a home at 1713 Filhiol in Monroe, where they will continue their education at Northeast Louisiana State College. Both are graduates of Oak Grove high school and Mrs. Bradley previously attended Louisiana Tech.

YOUR PROBLEMS

If He Has No Trust He's Not Worth Much

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: The man I loved and trusted and invested three whole years in took his ring back and broke our engagement last night.

The trouble was started by Kenny's best friend whom I never liked. This friend resented me from the beginning because after I came into the picture Kenny didn't pal around with him "like old times." At first this friend tried to horn in and make it a threesome, but when I wouldn't tolerate it, he began his dirty work.

A few days ago he told Kenny a vicious lie about me. When I tried to explain to Kenny that there was no truth in the story he said, "I'm sorry, but one of you is lying and I think it is you."

Please tell me how to get Kenny back. I am heartsick, Ann. This is all so unfair. — BLUE BLUE NIGHTS

Dear Blue: You need Kenny like a giraffe needs a strep throat. A guy who would have so little confidence in his girl is not worth worrying about.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about the 14-year-old neighbor girl who baked the birthday cake for the man next door and gave him a nice big birthday kiss in front of everybody.

You seemed to think it was just ducky, and in fact you made his wife sound like a jealous old witch. I would like to acquaint you with the facts of life, Ann Landers. Fourteen-year-old girls aren't what they used to be.

Our daughter is 14 years old and could pass for 18 any day. If I ever caught her kissing the man next door whether it was his birthday or the 4th of July, I'd give her a crack she'd never forget. Our son is 15 and he'd better not kiss the neighbor lady either.

When my sister's husband ran off with their 15-year-old babysitter two years ago I changed all my notions about how old kids are before they get ideas. I think it's time YOU woke up and smelled the coffee, Old Girl. — WITH IT

Dear With: Just what it is you're "with" I'm not sure, but I suspect you have a fairly low opinion of most young people.

A 14-year-old neighbor girl who bakes a cake and bestows a birthday kiss in the presence of a neighbor's family is no Lolita in my book. The advice stands.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago my husband and I were invited to a lovely supper party in the home of a business associate. Now I would like to reciprocate.

I want to call the person who invited us first and plan the party around her and her husband. What if she says they have another engagement for the evening I suggest? Should I ask her about the following weekend, or should I ask her to call me when she has a free Friday or Saturday evening?

I know you do not conduct an etiquette column, but I believe this question comes under the heading of common sense rather than manners, and I'd appreciate your direction. — NEW HOSTESS

Dear Hostess: If the woman is busy on the date you suggest, it would be perfectly all right to ask her for an evening the following weekend.

If, however, she's also busy then, tell her you will telephone her at a later date. It would be presumptuous of you to ask her to call you when she has a free date.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope.

MISS CAROLYN CROWELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Crowell, 106 Camp Drive, West Monroe, will become the bride of James Hamilton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton, West Monroe on Tuesday, January 7. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Gregory at 7:30 p.m. in Mt. Vernon Baptist Church. Mr. Hamilton who is a seaman first class with the navy, stationed at New Orleans, is being transferred to California in the near future.

HANDY OVERSUIT

A new vinyl oversuit is a handy addition to any gardening damsel's wardrobe. It comes in bright yellow and is waterproof. Good also at car washing time.

PRESS PLASTIC

Have trouble with plastic curtains or tablecloths wrinkling after you wash them? Press them between a piece of cloth with the iron set at "silk" and the wrinkles will disappear.

Strapless Suit Is New Style In Swimwear

Bikinis, one - piecers, two-piecers, draped — with swimsuits showing a little of every style what can be new?

The strapless suit, that's what looking sexy up top, but loosely bloused in silhouette for a demure air.

The blouson strapless is the newest resort swimsuit, often in two colors, with a built-in bra that doesn't show beneath the bloused top. It's generally built on sleek boy shorts, is sashed for extra softness beneath the bloused top.

The blouson strapless isn't a swimmer's suit, tending to drag too much in the water. But it's a great pool and beach suit, especially in combinations like navy shorts, hot pink top.

Japanese Dress Western Style, Retain Old Ideas

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese have switched from kimonos to Western-style dress but they still live off the floor as in the old days.

According to a Japanese joke, the formula for happiness is "marry a Japanese woman, live in a Western house and eat Chinese food."

But so far Western houses are out of financial reach for most Japanese. As a result, most eating and sleeping is done right on the floor according to old Japanese custom.

When a pretty Japanese secretary goes home from a hard day at her modern office, she most likely sits down on a floor mat made of woven rushes, tucks her nylon-encased legs under her, and eats supper off a table a foot high.

Older Japanese homes —probably more than half the houses and apartments in the country — usually have wooden floors only in the bathroom and the kitchen.

Elsewhere, the floor is covered with tightly-woven brown mats called "tatami." Just as their ancestors did centuries ago, Japanese discard their shoes at the door, and go about their homes in light slippers or their sock feet. To keep the mats from getting soiled, the slippers are never worn outside the house.

The situation isn't likely to change in a hurry.

"We're very optimistic about the future," the operator of a tatami weaving shop said recently. "I'd say that out of every three rooms being built in Tokyo today, at least two are still tatami."

Part of the explanation for the durability of "tatami-living," as Westerners call it, lies in the cramped surroundings in which the Japanese live. In a California-sized country crowded with 95 million people, land is expensive and rents are high.

In Tokyo it's not uncommon for a married couple with three children to live in two 12 by 14-foot tatami rooms and a kitchen. Beds, chairs and tables would cramp the place beyond human endurance.

So at dinner time the wife fetches a low table from a closet and sets it on the floor. She throws out a few cushions and the family sits on them while eating. The whole layout can be swiftly stowed away when the meal is over.

The beds, too, are stowed away in the daytime. A Japanese bed is no more than a thick quilt laid down on the soft mat floor, with other quilts laid on top for warmth. Nobody seems concerned about the absence of bedsprings.

The modern trend is to the "semi-Western" house, which usually means that one room is Western, complete with chairs and table.

Even tatami makers admit that many Japanese would switch to all-Western living if they could afford it.

MISS DARLENE CHEATHAM

Miss Cheatham, Fiance To Wed January 25

Rev. and Mrs. James Douglas Cheatham Sr., of Pineville, formerly of Oak Grove, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Darlene to George A. Foster Jr. of Baton Rouge. He is the son of Mrs. George A. Foster Sr., and the late Mr. Foster of Pollock.

The wedding will be an event of January 25 at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Pineville.

The Cheathams were residents of Oak Grove for 20 years where Rev. Cheatham was pastor of Oak Grove First Baptist Church.

A rehearsal supper preceding the wedding day will be given by Mr. and Mrs. James Malone of Monroe, sister and brother-in-law of the prospective bridegroom. The Malones will be hosts at Herbie K's Restaurant in Alexandria. The bride's parents will be hosts at the reception following the wedding in the Recreational Room of First Baptist Church in Pineville.

Initial Pins Capture Fancy Of Fashion

Smart new Initial pins have caught on as the winter season's fashion touch in jewelry.

This dramatic personalized type of adornment assures smartness and good taste, plus individuality. The very popular pins are available in script or block style, in gold or chrome-polished finish, and come in many sizes, according to J. S. Vann, jewelry buyer, to dress up casual wear.

The large initial pins are ideal for jumpers, shifts, knit suits, coats, sweaters and skirts. Be sure the pin is placed low at the neckline or off center. They are most effective on skirt bands.

Keep the individual in mind when selecting the pins. If the recipient is a dainty delicate personality, select the script pin. The block style would be flattering for the outdoor type of gal.

A great deal of ingenuity is being shown by fashion experts on wearing pins. They are most intriguing on headbands, watch bands, belts, purses and gloves. The teenager could provoke quite a stir among the soda set by pinning initials on her socks or even on canvas shoes. The smaller initials would be preferable for this more minute article of wear.

They add so much to the over-all appearance of the wearer and there is so much that can be done with the pins. They can be worn singly, in pairs, as monograms, or to spell out names.

Surprisingly, even the male contingent is wearing initials with clutch backs on jacket lapels or as tie tacks.

FORTHCOMING marriage of Miss Anita Moore and P.F.C. Gary Lawson, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Moore, Monroe, Rt. 2. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawson, also of Rt. 2, Monroe. The wedding will take place January 9 at 7:30 p.m. in New Light Baptist Church.

A STRIKING BATIK nylon print does a quick change to smart solid-toned fabrinol in this reversible original by Dolphin. This two-faced raincoat is completely waterproof and can be "flipped" to suit scores of costumes and moods this season. It has flap-over patch pockets and self-covered reversible buttons. With a matching reversible kerchief it comes in predominating print shades of brown or blue.

MRS. HARLAN L. PRESTRIDGE, prior to her marriage December 27 was Miss Peggy Furr, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Furr of Wisner. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Prestridge of Monroe. The wedding was solemnized at Emanuel Baptist Church, Monroe with Rev. Fred Doolittle officiating.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here it is again — that wonderful feeling! The slate is wiped clean! Old mistakes are things of the past and dreams and hopes and plans are revitalized with another chance.

Yes, we have been given another brand new year to do with what we please. Whether it will be gay or dreary, rewarding or frustrating, youthifying or aging, depends to a great extent on how we use it.

Then, too, the festivities not only put a dent in many a pocket-book, but a roll on many a figure. How those lovely calories counted up! So, this week I am bringing you my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan. I call it "BIP", for short.

In case you do not know about this, let me explain. The idea is to see how much you can improve your appearance in just eight weeks while following my directions. You will join thousands of other women who will be doing the same thing.

We are all human and therefore, often put off and over again those practices and routines which would make us, literally, twice as good looking as we are and, also, greatly improve our health. I think one reason for this procrastination is because women do not know what they hope to accomplish in a given length of time.

In eight week's time you can lose fom 15 to 20 pounds, bring your measurements nearer to perfection, improve posture, hair and complexion, and feel about 10 years younger because of increased energy. You'll be surprised at how fast eight weeks will pass.

My Beauty Improvement Plan will appear in this newspaper for the next eight days. Here are some of the things you will have to do and will learn how to do:

1. You will learn how to determine what your correct weight is.
2. You will be told how to measure yourself.
3. You will learn about counting calories.
4. You will learn about exercise and how to use it.
5. You will be brought information about special skin and hair care.
6. You will learn how to plan your reducing diet.

And there is lots more! So, if you wish to join the gang, don't miss a day!

If you want my BIP (Beauty Improvement Plan) kit which gives you complete instructions for the eight-week plan and includes my BIP wall chart on which you can chart your weight daily and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops, send 25 cents (and 15 cents for postage and handling) with your printed name and address. Mail to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

OES Has Installation Of Officers

Installation of the 1964 officers of Dixie Chapter No. 179 Order of the Eastern Star was held Monday Evening December 30, 1963 at the Masonic Temple, North Fourth Street, Monroe, Louisiana.

The East was decorated with an arch of greenery and entwined with pink carnations. Two huge baskets on either side held pink carnations and greenery. Branched candelabra held blue candles. The windows were banked with flocked greenery, blue bell and balls. In the west was a huge basket of silver and blue decorations. Hung from the ceiling was a blue banner with the word Friendship in silver in the West and Love One Another in the East.

A prelude of music was played by Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer. Mrs. Manell Nield and Mrs. Annie Cruse lighted the candles as E. M. Wooten sang a solo. Mrs. Hazel DeWees presented a white bible to the altar as Mr. Wooten sang Have Thine Own Way. The meeting was called to order by Don Guyton. Entrance of 1963 officers and the Welcome by Mrs. Bessie Wood. Those acting as Installing Officers were introduced. They were, Mrs. Lillie Mae Shepard, installing officer; Mrs. Bessie Nixon, installing marshal; and Mrs. Callie McMullen, installing chaplain: Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer, installing organist. New officers installed were: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Jewell LaPietra; Worthy Patron, Wallace Wood; Associate Matron, Mrs. Hazel Pettit; Associate Patron, W. B. Evans; secretary, Mrs. Nina Evans; treasurer, Mrs. Mae Lucky; conductress, Mrs. Julia Bassett; associate conductress, Mrs. Tiny Baynes; chaplain, Mrs. Bessie Wood; marshal, Mrs. Dorothy Redding; organist, Miss Charlotte Sally; Adah, Mrs. Lucille Knott; Ruth, Mrs. Gladys Sally; Esther, Mrs. Joan Spence; Martha, Mrs. Vashti Johnson; Electa, Mrs. Hazel Platt; warder, Mrs. Gertrude Lyles and sentinal, Mrs. Giner McMullen.

Mrs. Jewell LaPietra greeted all present as the new worthy matron. She thanked all those who had assisted and announced that her colors for the year would be blue, pink and silver; flower, the pink carnation and all flowers that grow in God's Garden; Motto, The Golden Rule; Theme, Love One Another. E. M. Wooten sang to the worthy matron, Bless This House.

Wallace Wood then brought greetings and expressed his cooperation and help to the Worthy Matron. My Task was sung to him. A tribute was presented to the new Worthy Matron and Patron in the form of resolutions from each of her new officers as they pledged their loyalty and support for the coming year.

The junior past matron and patron, Mrs. Bessie Wood and Don Guyton were escorted to sign the Bible by Mrs. Birdie Mae Mulhern, P.G.M. and Mrs. Lovie Gregory, P.G.M. of Grand Chapter. The 1963 officers then prsented a Bible program honoring these two. Each officer entered the chapter room carrying a lighter taper and formed a cross around the altar. The four officers next to the altar placed their candles on the altar. As each moved out of the cross they alternated and formed a line of march which was lead by the honored two. Each star point presented a book mark in their color on the Holy Bible. They were then escorted back to the east, and a solo, How Great Thou Art was sung. Wallace Wood prsented Mrs. Wood with her past matron's jewel and Mrs. Alyce Guyton presented Don Guyton with his. Gifts were presented each at this time as a token of appreciation for the year of service.

The meeting was closed with E. M. Wooten singing The Lord's Prayer. Everyone was invited into the banquet room for refreshments. A long table with two round tables at each end were draped in white satin clothes. The center piece was an arrangement of blue and silver in a silver container supported by cherubs. Branched cherub candelabra held blue candles. Mrs. Mildred Henderson presided at the silver service and Mrs. Manell Nield served punch. Refreshments were served the approximately 100 members and friends present, including twelve members of Mrs. LaPietra's family.

Jazzy Teaching Methods Hold Students' Interest

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some assistive devices used by inventive teachers belong in the kitchen, the laundry or a coffee house.

An English teacher in Clayton (Mo.) High School, for example, totes a guitar from home when it's time to introduce his ninth graders to poetry.

Accompanying myself on a guitar, I sing a few ballads and tell how the ballads evolved into what we now know as poetry," Alan Kraus reported to the National Education Association (NEA).

His strategy, cited as the "idea of the month" by the NEA journal, quiets groans from students unhappy at the thought of studying "sissyish" verse.

A first grade teacher at Saugatuck Elementary School in Westport, Conn., went to the kitchen for help when she needed a not-yet-invented device to help students get the feel of letter shapes.

Schoolmarm Margaret Farcas found just what she needed: a baking pan and a box of corn meal. Now youngsters in her class trace letters with a finger in the corn meal—in the baking pan. It helps them grasp letter shapes.

Another teacher recently took a wire coat hanger and hung ten pinch-top plastic clothes pins on it—five red and five green. The pins slide easily. Youngsters use the primitive teaching machine to learn the basics in addition and subtraction.

Patrick Hickey, director of physical education at Monroe School, Franklin Square, N. Y., has hit on a plan to get his students to carry on their physical fitness exercises outside of school.

He has induced them to do sit-ups, push-ups, squat thrusts, and the like when a commercial appears on any television program they're watching.

Another idea cited by the NEA is down-to-earth.

About the last week in April every year, some 1,000 fifth graders from the Battle Creek, Mich., schools swarm over an 80-acre school farm to begin their spring planting.

The farm, laid out by members of the County Soil Conservation Department, includes ground cleared for gardens, plots for a nursery, for seed beds, and for experimental gardens.

In the spring, the farm director meets with the children and their teachers to help them plan their gardens. He assigns each school a plot of ground.

Jumpers Revive Blouses

Women are suddenly buying blouses again — and at blouse counters. After some years of blouse doldrums, the blouse is back again in a big way. And the jumper did it.

This fall jumpers proved to be the biggest thing in dresses. For spring it will be more of the same. And even when a jumper comes with its own blouse, women want some extras for changing.

Suits are also helping blouse business. Many suit houses are finding it hard to keep prices down if a blouse is added, so are eliminating the blouse. More business at the blouse counter.

For spring, the softer look will make blouses a new necessity. Ruffles are returning (remember the Dear Liz blouse?) and will be bought for a new look to old suits.

Watch, too, for bigger sleeves, sheerer than the body of the blouse. This style will be worn with black skirts, cinched in with red patent belts.

CHEESY BALLS

Next time you make meat balls from ground beef and pork add a little grated Parmesan cheese along with the other ingredients.

MISS DARLENE CHEATHAM

Miss Cheatham, Fiance To Wed January 25

Rev. and Mrs. James Douglas Cheatham Sr., of Pineville, formerly of Oak Grove, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Darlene to George A. Foster Jr. of Baton Rouge. He is the son of Mrs. George A. Foster Sr., and the late Mr. Foster of Pollock.

The wedding will be an event of January 25 at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Pineville.

The Cheathams were residents of Oak Grove for 20 years where Rev. Cheatham was pastor of Oak Grove First Baptist Church.

A rehearsal supper preceding the wedding day will be given by Mr. and Mrs. James Malone of Monroe, sister and brother-in-law of the prospective bridegroom. The Malones will be hosts at Herbie K's Restaurant in Alexandria. The bride's parents will be hosts at the reception following the wedding in the Recreational Room of First Baptist Church in Pineville.

Initial Pins Capture Fancy Of Fashion

Smart new initial pins have caught on as the winter season's fashion touch in jewelry.

This dramatic personalized type of adornment assures smartness and good taste, plus individuality. The very popular pins are available in script or block style, in gold or chrome-polished finish, and come in many sizes, according to J. S. Vann, jewelry buyer, to dress up casual wear.

The large initial pins are ideal for jumpers, shifts, knit suits, coats, sweaters and skirts. Be sure the pin is placed low at the neckline or off center. They are most effective on skirt bands.

Keep the individual in mind when selecting the pins. If the recipient is a dainty delicate personality, select the script pin. The block style would be flattering for the outdoor type of gal.

A great deal of ingenuity is being shown by fashion experts on wearing pins. They are most intriguing on headbands, watch bands, belts, purses and gloves. The teenager could provoke quite a stir among the soda set by pinning initials on her socks or even on canvas shoes. The smaller initials would be preferable for this more minute article of wear.

They add so much to the over-all appearance of the wearer and there is so much that can be done with the pins. They can be worn singly, in pairs, as monograms, or to spell out names.

Surprisingly, even the male contingent is wearing initials with clutch backs on jacket lapels or as tie tacks.

GOLDWATER BLAST

Rockefeller Rejects Charge Of 'Me Too'

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller rejected Saturday charges by Sen. Barry Goldwater and others that he offers Republicans a "me too" program taken from the Democrats.

"That label doesn't apply to me," the New York governor told a news conference ending a 20 - hour campaign swing in search of support in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire presidential preference primary March 10.

"In matters of human concern I am a liberal, and in economic and financial concerns I am a conservative," Rockefeller said.

On the West Coast, Goldwater was charging that Rockefeller was more of a Democrat than a Republican.

Rockefeller continued to press Goldwater to join in a series of televised debates in the New Hampshire primary but the Arizonan again refused.

Goldwater and Rockefeller have declared formally their candidacies for the Republican nomination for president.

In his announcement Friday, Goldwater said Rockefeller would not offer the voters a clear-cut choice between Republican and Democratic philosophy.

Rockefeller addressed himself to that comment when he said that his views had been worked out from 32 years of public life and therefore could not have been pirated from the three-year-old New Frontier.

Goldwater amplified his comments on Rockefeller Saturday in Los Angeles as he said he saw no sense in the debates proposed by Rockefeller.

"Debating him would be more like debating a member of the New Frontier," Goldwater said.

Those comments arrived at Rockefeller headquarters here after the governor had departed for his home in Westchester County, New York. There was no immediate rebuttal.

On each of four public appearances during his New Hampshire visit Rockefeller called upon Goldwater to join in the debates as "part of the New Hampshire and New England tradition."

Rockefeller said he wanted to debate with Goldwater such views as U. S. withdrawal from the United Nations, cutting off all foreign aid, abolishing the graduated income tax and stopping farm subsidies.

Rockefeller has attributed these views to Goldwater but the Arizona senator and conservative leader has said they do not reflect his thinking.

The New York governor Saturday established Goldwater as his immediate target, stating that the first concern of Republicans should be "the choice within the party" at the convention next July.

Goldwater has emphasized the choice between the Democratic and Republican candidates next November.

Rockefeller passed up openings to make specific criticisms of Democratic President Lyndon Johnson. He said most of Johnson's progress "has been made in statements" and there were no concrete results to judge as yet.

Of the widely publicized economy drive Rockefeller said:

"He's taken some people out of cars and taken their chauffeurs away but it will take more than that to balance the budget and restore economy to government."

Three Negroes Are Booked For Simple Robbery

Three Negroes were arrested for simple robbery by Monroe police early Saturday, marking the second trio to be arrested on such charges within the past two days.

Asst. Chief Sidney Martin identified this group as Monroe Dixon, 37, Negro, of No. 4 Ross Alley; Will Carter, 29, No. 6 Ross Alley; and Tetha Ashley, 21, No. 6 Ross Alley. All three were booked for simple robbery and transferred to the parish jail.

They are charged with robbing another Negro, Hobart Croft, of 906 Columbia St., of approximately $35 at the Negro woman's residence. According to officers, the woman made a date with Croft in a local tavern late Friday night and upon arrival at her home, Dixon ande Carter broke the door open and took his money.

When they were apprehended, Carter denied taking but $9. However, he later told officers he ate an unknown amount of the money in an effort to keep police from finding the loot when he was searched.

The Monroe department was also investigating two burglaries and two thefts that were reported to them Saturday. Approximately $20 and an unknown quantity of cigarettes were taken in the burglary of Paschal's Cafe, 223 S. 8th St., Monroe, sometime Friday night or early Saturday.

Will Paschal, owner and operator of the business, told officers the padlock was taken from the front door, and both the cigarette machine and the jukebox hit.

The candy machines were radied in a burglary at Carroll Junior High School, located off Renwick Street. John Bradley, janitor of the school, discovered the breakin when he came to work early Saturday morning. The building had been entered through a window on the north side and around $2.65 in change and about 12 bars of candy taken from a machine on that wing. The party or parties then went through a window on the northeast side of the building and took about $1.65 more in change and 20 bars of candy.

Meanwhile, the theft of around $15 from the cash register of the Sav-A-Lot Service Station, located on DeSiard Street, was also being probed. Levi Porter, an employee of the station, told officers the money was taken while he was out of the office.

The theft of two guns, a .16 gauge, double-barrel shotgun and a .22-caliber lever action rifle, was also being checked. The incident was reported by B. E. Gambrill, 513 McGuire St., who told officers the two firearms were taken from a rack in his truck while it was parked at the rear of his home Friday night.

West Monroe police were investigating the burglary of Bayles Fish Market, on S. Riverfront Street, Saturday. Albert Bayles, owner of the business, said the party or parties entered through the south side of the building and took approximately $3 and two dressed fish, weighing about 25 pounds each.

Late Saturday afternoon, Monroe police booked a Rayville man, James C. Hammett, 34, of 1219 Julia St., for theft by check. He was apprehended on a warrant charging him with theft by check in the amount of $5.40 at Gibson's Wholesale.

The Monroe department also logged counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and no driver's license against Negro Matthew Warren, 33, 2209 Outlet Rd. He was taken into custody at 5:45 p.m. on the count at the intersection of Swayze and Renwick Street. Bond was set at $500.

Mummers Have Quiet Parade

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Participants in the 54th annual Mummers parade, barred by the courts from wearing their traditional blackface makeup, marched in silence Saturday through the city's negro section.

Groups of Negro and white youths exchanged jeers from opposite sides of the streets but the parade came off with relatively few incidents.

A security force of 2,500 police stood guard as clowns in outlandish dress and string bands, colorfully garbed but minus the traditional blackface makeup, marched up Broad Street.

Mississippi Solons Slate 1st Session

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's legislature — reduced in size by reapportionment — meets Tuesday for its 1964 biennial session.

Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson will preside over the Senate for two weeks and then assume the governorship, which he sought unsuccessfully three times before winning it last fall.

Johnson will succeed Gov. Ross Barnett Jan. 21.

Johnson won the governorship —which was once held by his late father — after two hard-fought Democratic primaries and a general election battle unparalleled since the Reconstruction.

Barnett, who cannot succeed himself, drew worldwide attention in 1962 when he tried to prevent James H. Meredith, a Negro, from enrolling at the University of Mississippi.

Barnett says he'll return to his Jackson law practice. There are unconfimmed rumors he'll run against Sen. John G. Stennis, D-Miss., in the summer primaries.

McKeithen Says Rival Opposed State Aid Bills

THIBODEAUX (Special) — Gubernatorial candidate John McKeithen said here Saturday "my opponent since announcing for governor has pictured himself as the champion of the little man, our old folks and the underpriviledged."

McKeithen continued "the truth of the matter is, and the record will show, that when John McKeithen was leading the fight in the senate legislature for the hot lunch program, old age assistance, minimum pay scale for school teachers and improved vocational and technical training the opposition to the financial measure that would make each of these compassionate improvements possible was being led by my opponent, then mayor of New Orleans."

McKeithen said "my opponent either directly, or through some of his legislators, appeared before every legislative committee, any organization that would let him talk and in every newspaper that would interview him in opposition to the bills that would make this legislation possible."

McKeithen stated "I will of course as I always have fight with everything that is in me for our old folks and for those who are receiving welfare and who deserve it. I do not believe that the undeserving should receive welfare and it is on this point that I and my opponent apparently differ."

McKeithen concluded "as governor I will dedicate the next four years of my life to raising the living standards of every citizen in this state."

Former Local Resident Dies In Car Mishap

A former resident of Monroe, 35-year-old Barbara Ann Hulin, was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Baton Rouge around 8 a. m. Saturday morning.

According to reports her mother, Mrs. L. J. Hulin, is in serious condition at the Lady of the Lake Hospital in Baton Rouge. Details of the accident were not available.

At the time of her death, Miss Hulin resided with her parents at 145 College St., Shreveport. Her father, L. J. Hulin, was manager of the Virginia Hotel here for a number of years. She was a member of the First Christian Church here and was employed as a clerk at La-Sands Western Hills Hotel in Shreveport.

Funeral services will be under direction of Peters Funeral Home of Monroe.

Survivors other than her parents include one sister, Mrs. Howard J. Smith, of France; one brother, Jarrell Hulin, of Whittier, Calif.; and one aunt, Mrs. J. D. Reeves, of Monroe.

Morrison Says State Can Gain In Latin Trade

CROWLEY, (Special) — Gubernatorial candidate deLesseps Morrison said Saturday he forsees a glowing economic future for Louisiana under "the right kind of leadership."

Continuing a campaign swing through south Louisiana, Morrison told supporters here Louisiana can be the focal point for tremendous amounts of new trade between this country and Latin America.

He said Rice-rich Acadia and surrounding parishes could, with a proper program, share in greatly increased trade with Latin American nations participating in the 10-year, multi-billion dollar Alliance for Progress program.

Morrison noted that the U.S. is supplying great quantities of food to Latin American under the pact to help develop economic and social conditions in member nations of the alliance.

"With the right promotion and advertising, I foresee rice and other goods pouring through our ports to Latin Ameica," Morrison said. He added that his experience in Latin America could give Louisiana "a running start over state in the gulf south for this business."

Morrison also renewed his pledge to work to see that U.S. Hwy. 90, a major east-west traffic artery, is made four- lane along its entire length during his administration.

"I haven't gone about making lots of rash promises, as some candidates have," Morrison added. "I make only those I can and plan to keep."

GOLDWATER BLAST

Rockefeller Rejects Charge Of 'Me Too'

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller rejected Saturday charges by Sen. Barry Goldwater and others that he offers Republicans a "me too" program taken from the Democrats.

"That label doesn't apply to me," the New York governor told a news conference ending a 20 - hour campaign swing in search of support in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire presidential preference primary March 10.

"In matters of human concern I am a liberal, and in economic and financial concerns I am a conservative," Rockefeller said.

On the West Coast, Goldwater was charging that Rockefeller was more of a Democrat than a Republican.

Rockefeller continued to press Goldwater to join in a series of televised debates in the New Hampshire primary but the Arizonan again refused.

Goldwater and Rockefeller have declared formally their candidacies for the Republican nomination for president.

In his announcement Friday, Goldwater said Rockefeller would not offer the voters a clear-cut choice between Republican and Democratic philosophy.

Rockefeller addressed himself to that comment when he said that his views had been worked out from 32 years of public life and therefore could not have been pirated from the three-year-old New Frontier.

Goldwater amplified his comments on Rockefeller Saturday in Los Angeles as he said he saw no sense in the debates proposed by Rockefeller.

"Debating him would be more like debating a member of the New Frontier," Goldwater said.

Those comments arrived at Rockefeller headquarters here after the governor had departed for his home in Westchester County, New York. There was no immediate rebuttal.

On each of four public appearances during his New Hampshire visit Rockefeller called upon Goldwater to join in the debates as "part of the New Hampshire and New England tradition."

Rockefeller said he wanted to debate with Goldwater such views as U. S. withdrawal from the United Nations, cutting off all foreign aid, abolishing the graduated income tax and stopping farm subsidies.

Rockefeller has attributed these views to Goldwater but the Arizona senator and conservative leader has said they do not reflect his thinking.

The New York governor Saturday established Goldwater as his immediate target, stating that the first concern of Republicans should be "the choice within the party" at the convention next July.

Goldwater has emphasized the choice between the Democratic and Republican candidates next November.

Rockefeller passed up openings to make specific criticisms of Democratic President Lyndon Johnson. He said most of Johnson's progress "has been made in statements" and there were no concrete results to judge as yet.

Of the widely publicized economy drive Rockefeller said:

"He's taken some people out of cars and taken their chauffeurs away but it will take more than that to balance the budget and restore economy to government."

Three Negroes Are Booked For Simple Robbery

Three Negroes were arrested for simple robbery by Monroe police early Saturday, marking the second trio to be arrested on such charges within the past two days.

Asst. Chief Sidney Martin identified this group as Monroe Dixon, 37, Negro, of No. 4 Ross Alley; Will Carter, 29, No. 6 Ross Alley; and Tetha Ashley, 21, No. 6 Ross Alley. All three were booked for simple robbery and transferred to the parish jail.

They are charged with robbing another Negro, Hobart Croft, of 906 Columbia St., of approximately $35 at the Negro woman's residence. According to officers, the woman made a date with Croft in a local tavern late Friday night and upon arrival at her home, Dixon ande Carter broke the door open and took his money.

When they were apprehended, Carter denied taking but $9. However, he later told officers he ate an unknown amount of the money in an effort to keep police from finding the loot when he was searched.

The Monroe department was also investigating two burglaries and two thefts that were reported to them Saturday. Approximately $20 and an unknown quantity of cigarettes were taken in the burglary of Paschal's Cafe, 223 S. 8th St., Monroe, sometime Friday night or early Saturday.

Will Paschal, owner and operator of the business, told officers the padlock was taken from the front door, and both the cigarette machine and the jukebox hit.

The candy machines were radied in a burglary at Carroll Junior High School, located off Renwick Street. John Bradley, janitor of the school, discovered the breakin when he came to work early Saturday morning. The building had been entered through a window on the north side and around $2.65 in change and about 12 bars of candy taken from a machine on that wing. The party or parties then went through a window on the northeast side of the building and took about $1.65 more in change and 20 bars of candy.

Meanwhile, the theft of around $15 from the cash register of the Sav-A-Lot Service Station, located on DeSiard Street, was also being probed. Levi Porter, an employee of the station, told officers the money was taken while he was out of the office.

The theft of two guns, a .16 gauge, double-barrel shotgun and a .22-caliber lever action rifle, was also being checked. The incident was reported by B. E. Gambrill, 513 McGuire St., who told officers the two firearms were taken from a rack in his truck while it was parked at the rear of his home Friday night.

West Monroe police were investigating the burglary of Bayles Fish Market, on S. Riverfront Street, Saturday. Albert Bayles, owner of the business, said the party or parties entered through the south side of the building and took approximately $3 and two dressed fish, weighing about 25 pounds each.

Late Saturday afternoon, Monroe police booked a Rayville man, James C. Hammett, 34, of 1219 Julia St., for theft by check. He was apprehended on a warrant charging him with theft by check in the amount of $5.40 at Gibson's Wholesale.

The Monroe department also logged counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and no driver's license against Negro Matthew Warren, 33, 2209 Outlet Rd. He was taken into custody at 5:45 p.m. on the count at the intersection of Swayze and Renwick Street. Bond was set at $500.

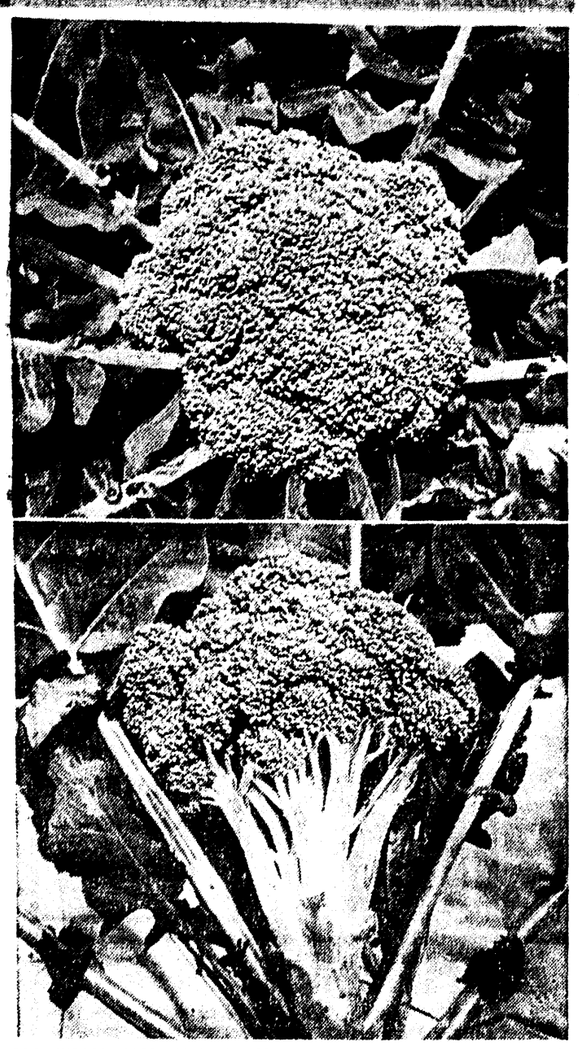
Home And Garden



IN THE VEGETABLE division of the 1964 All-America Selections are (at top) true hybrid broccoli, Cleopatra, for spring and fall plantings, hardy and early; (at bottom) open pollinated broccoli, Zenith, for home, market and freezing.

All-America Selections Announced

Four new flowers and two new vegetables won top awards. They are the new All-America Selections for 1964 introduction.

Two zinnias, a salvia and a cockscomb are the best of their kinds, classes and colors to date. Two broccoli, the first F1 hybrid, Cleopatra, and the open pollinated Zenith, bring new perfection to this important vegetable.

For 31 years of All-America competition, there had never been a broccoli of sufficient superiority to merit award recommendation. Now there are two for 1964 introduction.

Zinnia; Bonanza, of golden tangerine colorings, is of largest cactus-flowered size to 6 inches across and 2 inches deep, freely borne on strong cutting stems. Vigorous bushy plants reach about 2½ feet and continue to bloom over a long season. Firecracker, 1963 silver medal winner, is of this same type and the largest, richest red. Bonanza, also a true hybrid and silver medalist, is its exciting companion in luminous to flaming gold or tangerine coloring. They are considered the finest and most desirable large flowered zinnias for garden or cutting.

IMPROVEMENTS

Zinnia, Pink Buttons, is a honey. Growing about a foot tall, with many small double flowers of light salmony rose-pink on slender cutting stems, this uniform new type is quite an improvement over the Tom Thumb zinnias. The dainty flowers are 1½ inches across, continuous bearing and delightful color for garden and for cutting.

The dwarfest of zinnias, Thumbelina, 1963, was winner of the only gold medal award since 1950. There was such a demand for it last spring that seed was exhausted early. Much more seed is available this season, but we suggest early orders from your favorite seedsmen. In mixed colors, this little everbloomer of only 6 to 8 inch height, is unique for edging, beds and pots. Zinnias, most popular of annual flowers, are also easiest to grow and bloom better when grown direct from seeds.

COMBINATION

Plant Thumbelina in front of a border, Pink Buttons behind it and then the taller Bonanza and Firecracker for the most colorful zinnia border all summer.

Celosia, Fireglow, brings us a new color, the first cardinal red in this garden favorite. Huge central heads of velvety cockscomb, cristata type celosia, measure 6 inches and more across and almost as deep. Smaller combs on side branches develop later but the big show is in the central head, nested in luxurious foliage. If you can imagine a head of broccoli or cauliflower of richest velvety cardinal red, you will have some idea of the size and looks of 'Fireglow', but in a much more beautiful foliage setting. It grows about 1½ feet tall, uniformly vigorous and the richest red you ever saw.

An attention getter in the garden, it is the basal flower for arrangements, fresh or dried, may be pulled or cut apart for corsages, the greatest cockscomb of all times.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Many Things To Be Done

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Now that our new year has been ushered in — quietly and beautifully, there are so many things that we could get started with — in the gardening world. We hardly know where to start, but we should start with a good sound plan, if possible.

Perhaps landscaping our yard is the most important task at hand right now. You have bought a new home and have a yard empty of trees, shrubs and certainly flower beds. You wish to know how to start. You must first look at the three important areas of the property—the public area, the service area, and the private area of the home.

This is our American style for maximum efficiency, privacy, and beauty. The public area is that part that is viewed by the general public — the front of the home facing the main street. We sometimes call it the front yard. We are obligated to keep this area neat and trim because it adds to the community as a whole. It is very important to follow certain rules concerning this area of our home surroundings.

SERVICE AREA

The service area of our property is that part that is set aside for home activities, such as the garage, driveway, clothesline, garbage cans or incinerator, compost pile, cut-flower gardens, vegetable garden and children's play area.

So often this area of the property is neglected in the planning and the home gardener is prone to spend more time and money and effort on the other areas because of the fact that few outside the family will see this part of the home property. This area deserves just the same amount of planning as the other two. It is important to the efficient functioning of the home.

The private area, the third and most important to the enjoyment of the family and friends, is that area that is devoted primarily to relaxation, beauty and quiet meditation. It is looked out at through windows or doorways of the home, or actually while in the garden.

These three important areas can be definitely divided on the property, and, exactly how large each will be, or where it will be located depends on two things. First is the mode of living and family's habits; the second is the nature and extent of your land and what is already planted and growing successfully on it. At this point you are ready to begin the most interesting step in making your landscape plans — dividing your property into the three areas and planning the plants, walks, driveways, hedges, fences, gates, trees and garden furniture, etc. Combining the many plant forms, textures and colors to give a pleasing result is called landscape composition. The "trick" to doing this successfully is to make a landscape plan for the entire property right at the beginning so that you may visualize the completed picture as a unit.

ESSENTIALS

In this unit, there should be repetition, sequence, and balance. The larger the land area and more plant materials you have to work with, the easier it is to work them into the picture. If you are depending on a landscape designer or architect to do your job you will expect him to incorporate these elements of composition into your landscape. Any part of the garden shall be a definite and integral part of the whole. One of the best ways to start your over-all plan is to write down facts and figures concerning yourself, your family, the size of your house, its exposure, etc.

Make a check list of the following things regarding your land: Topography (land form) — whether hilly or flat, native plants available; exposure — example: south (front of house faces south); location — example: north Louisiana; design of garden — formal or informal; garage — single or attached; soil — example: sandy loam, well drained; neighboring properties — example: houses on both sides; age of owners: — as early 30's; family — how many — whether or not there are children — ages, etc., habits — as to liking to relax in and enjoy the garden, entertains frequently, likes or dislikes gardening; size of property — as 75x125 feet; budget — as an expenditure of $50 a year for a 6-year period. Never fail to consider the future as well as the present requirements when making this check list. If you do this your garden will mature to fit all your needs with a minimum of time, effort and money. Now that this list will give you the relative sizes of the three areas of importance you are ready to begin developing these areas.

Just one more detail about the public area — three fundamental principles to keep in mind concerning this part of the property are: consider the architectural lines of the house — by placing plants where the strong vertical lines meet the ground; frame the house with trees (this places your home as the focal point in the picture); lastly, maintain an open lawn area (broken only by such necessary utilities as drivewalks and walks, and the trees necessary to frame the house.

OFTEN CLUTTERED

So often the lawn is cluttered with bird baths, sun dials, flower beds, unnecessary lattices with vines growing on them, specimen shrubs or perennial flowers, set here and there, and even unneeded fences and hedges. All of these items might be perfectly all right in their proper place, but they do not belong on the front lawn or public area. Remember that this area should be so designed, planted and cared for that it will present a pleasing picture—neat, simple, and restful with nothing to detract the importance of the home as the focal point.

Ideally, this area is kept open — not enclosed with hedges or wall — especially if it is located on a street where each home follows another without any such barriers along their side or front property lines. On the other hand, if you live in a location where there are undesirable views in front or to the side of you, it might be quite sensible to provide some sort of enclosure around the entire public area of your property. Then sometimes a barrier is necessary to keep out animals or people from trespassing. Low hedges will often serve (not low fences) this purpose.

Your other area can be worked out to suit your family's needs and personal likes and dislikes. This is where you will enjoy inserting your own personal ideas for family enjoyment. Most of these hints I have given you in today's article I have found through research — mainly from one of the best landscape books available to garden clubbers. "Complete Home Landscaping and Garden Guide," by Raymond P. Korbobo. This is a required reading book for those taking the Flower Show School Courses through LGCF. I have found it to be very helpful and easy to read and understand.

BOOKS HELPFUL

Of course this is one of many good landscape books available at the Fifth District Garden Center. I certainly can't stress enough the help that can be obtained from these good books by experts — or good architectural advice if you are attempting the all important task of landscaping your property. You will save time and money if you will take the time out to consult or read from books the advice of these experts. Certainly family happiness and property value enhancement will be the result of careful planning. Good luck and Happy New Year to Come.

Our Fifth District Director of LGCF, Mrs. Jettie Barnum makes a request to all garden clubbers of the district: Any Garden Club member who would like to submit black and white photo prints of favorite flower arrangement designs for the Louisiana Calendar Book, please mail them to: Mrs. Jettie Barnum, Fifth District Director, Box 52, Jonesboro, La. 71251. Details for these entries can be found in the October issue of the Newsletter. Be sure to do this soon. March 1 is the deadline.

The Fifth District judges of LGCG have just received an invitation to a reception honoring Mrs. J. Gordon Gose, president of National Council of State Garden Clubs, Bentley Room, Hotel Bentley, Alexandria, Sunday, January 19, 2-4 p.m., by Mrs. Drew La Croix.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Plant Needs Discussed

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Newly planted trees and shrubs often suffer for lack of water because gardeners do not realize that watering is necessary in winter.

Even heavy rains sometimes fail to take care of new plantings. Wind may dry out evergreens in a hurry if they are not getting enough ready moisture at their roots, and our winter sunshine can cook foliage.

Every new planting should be thoroughly watered without the use of the nozzle on the hose just as soon as the plants are in place and the soil lightly tamped about their roots.

ROOTS DESTROYED

In moving plants — even those with big balls of dirt — we destroy many fine feeder roots. It is important to get moisture flowing from root to tip just as soon as possible after they are set. Balls of dirt may dry out while the plants are in transit or in storage to such an extent that it will take a great deal of watering to restore the moisture in them, and this often requires several waterings before a normal amount of moisture is stored again in the soil.

PRESERVES FOLIAGE

As you go along with your watering without the hose you can occasionally stick your finger into the end of the hose and spray the tops of plants. Wetting the foliage will slow down the output of moisture and help to preserve the foliage on evergreens. Leaves take up some moisture, too, when the weather is warm. Wind is the worst enemy of newly transplanted trees and shrubs until moisture begins to flow from their roots in sufficient quantity to keep the foliage alive and green. Several sprayings a day will help to prevent the wind's burning foliage.

UNUSUAL

We Southerners are not accustomed to seeing the ground frozen as it has been during the past few winters. Usually, it freezes a few inches on top of the soil around newly transplanted shrubs. When this happens before you have thoroughly watered your planting, you will just have to water right into the middle of the balls of dirt that have just been set.

It takes a while for water to melt the ice, but it will eventually break through and go down. If there is wind, spray your plants; a coating of ice will keep moisture in the foliage.

Be sure to brace newly set trees in January and February. Not much root growth takes place at this time to fix the position of trees. Wind is apt to rock them about. If you watch the swaying of established trees, you will see that they take a lot of buffeting on every windy day.

Planting Camellias

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

This is an excellent time to plant camellias. You will find quite a number of them in bloom this month and next, so you will be able to select the ones you like best. Camellias do better planted in the shade.

Be sure in planting camellias that you dig the hole big and deep enough. The hole should be ample to take care of root development for many years. The plants should be an inch or two higher than they were set before.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, are planning to add crape myrtles to you landscape plans, look for some of the newer ones, especially if you like pink. There are three: Far East, Pink Lace and Pink Pearl. Ask your nurseryman to get them for you.

CLOTHING FOR 64

The year 1964 is shaping up as a good one for you, Mrs. Consumer. Keen competition among fibers, improvements in established products, and availability of new products contribute to a favorable outlook.

Other trends are nonwoven fabrics, combining materials and production techniques used by the textile and paper industries, are now offered for disposable bed sheets and pillowcases for hospitals. The costs of these disposable items are said to be less than the price of laundering those made of cotton. Eventually these products will reach the consumer market.

Improvements are underway for woolen apparel and household textiles, wool sweaters and blankets that can be washed by machine are appearing on the market, along with permanently pleated wool skirts and permanently creased slacks and trousers.

Further improvements in cotton garments are in sight. A USDA developed treatment imparts wash wear properties to cotton and permanently attaches dyes, starch and other finishing materials. This single treatment may prove capable of attaching other chemicals to cotton, including those that give resistance to fire, rot and mildew and some repellency to water and oil.

DID YOU KNOW?

According to the U.S Department of Agriculture the average person in India food a day. An American eats $1.07 worth.

The definitions and standards of identity for certain foods have been set by law under the Federal Food Drug, and Cosmetic Act. To bear the name of standarized food without listing basic ingredients, a product must contain only the ingredients set forth in the standard, and in exactly the specified amount, shape and form.

Soya protein has almost the same quality as the protein in meat, eggs, milk and cheese, according to our U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Homemaker, I wonder sometimes if our homemaker of today realizes how fortunate she is when shopping for food. The Horn of Plenty of our forefathers' day held scant rations compared with today's food stores.

CHECKED ABUNDANCE

The U.S. Department of Agriculture statisticians went out and checked on the abundance available in a typical American community. They found that the homemaker had her choice of 85 different kinds and cuts of meat in a single store. That's only counting beef, pork, lamb, veal and poultry. She could have upped the count considerably by including cold cuts and seafood on her list.

For vegetables, green beans, as an example. The shopper had her choice of cut beans and beans sliced French style, fancy long beans in vertical packs and whole beans. There were green beans with and without seasoning, and green beans fresh and frozen. The big food stores offered well over 70 different varieties of canned vegetables. One supermarket in the survey offered 262 different combinations of can sizes, brands and varieties of vegetables alone.

Several sprayings a day will help to prevent the wind's burning foliage.

UNUSUAL

We Southerners are not accustomed to seeing the ground frozen as it has been during the past few winters. Usually, it freezes a few inches on top of the soil around newly transplanted shrubs. When this happens before you have thoroughly watered your planting, you will just have to water right into the middle of the balls of dirt that have just been set.

It takes a while for water to melt the ice, but it will eventually break through and go down. If there is wind, spray your plants; a coating of ice will keep moisture in the foliage.

Be sure to brace newly set trees in January and February. Not much root growth takes place at this time to fix the position of trees. Wind is apt to rock them about. If you watch the swaying of established trees, you will see that they take a lot of buffeting on every windy day.

Planting Camellias

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

This is an excellent time to plant camellias. You will find quite a number of them in bloom this month and next, so you will be able to select the ones you like best. Camellias do better planted in the shade.

Be sure in planting camellias that you dig the hole big and deep enough. The hole should be ample to take care of root development for many years. The plants should be an inch or two higher than they were set before.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, are planning to add crape myrtles to you landscape plans, look for some of the newer ones, especially if you like pink. There are three: Far East, Pink Lace and Pink Pearl. Ask your nurseryman to get them for you.

CLOTHING FOR 64

The year 1964 is shaping up as a good one for you, Mrs. Consumer. Keen competition among fibers, improvements in established products, and availability of new products contribute to a favorable outlook.

Other trends are nonwoven fabrics, combining materials and production techniques used by the textile and paper industries, are now offered for disposable bed sheets and pillowcases for hospitals. The costs of these disposable items are said to be less than the price of laundering those made of cotton. Eventually these products will reach the consumer market.

Improvements are underway for woolen apparel and household textiles, wool sweaters and blankets that can be washed by machine are appearing on the market, along with permanently pleated wool skirts and permanently creased slacks and trousers.

Further improvements in cotton garments are in sight. A USDA developed treatment imparts wash wear properties to cotton and permanently attaches dyes, starch and other finishing materials. This single treatment may prove capable of attaching other chemicals to cotton, including those that give resistance to fire, rot and mildew and some repellency to water and oil.

DID YOU KNOW?

According to the U.S Department of Agriculture the average person in India food a day. An American eats $1.07 worth.

The definitions and standards of identity for certain foods have been set by law under the Federal Food Drug, and Cosmetic Act. To bear the name of standarized food without listing basic ingredients, a product must contain only the ingredients set forth in the standard, and in exactly the specified amount, shape and form.

Soya protein has almost the same quality as the protein in meat, eggs, milk and cheese, according to our U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Homemaker, I wonder sometimes if our homemaker of today realizes how fortunate she is when shopping for food. The Horn of Plenty of our forefathers' day held scant rations compared with today's food stores.

CHECKED ABUNDANCE

The U.S. Department of Agriculture statisticians went out and checked on the abundance available in a typical American community. They found that the homemaker had her choice of 85 different kinds and cuts of meat in a single store. That's only counting beef, pork, lamb, veal and poultry. She could have upped the count considerably by including cold cuts and seafood on her list.

For vegetables, green beans, as an example. The shopper had her choice of cut beans and beans sliced French style, fancy long beans in vertical packs and whole beans. There were green beans with and without seasoning, and green beans fresh and frozen. The big food stores offered well over 70 different varieties of canned vegetables. One supermarket in the survey offered 262 different combinations of can sizes, brands and varieties of vegetables alone.

CURTAIN CALL

The last two auditions for "Once Upon A Mattress" will be held at Strauss Playhouse this afternoon at 2:30 and this evening at 7:30. By coming to one or both of these sessions, you may still be considered for a part in this gay musical.

The first tryout last Thursday drew an attendance of about 80 of whom about 40 were auditioned and the rest were spectators. After executive director Richard Clark outlined the plot and the characters, he heard readings for the principal parts. Then choreographer Bob Beard ran the dance hopefuls through a series of simple steps. Finally, with Velma Willey at the piano, the singers were heard until time ran out.

SELECTION PROCESS

Through this process.the cast of "Once Upon A Mattress" will finally be selected. If past experience is any guide, it will include both old faces and new, representing the best talent available for this production.

As always, the musical requires as many workers backstage as on stage. If you would like the fun of participating in a show without the responsibility of a cast member, now is the time to indicate your interest in set construction, props, costumes, sound, lights or stage crew.

The final performance of "The Sandalwood Box" was attended by about 50 youngsters from the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home. They not only had a fine time at the play, but were models of good deportment as well.

FAMILY AFFAIR

"The Sandalwood Box" was quite a family affair for the D. R. Perrys. Mrs. Perry helped with costumes, her husband worked sound, and the three boys were in the cast. Of course, all three had to have Green Room tiles, so Mr. Perry was nicked for a triple contribution. Other new tiles are for Mary Ann Atkinson, Bruce Harrison and Rick Taylor for "The Sandalwood Box," with Mary Ann the recipient of another for her part in "The Miracle Worker."

Audrey Neal also took a tile for her role in "Ladies of The Jury," bringing to 92 the number of productions represented on the Green Room wall. We hope to have all the new tiles lettered soon.

Those observed in attendance at the initial try-out for "Once Upon A Mattress" last Thursday included Jolene and Ed Anders, Ethel Boardman, Bill Blythe, Carol and Mary Britton, Sue Brooks, Murray Burfford, Pat Clark, Mary Lou Clay, Charles Cook, V. P. Dalrymple, Judy, Jan and Bob Evans.

Also, Pat and Lonny Fraze, Mrs. Kenneth Garrison, Kenneth Garrison Jr., Jerilyn Gilstrap, Shelley Goodwin, Sharon and Arthur Griffith, Henry Haas Jr., W. J. Haddad, Linda Haley, George Hargus, Kay Harris, Linda Hasenplaugh, Jon Hattaway, Rande Herrell, Bob Jones, Kathy Lawn, Joanne Lay, Leonard Lemle, Hugh Matthews, Mrs. B. F. Maxwell, Martha Maxwell.

In case any of our readers are redecorating for the New Year, please bear in mind that discarded draperies may contain material that would be very useful for Little Theatre purposes. In fact, before throwing away any household furnishings, please stop to think if they might have value to our costume or prop departments.

ACTORS OUTNUMBERED

NEW YORK (AP) — There are more sponsors than performers in "Any Wednesday," comedy due on Broadway in February.

The Muriel Rensik play has roles for four actors, is being presented by five producers.

Stamp News

The U.S. Post Office Department has announced three noteworthy philatelic events of interest to collectors. The first concerns the issuance next year of a postal card honoring the historic role of the U.S. Bureau of Customs Service; the second reports that nine artists who were finalists in last year's Battle of Gettysburg stamp design have accepted invitations to submit artwork for the 1964 Battle of the Wilderness commemorative; the third notifies that first day issuance of the Sam Houston commemorative is scheduled for Jan. 10 in Houston, Tex.

The United Arab Republic has issued a new set of stamps honoring the 15th anniversary of the "Declaration of Human Rights." There are five stamps in the set, each of the same design but with different denominations. Also issued by the U.A.R. was a 10 mills stamp commemorating the Afro - Asian Housing Congress with its theme of "Human Progress Through Better Housing."

As previously forecast in this column, the new United States "Liberty" album by H. E. Harris has arrived on the philatelic scene. The unique album which is 100 per cent illustrated has pages which are printed on one side only. The U.S. postage section is virtually complete, including special delivery, postage dues, air mails. There are also illustrated sections for U.S. possessions and United Nations. The loose-leaf, vinyl-covered binder is sturdily constructed and the entire album is the personal work of many years by publisher H. E. Harris. The cost is $4.50. Collectors desiring the Liberty album may obtain it directly postage-free from the H. E. Harris Co., Box A, Boston 17, Mass.

West Germany has issued the last stamps of the 1963 "Old Berlin" series, reports the World-Wide Philatelic Agency. The series was begun in 1962 when six stamps were issued. Six more have been put forth this year to complete the series. The new stamp is a 90 pfennig brown and gray featuring the Berlin Opera House as it appeared in 1780.

The Philippines has issued two new stamps commemorating the first Asia Oceanic Postal Union. The stamps show a world globe highlighting the Philippine Islands. It is encircled by stamped envelopes and the flags of the four countries within this union. The present member countries are: Tailand, Republic of Korea, Republic of China and the Philippines.

A report from Hungary advises that a set of four semipostal stamps has been issued to honor the 36th Hungarian Stamp Day. The additional values on the stamps will go to the National Federation of the Hungarian Philatelists. The stamps show various flowers.

Austria has issued two commemoratives. A 1.50 schilling stamp honors the Fifth Congress of the Federation of Austrian Trade Unions. The other stamp, also a 1.50 schilling, the 600th anniversary of the Tyrol's accession to Austria.

Turkey has issued two new values for its Agricultural Census. The 40 plus 5 Kurus depicts a graph and an ear of corn. The 60 plus 5 Kurus shows a large graph indicating the increasing importance of agriculture in Turkey.

The Spanish colonies in Africa have issued new stamps featuring local scenes. The stamps from Ifni show various butterflies. A set from Fernando Poo depicts two nuns. The Rio Muni stamps show a man and an uplifted hand. Spanish Sahara portrays men and camels.

WINTER'S BEAUTY outdoors offers such tempting targets as this snowscape to camera fans. It takes a little more effort, a little more zeal, but the pictorial results are worth it.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When winter arrives with its snow and cold, many a photographer treats his camera as though it were a bear . . . something to go into hibernation.

Every season has its beauty, in Mother Nature and in people's activities and winter is no exception. Good winter pictures are not hard to find or to take. In fact, after a snowfall even the most prosaic and familiar objects around us look different and beautiful under a mantle of snow. You have but to step outside or open a window to find a picture world waiting to be snapped. Possibly the hardest thing to overcome is the feeling that it's too much trouble to get the camera, load up and to get started on shooting.

CARRY CAMERA

To begin, carry a camera in a small gadget bag when you go outdoors just as you did in warm weather. When you have a camera handy, the initial inertia is overcome and half the battle is won. The gadget bag offers protection to the camera yet permits gradual acclimatization to the prevailing temperature. A sudden change from warmth to very cold air could cause condensation on the lens with a loss in image quality. A sunshade is also a help in protecting the lens, from snow flares and from flurries of falling snow.

Side lighting and back lighting add dramatic interest in shooting snow-covered landscapes and help bring out the sparkle of snow texture. Snow reflects light in all directions and when it is the dominant feature, it is classed as a "light subject" and the exposure is rated accordingly — either by a faster shutter speed or a one-stop smaller lens opening.

However if people or objects in the scene are more important as the center of picture interest, then the exposure is for average subject matter or a normal exposure.

WINTER ACTION

To stop winter action of skiers, sledders or skaters, stand so that the action comes towards the camera either head-on or at about a 45-degree angle. A shutter speed of 1-100th of a second should be sufficient. Focus on a predetermined spot about 15 or 20 feet away and keep the camera steady when you squeeze the button the instant your subject reaches the spot.

2 Gunmen Beat, Rob Actress Of Diamond Ring

The youngest of the famed Hungarian - born Gabor sisters was hospitalized with a cerebral concussion and multiple bruises on the arms, face and neck.

She and her husband, Richard Brown, 41, were left bound with venetian blind cord and gagged with his socks.

Police said Brown told them the robbers were waiting in the couple's Racquet Club apartment when they returned about midnight.

WINTER'S BEAUTY outdoors offers such tempting targets as this snowscape to camera fans. It takes a little more effort, a little more zeal, but the pictorial results are worth it.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When winter arrives with its snow and cold, many a photographer treats his camera as though it were a bear . . . something to go into hibernation.

Every season has its beauty, in Mother Nature and in people's activities and winter is no exception. Good winter pictures are not hard to find or to take. In fact, after a snowfall even the most prosaic and familiar objects around us look different and beautiful under a mantle of snow. You have but to step outside or open a window to find a picture world waiting to be snapped. Possibly the hardest thing to overcome is the feeling that it's too much trouble to get the camera, load up and to get started on shooting.

CARRY CAMERA

To begin, carry a camera in a small gadget bag when you go outdoors just as you did in warm weather. When you have a camera handy, the initial inertia is overcome and half the battle is won. The gadget bag offers protection to the camera yet permits gradual acclimatization to the prevailing temperature. A sudden change from warmth to very cold air could cause condensation on the lens with a loss in image quality. A sunshade is also a help in protecting the lens, from snow flares and from flurries of falling snow.

Side lighting and back lighting add dramatic interest in shooting snow-covered landscapes and help bring out the sparkle of snow texture. Snow reflects light in all directions and when it is the dominant feature, it is classed as a "light subject" and the exposure is rated accordingly — either by a faster shutter speed or a one-stop smaller lens opening.

However if people or objects in the scene are more important as the center of picture interest, then the exposure is for average subject matter or a normal exposure.

WINTER ACTION

To stop winter action of skiers, sledders or skaters, stand so that the action comes towards the camera either head-on or at about a 45-degree angle. A shutter speed of 1-100th of a second should be sufficient. Focus on a predetermined spot about 15 or 20 feet away and keep the camera steady when you squeeze the button the instant your subject reaches the spot.

2 Gunmen Beat, Rob Actress Of Diamond Ring

The youngest of the famed Hungarian - born Gabor sisters was hospitalized with a cerebral concussion and multiple bruises on the arms, face and neck.

She and her husband, Richard Brown, 41, were left bound with venetian blind cord and gagged with his socks.

Police said Brown told them the robbers were waiting in the couple's Racquet Club apartment when they returned about midnight.

Shakespeare And Events Of His Era

Some of the upper echelon literary scholars are going to have fits when they read this book.

Rowse is an Oxford fellow, credited with being the leading historian of the Elizabethan period. Now he has elbowed his way into the jealously guarded precincts of the literary professors. He has the temerity to straighten out their problems for them, and even chides them occasionally for obfuscating matters which he considers simple.

All of the Bard's biographers have had to reconstruct his life from indirect materials, particularly the internal evidence of the plays and poems. Rowse believes the literary scholars have paid too little attention to current events of the era, especially in politics.

He says "scholars have put more energy and scholarship into exploring his 'sources' in his reading, than to giving attention to the personal associations, the events going on around them, which provide so much stimulus to a writer," and that the Bard's imagination "operated in and responded to the environment of a real world; and here the historian has something to offer . . ."

Methodically Rowse analyzes al lthe Shakespeare works, stitching passage after passage into the context of current events, politics, court business, public commotions and even physical phenomena. Not that he ignores the strictly literary factors; but he gives historical and political elements a greater weight than do the literary professors.

Some biographies of great figures are so simplified and popularized that even children "can race through them; at the other extreme are the plodding, dusty, academic tomes that even the professionals go to sleep over. Rowse's book is no easy, slapdash story; it is for readers seriously interested in the subject. But fortunately it is pleasantly readable and escapes the academic curse.

The author created a prepublication hoo-haw when he declared he had solved all the problems of the sonnets (except the identity of the Dark Lady) and unequivocally identified Shakespeare's patron as the Earl of Southampton. That is the choice of some biographers, including Peter Quennell, whose biography was published recently by World. But Cambridge University Press has just brought out a book by scholar J. Dover Wilson, who votes for the Earl of Pembroke. His pointed title is "Shakespeare's Sonnets: An Introduction for Historians and Others."

Etching In Acid

THE WAPSHOT SCANDAL. By John Cheever. Harper. $4.95.

The author of "The Wapshot Chronicle" has done this second book about the Wapshot family with a typewriter ribbon dipped in black acid.

His principal characters are nutty old Honora, who gets herself into a well deserved mess with the Internal Revenue Service; her two nephews, Coverly and Moses; their families, and Coverly's boss, a scientist of monstrously blind principles.

Crusty Honora takes to the high seas to escape her rightful doom, and capers off to a foolish end.

Moses' wife Melissa lets the approach of unwanted middle age drive her to a lustful, degrading alliance with a crude grocery boy named Emile, this wrecking another of those marriages in the togetherness-suburbs.

As for bumbling Coverly, he and his maladjusted spouse live in a secret city surrounding a nuclear installation, which is a burlesque of a modern leper colony.

The administrator of the doom factory in which Coverly pretends to work is a character known as Dr. Cameron. By the time you have reached the latter chapters of the bok, you are amazed at the grotesque, inhuman dimensions of this science-fiction villain.

There are incidents that have all the garish irrationality of a nightmare which follows the reading of a medieval book on alchemy. Yet the nightmare flickers through scenes that are thoroughly of the 20th Century.

Cheever has a powerful writing style. He uses it like a death ray gun against many of the social and intellectual absurdities of our day. If you have a streak of viciousness in your make-up, you probably will revel in his venomous portrayals.

But perhaps it might occur to some readers that unsubtlety palls, that unrelieved bitterness galls.

Foote's Civil War Book Is Said Brilliant

THE CIVIL WAR: A NARRATIVE, Fredericksburg to Meridian. By Shelby Foote. Random. $12.50.

Five years ago, Foote reported the beginnings of the Civil War in his "Fort Sumter to Perryville." In this second of a projected three-volume work, he magnificently advances the story through the early months of 1864.

The word "reported" is used advisedly; this is vivid, graphic reporting. Foote rarely imposes his judgment upon the narrative: he allows the eloquent facts to pronounce their own judgments of men and events. He is a Mississippian, but there is no discernbile partisanship in his reporting. His merciless arraying of facts falls with equal fervor upon Braxton Bragg and Fighting Joe Hooker.

What emerges is a powerful, moving pageant of a nation torn by civil conflict. It is treatment in depth — the Gettysburg campaign covers 150 pages. It is cool and objective, yet exciting and colorful; a brilliant achievement.

The period covered here spans the high tide of battles —Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Vicksburg, Gettysburg, Chickamauga. If there are no new illuminations of the chief actors, there are sharp delineations of their words and thoughts and actions to provide bold understanding. The reader inevitably will contrast the masterly campaign against Vicksburg with the blunders and fumbles of Gettysburg; he will perceive easily U.S. Grant's rising star, and sense the constriction of Robert E. Lee's talents by dwindling Confederate resources. And he will gain new insight into the ferocity of the fighting.

We now have three multi-volume histories of the Civil War in process of publication. It is a testimonial to the rich historical talents in action that each of the three performs a distinct public function. Bruce Catton's centennial history might be termed a "popular" work, for it undoubtedly will have the widest appeal, from Catton's fluency of language, perceptive analyses and incisive treatment. The massive 10-volume study by Allan Nevins, embracing the prewar and Reconstruction periods, must be regarded as well-nigh definitive in scope and thoroughness. But even in such distinguished company, Foote's work stands erect on its own merits as a masterful work, splendidly conceived and splendidly written.

Dear Mr. Hallack:

Mr. deLesseps S. Morrison, one of the candidates for Governor of the State of Louisiana, has been circularizing the assessors throughout the State of Louisiana and assuring them that he believes in the principle of "Home Rule".

I have been one of the Assessors for the Parish of Orleans for many years and prior to that time I was Chief Clerk for my predecessor. During the entire time that he was Mayor of the City of New Orleans he carried on a continued and persistent campaign in his attempt to force the Assessors for the Parish of Orleans to increase assessments so that he could increase the amount of his bond issues.

Therefore, based on my personal experience with this candidate it is my honest opinion that any pre-election campaign promises he may make in connection with the foregoing would not be fulfilled. Please do not permit yourself to be fooled in accepting as "Gospel truth" any pre-election campaign promises made by this candidate.

There is an old saying that "we can only judge the future by the past" and if this candidate runs true to form, his past practices are a good gauge by which you may judge his future actions.

Dear Mr. Hallack:

May I submit to you the following facts relative to the recent administration of former Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison:

The additional taxes, assessments and fees which were increased or added while he was Mayor of the City of New Orleans may be classified as follows:

1. He raised the water rate from 10¢ to 25¢ per 1000 gallons.
2. He raised the brake tags from 50¢ to $1.00.
3. He raised the real estate tax research certificates from $1.00 to $2.00.
4. He raised traffic fines over 100%.
5. He more than doubled the fees for building permits.
6. He had passed an occupational tax on the business people of the City of New Orleans.
7. He had bond issue after bond issue passed and raised the debt to $100 million.
8. He resigned before his term expired as Mayor of the City of New Orleans, leaving the finances of the City in a mess and the City in the red.
9. When he first became Mayor of the City of New Orleans the real estate taxes were $25.28 per $1000 assessment and when he resigned, it was $31.78 per $1000 assessment, making an increase of $6.50 per $1000 assessment during his term as Mayor of the City of New Orleans.

"You have SECURITY with MODENBACH"

It is my opinion that during the time he served as Mayor of the City of New Orleans he constantly and persistently harassed the Assessors to raise assessments and that he attempted to abolish the office of Assessor and create a Board to assess property at its actual or cash value.

Therefore, it would appear to me that the foregoing would clearly prove to the best interest of the business people and the home owners to elect John J. McKeithen as Governor of the State of Louisiana.

Anything that you may be able to do to advance the candidacy of John J. McKeithen for Governor of the State of Louisiana will be greatly appreciated by me.

With very best wishes to you and yours for a Merry Christmas and a Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year, I remain

Very sincerely,

Jos. C. Modenbach

JOS. C. MODENBACH,

THIS IS NOT AN ORDINARY ELECTION ...THIS IS A CRISIS! BE SURE YOU VOTE...BE SURE YOUR FAMILY VOTES ...BE SURE YOUR FRIENDS VOTE!!

After weighing the issues and the principles involved in the present governor's campaign, I am endorsing John McKeithen because I want the State and all of its people to be governed from within and not from without. The principles for which he stands are those I have lived throughout all of my life.

It is known to all Richland Parish people that my policy as assessor has been to keep our assessments as low as was consistent with the well-being of our Police Jury and School Board and I have the assurance that Mr. McKeithen will not push for increased assessments and higher taxes. He does not say he expects to make a Utopia of Louisiana, but he will make a governor we can be justly proud of.

Page Two

It is my opinion that during the time he served as Mayor of the City of New Orleans he constantly and persistently harassed the Assessors to raise assessments and that he attempted to abolish the office of Assessor and create a Board to assess property at its actual or cash value.

Therefore, it would appear to me that the foregoing would clearly prove to the best interest of the business people and the home owners to elect John J. McKeithen as Governor of the State of Louisiana.

Anything that you may be able to do to advance the candidacy of John J. McKeithen for Governor of the State of Louisiana will be greatly appreciated by me.

With very best wishes to you and yours for a Merry Christmas and a Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year, I remain

Very sincerely,
Jos. C. Modenbach
JOS. C. MODENBACH,
Assessor, 5th M. D.

THIS IS NOT AN ORDINARY ELECTION ...THIS IS A CRISIS! BE SURE YOU VOTE...BE SURE YOUR FAMILY VOTES ...BE SURE YOUR FRIENDS VOTE!!

After weighing the issues and the principles involved in the present governor's campaign, I am endorsing John McKeithen because I want the State and all of its people to be governed from within and not from without. The principles for which he stands are those I have lived throughout all of my life.

It is known to all Richland Parish people that my policy as assessor has been to keep our assessments as low as was consistent with the well-being of our Police Jury and School Board and I have the assurance that Mr. McKeithen will not push for increased assessments and higher taxes. He does not say he expects to make a Utopia of Louisiana, but he will make a governor we can be justly proud of.

Business Pins Growth Hopes On '64 Tax Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — As 1964 arrived, business pinned its hopes for accelerated growth on an early income tax cut.

Optimistic predictions about the outlook for the new year were qualified with a big "if"—if Congress acts quickly on tax legislation.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges forecast that the gross national product — total value of all goods and services —would exceed $620 billion in 1964 if the administration's $11.1-billion tax cut bill clears Congress soon. That would be an increase in the GNP of at least $36 billion over 1963.

Hodges said that without a tax reduction the economy would grow more slowly and "the prospects for continuous expansion though all of 1964 and 1965 would be seriously impaired."

Favorable factors, he said, were that business generally has avoided excess inventories that could later lead to reduction in production, Christmas shopping reached a record level, 1964 model automobiles have been favorably received and financial markets reflected apparently strong investor confidence.

The National Planning Association, a privately supported organization of persons prominent in business, labor an education, was a bit more conservative in its forecast, putting the expected gain in the gross national product at $26 billion, to a total of $610 billion.

It, too, based its prediction on the belief there will be a tax cut.

"Should that assumption be wrong," it said, "we would have to assume a substantially lower increase in the gross national product."

A leading banker, David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, largest in New York, described the business outlook for 1964 as excellent.

He said a major influence in the favorable business forecast will be the tax reduction bill which President Johnson has pledged to push.

Senate leaders have promised Johnson to work for early passage with a provision that the reduction would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported that a majority of its members believe business in the first half of this year will be better than in the like period of 1963. Fifty-eight per cent looked for gains, 11 per cent expected a decline and 31 per cent thought it would be about the same.

For 1964 as a whole, 69 per cent thought it would be about the same.

For 1964 as a whole, 69 per cent said they believed it would be better than 1963. Only 4 per cent forecast a decline.

The second holiday week in a row cut into automobile and steel production but both industries expected a resurgence when the new year really gets under way.

Automakers turned out an estimated 124,500 passenger cars this week, down from the 131,165 assembled last week but ahead of the 114,020 built a year ago.

The industry wound up 1963 with the greatest production of cars and trucks since 1955. The year's output was estimated at 9.1 million units, just under the record figure of 9,188,000 in 1955.

Some work disputes in General Motors and Ford plants caused stoppages that prevented production reaching a record level. Studebaker Corp.'s abandonment of U.S. production also cut into the total.

Steel output dropped last week because of the Christmas holiday, slipping to 1,804,000 tons, off 9.9 per cent from the previous week. Output was expected to be about the same during the New Year's week.

Industry executives expected shipments should increase about 15 per cent in January. Demand for light products was reported improving and orders for heavy products were holding up better than expected.

Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., reported that domestic steel consumption set a record of 77.4 million tons in 1963 but rising imports were a problem.

Cotton Futures Remain Narrow

A good deal of the limited volume consisted of switching. Spot houses showed a little interest on both sides of the market, while commission house interest was confined chiefly to the more distant months.

The continued lack of activity reflects uncertainty regarding pending cotton legislation. Reports that the U.S. Agriculture Department has adopted a plan for voluntary reductions by growers, with payments in kind for government stocks as inducement, were considered bullish by some in the trade.

But these reports didn't materially affect prices. The plan is to be submitted to the departments' cotton advisory committee Monday.

ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced to a new high this week, closing at 287.2 from 281.6 a week ago. The commodity index, led by food and livestock, registered its sixth straight weekly gain at 162.7 from 161.4 of the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Stocks Reach Record High In '64 Debut

NEW YORK (AP)—Strong reinvestment demand pushed the stock market to historic highs last week in its 1964 debut.

In the week just ended, cut to four days by the New Year holiday, three of the four sessions in the holiday week saw advancing prices. A slight loss was taken Monday.

Yearend tax-loss selling, profit taking and switching were so well taken care off that a clear-cut rally was mounted in the New Year's Eve session.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.73 to 76.68, topping the previous record of 767.21 made Dec. 18.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.6 to 287.2, exceeding the previous high of 286.8 made Dec.18.

Volume for the four days was 21,891,650 shares compared with 16,618,420 in the similar four-day preceding week.

The bond markets marked time in normal holiday season fashion. Price movements were at a minimum in both U.S. government and corporate bond lists. Activity remained light and there was no major new financing.

AFTER SNOWS IN AREA

Drilling Activity Back To Normal

Drilling and other activity in the Monroe Oil & Gas District sprang back to normal levels last week, after marked slowdowns owing to last month's snow, ice and sub-freezing temperatures.

Ten completions were reported over the 15-parish area by District Manager Duncan S. Cook, along with a total of 30 rigs actively drilling or testing.

An incomplete report on new locations listed eight new sites staked in six of the 15 parishes.

Breakdown on the completions, according to Cook's weekly report, showed five of them in Union Parish's bustling Monroe Gas Field, two in Concordia Parish and one each in Ouachita, Rapides and Tensas Parishes.

Of the active rigs, seven were in LaSalle, six in Concordia, three each in Ouachita (two drilling and one testing in the Monroe and Cheniere Fields), and Tensas, two each in Caldwell, Madison, and Rapides, and one each in Avoyelles, Catahoula, Grant, Morehouse and Union.

The new locations reported included two each in LaSalle and Union Parishes and one each in Tensas, Ouachita, Concordia and Rapides.

Thirteen wells were abandoned duringe the week, leaving the district's total on inactive sites at 76.

These data were included in the report on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations:

Two Wildcats Watched In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two important wildcat wells in Yazoo and Hancock counties are being closely watched for possible developments with no information being released by the operators.

American Petrofina Co. of Texas is reported to be near contract depth of 11,600 feet in its Yazoo County test, the Deason No. 1, sec. 25-12n-2e, about two miles west of the Pickens oil field. It is reported the venture has logged oil shows below 7,000 feet and that a drill stem test has been run in the Smackover lime zone below 11,300 feet.

Operators are releasing no information on the well and only authorized personnel is allowed on the location. The well is near an abandoned well that produced a small amount of oil from a sand at 7,728-37 feet before being abandoned as uncommercial. The Pickens field was discovered in the spring of 1940 and is productive from sands in the Tutaw formation at about 5,000 feet.

In Hancock County, Humble Oil and Refining Co. drilled below 15,750 feet in its deep wildcat, the Weston Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 6-9s-15w, three miles north of the Ansley field. The venture is scheduled to be drilled to 16,000 feet and had original contract depth of 14,500 feet. The decision to deepen was reached after electrical log had been run to contract depth. It is reported a number of drill stem tests have been run below 14,000 feet. Humble is drilling below 7,900 feet in its second Hancock County wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16w, located six miles south of the Weston well and less than three miles from the Mississippi Sound.

The confirmation well in the recently-found Bienville Forest field of Smith County is drilling below 9,600 feet. The test is the Austral Oil Company's No. 2, federal lease Sec. 14-4n-9e, an east offset to the discovery well. Production is from the Smackover lime formation at 14,141-151 feet.

Credo Oil Company's recent find in Amite County has been named the Pumpkin Patch Oil field and joins other colorful field names such as Possum Corner in Wilkinson County, Cowpen Point in Adams and Pistol Ridge in Forest County.

The official designation of the Amite County field brings the total discoveries in the state during the year to 18 new fields. Sixteen were oil fields and two gas fields.

California Co. has abandoned its Hinds County wildcat, the Hill No. 1, sec. 3-7n-3w, seven miles northwest of the Bolton field. The venture was drilled to 12,422 feet and several uncommercial oil shows.

Ill State Solon Slates Campaign In Hospital Bed

CROWLEY, La. (AP) — Veteran State Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley, seeking re-election in the Jan. 11 democratic primary, will conduct the remainder of his campaign from a hospital bed.

He was hospitalized here because of a stomach ailment.

Cleveland's opponent is Edwin W. Edwards, a Crowley attorney.

Cleveland said he would forego any stump campaigning but would tape radio appeals from his bedside.

NAMED

Lawrence E. Wigger of Bartlesville has been named chief automation engineer in Cities Service Oil Co.'s Production Engineering Department.

Wigger is an electrical engineering graduate of Kansas State College and joined the Cities Service training school in 1954.

PRESIDENT

RETIRES

W. C. Jordan, field drilling and production superintendent at Shreveport for Union Producing Co., wholly-owned production subsidiary of United Gas Corp., retired Jan. 1 after more than 40 years of service with the company, according to F. B. Winbery, manager of United's North Louisiana Area.

DELTA REVENUES

The calendar year 1963 was a record-breaker for Delta Air Lines. The nation's fifth largest domestic carrier was assured of topping $200,000,000 in gross revenues for the first time in a single calendar year.

In 1962 Delta's gross revenues totaled $198,000,000. Net income was $13,133,000, equal to $5.15 per share, adjusted to reflect the 50 per cent stock split recorded on March 4, 1963. Exact figures on 1963's operations will not be available until later in January.

SALES MANAGER

Philip R. Simmons has been named division sales manager of Louisiana for the Acme Brick Company.

The appointment is announced by Ed Stout, field sales manager for Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas. Simmons was formerly Acme's branch sales manager in the Lafayette office. He attended Louisiana Tech and Northwestern University, and holds a B.S. degree in marketing and management.

NEW CENTER

A new electric distribution center, located at the junction of Highway 15 and Prairie Road just east of Monroe, has been constructed and placed in service by Louisiana Power and Light Company.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in the West Monroe district which includes the rural area around Monroe, said the new facility was constructed and installed to provide for the expected future growth in the area as well as completing a high voltage transmission loop around the Twin Cities.

"This new electric distribution center is an important new link in our Company's transmission and distribution system in the metropolitan area of Ouachita," McConnell pointed out. "It allows us to bring power into the area from the north and south, connecting to major transmission lines on both sides of the city."

Business Pins Growth Hopes On '64 Tax Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — As 1964 arrived, business pinned its hopes for accelerated growth on an early income tax cut.

Optimistic predictions about the outlook for the new year were qualified with a big "if"—if Congress acts quickly on tax legislation.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges forecast that the gross national product — total value of all goods and services —would exceed $620 billion in 1964 if the administration's $11.1-billion tax cut bill clears Congress soon. That would be an increase in the GNP of at least $36 billion over 1963.

Hodges said that without a tax reduction the economy would grow more slowly and "the prospects for continuous expansion though all of 1964 and 1965 would be seiously impaired."

Favorable factors, he said, were that business generally has avoided excess inventories that could later lead to reduction in production, Christmas shopping reached a record level, 1964 model automobiles have been favorably received and financial markets reflected apparently strong investor confidence.

The National Planning Association, a privately supported organization of persons prominent in business, labor an education, was a bit more conservative in its forecast, putting the expected gain in the gross national product at $26 billion, to a total of $610 billion.

It, too, based its prediction on the belief there will be a tax cut.

"Should that assumption be wrong," it said, "we would have to assume a substantially lower increase in the gross national product."

A leading banker, David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, largest in New York, described the business outlook for 1964 as excellent.

He said a major influence in the favorable business forecast will be the tax reduction bill which President Johnson has pledged to push.

Senate leaders have promised Johnson to work for early passage with a provision that the reduction would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported that a majority of its members believe business in the first half of this year will be better than in the like period of 1963. Fifty-eight per cent looked for gains, 11 per cent expected a decline and 31 per cent thought it would be about the same.

For 1964 as a whole, 69 per cent thought it would be about the same.

For 1964 as a whole, 69 per cent said they believed it would be better than 1963. Only 4 per cent forecast a decline.

The second holiday week in a row cut into automobile and steel production but both industries expected a resurgence when the new year really gets under way.

Automakers turned out an estimated 124,500 passenger cars this week, down from the 131,165 assembled last week but ahead of the 114,020 built a year ago.

The industry wound up 1963 with the greatest production of cars and trucks since 1955. The year's output was estimated at 9.1 million units, just under the record figure of 9,188,000 in 1955.

Some work disputes in General Motors and Ford plants caused stoppages that prevented production reaching a record level. Studebaker Corp.'s abandonment of U.S. production also cut into the total.

Steel output dropped last week because of the Christmas holiday, slipping to 1,804,000 tons, off 9.9 per cent from the previous week. Output was expected to be about the same during the New Year's week.

Industry executives expected shipments should increase about 15 per cent in January. Demand for light products was reported improving and orders for heavy products were holding up better than expected.

Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., reported that domestic steel consumption set a record of 77.4 million tons in 1963 but rising imports were a problem.

Cotton Futures Remain Narrow

A good deal of the limited volume consisted of switching. Spot houses showed a little interest on both sides of the market, while commission house interest was confined chiefly to the more distant months.

The continued lack of activity reflects uncertainty regarding pending cotton legislation. Reports that the U.S. Agriculture Department has adopted a plan for voluntary reductions by growers, with payments in kind for government stocks as inducement, were considered bullish by some in the trade.

But these reports didn't materially affect prices. The plan is to be submitted to the departments' cotton advisory committee Monday.

AFTER SNOWS IN AREA

Drilling Activity Back To Normal

Drilling and other activity in the Monroe Oil & Gas District sprang back to normal levels last week, after marked slowdowns owing to last month's snow, ice and sub-freezing temperatures.

Ten completions were reported over the 15-parish area by District Manager Duncan S. Cook, along with a total of 30 rigs actively drilling or testing.

An incomplete report on new locations listed eight new sites staked in six of the 15 parishes.

Breakdown on the completions, according to Cook's weekly report, showed five of them in Union Parish's bustling Monroe Gas Field, two in Concordia Parish and one each in Ouachita, Rapides and Tensas Parishes.

Of the active rigs, seven were in LaSalle, six in Concordia, three each in Ouachita (two drilling and one testing in the Monroe and Cheniere Fields), and Tensas, two each in Caldwell, Madison, and Rapides, and one each in Avoyelles, Catahoula, Grant, Morehouse and Union.

The new locations reported included two each in LaSalle and Union Parishes and one each in Tensas, Ouachita, Concordia and Rapides.

Thirteen wells were abandoned duringe the week, leaving the district's total on inactive sites at 76.

These data were included in the report on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations:

Ill State Solon Slates Campaign In Hospital Bed

CROWLEY, La. (AP) — Veteran State Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley, seeking re-election in the Jan. 11 democratic primary, will conduct the remainder of his campaign from a hospital bed.

He was hospitalized here because of a stomach ailment.

Cleveland's opponent is Edwin W. Edwards, a Crowley attorney.

Cleveland said he would forego any stump campaigning but would tape radio appeals from his bedside.

Stocks Reach Record High In '64 Debut

NEW YORK (AP)—Strong reinvestment demand pushed the stock market to historic highs last week in its 1964 debut.

In the week just ended, cut to four days by the New Year holiday, three of the four sessions in the holiday week saw advancing prices. A slight loss was taken Monday.

Yearend tax-loss selling, profit taking and switching were so well taken care off that a clear-cut rally was mounted in the New Year's Eve session.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.73 to 76.68, topping the previous record of 767.21 made Dec. 18.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.6 to 287.2, exceeding the previous high of 286.8 made Dec.18.

Volume for the four days was 21,891,650 shares compared with 16,618,420 in the similar four-day preceding week.

The bond markets marked time in normal holiday season fashion. Price movements were at a minimum in both U.S. government and corporate bond lists. Activity remained light and there was no major new financing.

Two Wildcats Watched In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two important wildcat wells in Yazoo and Hancock counties are being closely watched for possible developments with no information being released by the operators.

American Petrofina Co. of Texas is reported to be near contract depth of 12,600 feet in its Yazoo County test, the Deason No. 1, sec. 25-12n-2e, about two miles west of the Pickens oil field. It is reported the venture has logged oil shows below 7,000 feet and that a drill stem test has been run in the Smackover lime zone below 11,300 feet.

Operators are releasing no information on the well and only authorized personnel is allowed on the location. The well is near an abandoned well that produced a small amount of oil from a sand at 7,728-37 feet before being abandoned as uncommercial. The Pickens field was discovered in the spring of 1940 and is productive from sands in the Tutaw formation at about 5,000 feet.

In Hancock County, Humble Oil and Refining Co. drilled below 15,750 feet in its deep wildcat, the Weston Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 6-9s-15w, three miles north of the Ansley field. The venture is scheduled to be drilled to 16,000 feet and had original contract depth of 14,500 feet. The decision to deepen was reached after electrical log had been run to contract depth. It is reported a number of drill stem tests have been run below 14,000 feet. Humble is drilling below 7,900 feet in its second Hancock County wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16w, located six miles south of the Weston well and less than three miles from the Mississippi Sound.

The confirmation well in the recently-found Bienville Forest field of Smith County is drilling below 9,600 feet. The test is the Austral Oil Company's No. 2, federal lease Sec. 14-4n-9e, an east offset to the discovery well. Production is from the Smackover lime formation at 14,141-151 feet.

Credo Oil Company's recent find in Amite County has been named the Pumpkin Patch Oil field and joins other colorful field names such as Possum Corner in Wilkinson County, Cowpen Point in Adams and Pistol Ridge in Forest County.

The official designation of the Amite County field brings the total discoveries in the state during the year to 18 new fields. Sixteen were oil fields and two gas fields.

California Co. has abandoned its Hinds County wildcat, the Hill No. 1, sec. 3-7n-3w, seven miles northwest of the Bolton field. The venture was drilled to 12,422 feet and several uncommercial oil shows.

Business Briefs

SERVICE AWARDS

J. O. Lolley and W. E. Andrews recently received service award pins for service with Ritchie Grocer Co. Lolley has been with the company for 35 years and Andrews, 30. Both men are of Monroe.

NAMED

Lawrence E. Wigger of Bartlesville has been named chief automation engineer in Cities Service Oil Co.'s Production Engineering Department.

Wigger is an electrical engineering graduate of Kansas State College and joined the Cities Service training school in 1954.

PRESIDENT

Jack L. Shafer, formerly marketing manager of the FMC Corporation, New York City, who joined Marbon in September, will replace Suiter as general sales manager.

RETIRES

W. C. Jordan, field drilling and production superintendent at Shreveport for Union Producing Co., wholly-owned production subsidiary of United Gas Corp., retired Jan. 1 after more than 40 years of service with the company, according to F. B. Winbery, manager of United's North Louisiana Area.

DELTA REVENUES

The calendar year 1963 was a record-breaker for Delta Air Lines. The nation's fifth largest domestic carrier was assured of topping $200,000,000 in gross revenues for the first time in a single calendar year.

In 1962 Delta's gross revenues totaled $198,000,000. Net income was $13,133,000, equal to $5.15 per share, adjusted to reflect the 50 per cent stock split recorded on March 4, 1963. Exact figures on 1963's operations will not be available until later in January.

SALES MANAGER

Philip R. Simmons has been named division sales manager of Louisiana for the Acme Brick Company.

The appointment is announced by Ed Stout, field sales manager for Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas. Simmons was formerly Acme's branch sales manager in the Lafayette office. He attended Louisiana Tech and Northwestern University, and holds a B.S. degree in marketing and management.

NEW CENTER

A new electric distribution center, located at the junction of Highway 15 and Prairie Road just east of Monroe, has been constructed and placed in service by Louisiana Power and Light Company.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in the West Monroe district which includes the rural area around Monroe, said the new facility was constructed and installed to provide for the expected future growth in the area as well as completing a high voltage transmission loop around the Twin Cities.

"This new electric distribution center is an important new link in our Company's transmission and distribution system in the metropolitan area of Ouachita," McConnell pointed out. "It allows us to bring power into the area from the north and south, connecting to major transmission lines on both sides of the city."

This is the Time of Year to Begin SAVING MONEY

Sale ads in the paper may make good reading matter for those who want to spend money. But those who want to save money, will be saving their money at Ouachita Federal where you are assured of big dividends.

There is no better place to save than Ouachita Federal!

SAVE MONEY FOR SAVINGS . . . NOT SPENDING

Profitable saving assures you of confidence in the future — of money for special goals like the down payment on a home, college for your youngsters, fun filled vacations, enjoyable retirement years. While you build funds for these future projects, you also assure yourself of security in the present . . . of ready cash for unforeseen emergencies.

YOU'RE INVITED TO SHARE PROFITS! That's why profit-minded savers always add to their accounts by the 20th of the month. All funds received by the 20th earn from the 1st, qualify for maximum returns. Take the first step toward confident living today. Open your account now, by January 20th for sure.

INVESTMENT RECEIVED BY 20TH EARNS FULL MONTH DIVIDEND.

4 1/2% CURRENT DIVIDEND RATE (Never Paid Less)

Peach Crop Good In '63, Pearce Says

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce said Saturday that Louisiana peach farmers marketed a record harvest in 1963.

Commercial peach orchards are concentrated in Lincoln, Union and Morehouse parishes. Last year they produced 33,600 bushels, compared to only 5,600 bushels in 1962, and 27,200 bushels in 1961.

Fred Anderson, state supervisor of fruits and vegetables, said that "Conditions were favorable for peaches all the way last year."

He said that, "Either freezes or dry weather at certain times do untold damage to peaches, but neither occurred last year to hurt the crop."

He added, "Trimming is important to peach trees, too, and possibly they would have produced even more last year if more trimming had been done."

According to Pearce, "Louisiana peaches are marketed mostly in Louisiana, but many of them go out to Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi."

Alliance To Meet

Plans for the year ahead will be considered at the regular monthly meeting 7:30 a.m. Wednesday of the Monroe Ministerial Alliance, it was announced Saturday by the Rev. Charles Vorkoper, president. The group will meet at Pettit's Cafe, 3814 DeSiard St.

Texas Publisher Succumbs After Stroke At 58

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Millard Lewis Cope, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times and a director of The Associated Press, died Saturday of a stroke suffered as he was preparing to leave for his office. He was 58.

He died in Shannon Hospital at 1 p.m. without regaining consciousness The stroke was diagnosed as a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Cope was widely known in Texas and national newspaper circles. Besides his Associated Press directorship, he was president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in 1957.

President John F. Kennedy last year named him to the national advisory council for the Peace Corps.

Cope was a top official of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group of Texas. He had been with the group 35 years.

In 1962, he was elected to a three-year term, his second, as a director of The Associated Press.

His long association with Houston Harte, owner of the Standard-Times, began in 1922 when Cope, then 17, walked into Harte's office and introduced himself as the Standard-Times' Sonora, Tex., correspondent, a part-time job.

Peach Crop Good In '63, Pearce Says

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce said Saturday that Louisiana peach farmers marketed a record harvest in 1963.

Commercial peach orchards are concentrated in Lincoln, Union and Morehouse parishes. Last year they produced 33,600 bushels, compared to only 5,600 bushels in 1962, and 27,200 bushels in 1961.

Fred Anderson, state supervisor of fruits and vegetables, said that "Conditions were favorable for peaches all the way last year."

He said that, "Either freezes or dry weather at certain times do untold damage to peaches, but neither occurred last year to hurt the crop."

He added, "Trimming is important to peach trees, too, and possibly they would have produced even more last year if more trimming had been done."

According to Pearce, "Louisiana peaches are marketed mostly in Louisiana, but many of them go out to Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi."

Alliance To Meet

Plans for the year ahead will be considered at the regular monthly meeting 7:30 a.m. Wednesday of the Monroe Ministerial Alliance, it was announced Saturday by the Rev. Charles Vorkoper, president. The group will meet at Pettit's Cafe, 3814 DeSiard St.

Texas Publisher Succumbs After Stroke At 58

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Millard Lewis Cope, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times and a director of The Associated Press, died Saturday of a stroke suffered as he was preparing to leave for his office. He was 58.

He died in Shannon Hospital at 1 p.m. without regaining consciousness The stroke was diagnosed as a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Cope was widely known in Texas and national newspaper circles. Besides his Associated Press directorship, he was president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in 1957.

President John F. Kennedy last year named him to the national advisory council for the Peace Corps.

Cope was a top official of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group of Texas. He had been with the group 35 years.

In 1962, he was elected to a three-year term, his second, as a director of The Associated Press.

His long association with Houston Harte, owner of the Standard-Times, began in 1922 when Cope, then 17, walked into Harte's office and introduced himself as the Standard-Times' Sonora, Tex., correspondent, a part-time job.

Peach Crop Good In '63, Pearce Says

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce said Saturday that Louisiana peach farmers marketed a record harvest in 1963.

Commercial peach orchards are concentrated in Lincoln, Union and Morehouse parishes. Last year they produced 33,600 bushels, compared to only 5,600 bushels in 1962, and 27,200 bushels in 1961.

Fred Anderson, state supervisor of fruits and vegetables, said that "Conditions were favorable for peaches all the way last year."

He said that, "Either freezes or dry weather at certain times do untold damage to peaches, but neither occurred last year to hurt the crop."

He added, "Trimming is important to peach trees, too, and possibly they would have produced even more last year if more trimming had been done."

According to Pearce, "Louisiana peaches are marketed mostly in Louisiana, but many of them go out to Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi."

Alliance To Meet

Plans for the year ahead will be considered at the regular monthly meeting 7:30 a.m. Wednesday of the Monroe Ministerial Alliance, it was announced Saturday by the Rev. Charles Vorkoper, president. The group will meet at Pettit's Cafe, 3814 DeSiard St.

Texas Publisher Succumbs After Stroke At 58

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Millard Lewis Cope, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times and a director of The Associated Press, died Saturday of a stroke suffered as he was preparing to leave for his office. He was 58.

He died in Shannon Hospital at 1 p.m. without regaining consciousness The stroke was diagnosed as a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Cope was widely known in Texas and national newspaper circles. Besides his Associated Press directorship, he was president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in 1957.

President John F. Kennedy last year named him to the national advisory council for the Peace Corps.

Cope was a top official of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group of Texas. He had been with the group 35 years.

In 1962, he was elected to a three-year term, his second, as a director of The Associated Press.

His long association with Houston Harte, owner of the Standard-Times, began in 1922 when Cope, then 17, walked into Harte's office and introduced himself as the Standard-Times' Sonora, Tex., correspondent, a part-time job.

MILTON CANIFF

MISS CANYON, I'M TOO TALL TO ENTER THE AIR FORCE ACADEMY..

I'M TOO SHORT

AND MY VISION CUT ME OUT...

BUT WE'RE IN AIR RESERVE OFFICER TRAINING AT COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY,

COLORADO STATE COLLEGE—AND THE UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

...AND WE'VE BEEN DELEGATED BY THE AIR R.O.T.C. AT MAUMEE U.

...AND IT WOULD MEAN SO MUCH IN RECRUITING AGAINST THE NAVY R.O.T.C. FOR AN AIR FORCE GIRL TO WIN!

THE NAVY R.O.T.C. IS PUTTING UP A CANDIDATE — ALSO A SERVICE CHICK!

LAWSY, FELLAS, I'M FLATTERED AS ALL GET-OUT THAT Y'ALL WENT TO SUCH A FUSS OVER ME...

...BUT B-E-E-WOC BOYD IS THE MOST POPULAR GAL AT MAUMEE...SHE'S AS GOOD AS ELECTED RIGHT NOW!

YES'M, THAT'S WHAT SHE SAID WHEN SHE HEARD THAT THE AIR FORCE AND NAVY WOULD NOMINATE CANDIDATES...

THE ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY AT MAUMEE GAVE US A DIRECT QUOTE FROM THIS MISS BOYD...

SHE SAID... "BUT, HOW NICE THAT TWO ARMED SERVICE DEPENDENTS WILL BE RUNNING...

...TOO BAD THAT THE TAXPAYERS WILL HAVE TO PAY FOR EITHER THEIR DRESSES

OR THE AMERICAN FLAGS IN WHICH THEY WILL PROBABLY WRAP THEMSELVES"

THAT DID IT! WHERE DO I SIGN?

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a baby who is still in his crib and loves to throw his toys out of the crib onto the floor . . . I would like to tell you our answer to "Who's going to get up, pick them off the floor and throw them back to him so he can throw them out again?"

We have found that we can tie a string to some part of any toy, and tie it to a rung on his crib. When baby throws the toy off the bed we don't have to stoop over.

We just reach for the string and flip it back into his bed. This saves lots of picking up of toys that our little angel has thrown on the floor just to demand attention! Mommy & Poppy

WOODEN SPOONS

DEAR HELOISE:

When I buy a new wooden ladle or spoon . . . first I scrub it well, scald it and let it get completely dry.

I then heat some cooking oil to medium hot degree, and either dip the spoon in or pour the hot oil over the spoon. After it cools, wipe it well. This method keeps different foods from soaking into the wood and prevents sticking.

Helen Law

CHEESE SWIRLS

DEAR HELOISE:

To save time when putting cheese spreads on crackers for a party treat . . . I place SOFTENED cheese spreads in a cake and cookie decorator. You can make each cracker look different by changing the tips.

Just line your crackers up on your platter and start to work with the decorator and that's all there is to it. Quicker and easier and makes them very professional looking.

Donald Sanford

LONG AND SHIRT OF IT

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband's long-sleeved sport shirts take a beating at the pockets where his pens clip on, also where his desk wears on the cuffs, so-o-o . . .

When spring comes, I cut off the sleeves at the proper place and allow two inches to turn up a hem.

I cut a new pocket from the lower part of the sleeve, and replace the worn one.

Or, add a "cuff" on the top of the pocket by ripping the pocket down about three inches and stitching a welt to it, then restitching the pocket. Presto, new shirts which usually wear two more seasons.

By using this method, mothers of growing boys could extend their shirts' usefulness L. R.

SMART LANDLORD

DEAR HELOISE:

I own some rental property and, how I will never know, people punch holes in the screens . . . I find that I can wet a piece of paper, and either with glue or by using tape, apply it to the inside of the screen to cover the hole.

I then go on the outside of the house and apply some colorless fingernail polish and, using three to four coats (allowing it to dry for a few minutes between coats) can build up a masking residue that will keep out mosquitoes and flies.

After this film has completely dried, I then walk back to the inside of the house and pull off the tape. This leaves me with a thin plastic sheet to cover the holes.

Mr. R. B. Boyd

BOTTLE OF INK, TY

DEAR HELOISE:

When the stopper gets stuck in a cut-glass bottle or decanter, just pour a few drops of glycerine around the neck of the bottle. Let this set a few days.

The glycerine will work itself carefully down into the joints, and the stopper will come out with a slight twist! E. J. Allan

ROSES ARE RED

DEAR HELOISE:

Rosebud vases are often so tall and narrow that when we put in four or five roses the vase will tip over . . . I fill the bottom of the vase with sand. It weights the vase down and keeps it from toppling over.

This sand need not be discarded each time new roses are put in. It can be washed by holding the vase under the water faucet and allowing cold water to tumble the sand, thus cleaning it thoroughly.

Mrs. A. Halm

TALE OF THREE DOGS

DEAR HELOISE:

You may not be a dog lover, but many of my friends are. I bathe my three dogs in the bathtub every week end.

I have found that if I place a plain steel wool pad over the outlet where the water goes down it keeps the hair from stopping up the drain.

The dog's hair will stick to the steel wool and "proud owner" just removes the pad of steel wool from the bathtub to keep his drain from stopping up!

Owner of three dogs

CHARCOAL HINT

DEAR HELOISE:

Keep a pair of old rubber gloves in your bag of charcoal.

These can be used to keep the hands clean when making outdoor fires. When in a hurry saves messy hand-washing and soiled towels!

Katherine Patterson

APRON LINERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I pin a piece of plastic on the underneath side of my cotton aprons to keep from getting wet clear through. It prevents wet dresses . . . and this always seems to happen. Mrs. H.

WOMEN'S PAGE

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know that a newspaper (with one edge slightly dampened and laid on your kitchen floor) makes an excellent dustpan?

The wet edges will stick to the floor and the dust will sweep right into the center of the newspaper, which can then be rolled up and discarded. Saves washing a dusty dustpan, too. H.H.T.

POT SCRUBBER

DEAR HELOISE:

The plastic net bags that some fruit and vegetables come in make wonderful dish scrubbers! Try it for those pots and pans. E. R.

TO SOFTEN SUGAR

DEAR HELOISE:

When I have a bag of sugar that is hard as a rock, I put it in my refrigerator for a few days. The moisture in the refrigerator will soften the sugar again. I find this always works.

F. Garvin

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

TO SOFTEN SUGAR

DEAR HELOISE:

When I have a bag of sugar that is hard as a rock, I put it in my refrigerator for a few days. The moisture in the refrigerator will soften the sugar again. I find this always works.

Little Orphan Annie

HYPNOTIZED, ANNIE TOLD DETAILS OF HER LIFE FOR THE PAST YEARS! LILY HU IMMEDIATELY WIRED HAIRY WOLF, WHO ARRIVED WITHIN HOURS!

UNDER HYPNOSIS YOU SAW HOW FULLY SHE RECALLS THE PAST!

YES! SHE RECALLS IT AS IT APPEARED TO HER!

"GREATNESS IS A SPIRITUAL CONDITION WORTHY TO EXCITE LOVE, INTEREST AND ADMIRATION; AND THE OUTWARD PROOF OF POSSESSING GREATNESS IS, THAT WE EXCITE LOVE, INTEREST AND ADMIRATION."
- MATTHEW ARNOLD -

YOU MEAN OLIVER WARBUCKS WAS NOT LOST, WHEN THE VOLCANO DESTROYED THAT ISLAND?

WHY, ONLY LAST WEEK, HE AND I PERSONALLY SIGNED A BILLION DOLLAR MINERAL CONTRACT!

THAT'S VERY NICE, HAIRY, BUT HOW CAN THAT HELP ANNIE? EXCEPT UNDER HYPNOSIS SHE CAN'T EVEN REMEMBER HER "DADDY" WARBUCKS!

I DON'T KNOW, LILY; ...NOT YET!

BUT I DO KNOW THAT WARBUCKS DID NOT WIN HIS POWER AND VAST WEALTH BY BEING A SIMPLETON!

OH, HE MUST BE VERY CLEVER!

... AND RUTHLESS, TO SURVIVE SO LONG IN THE WORLD-WIDE BUSINESS JUNGLE! AND THE FAITH AND TRUST AND LOVE HE INSPIRED IN ANNIE PROVES HE'S A PRETTY DECENT GUY!

BUT I STILL DON'T SEE.....

...HOW HE CAN HELP HER NOW?

NEITHER DO I, AT THIS MOMENT! BUT ON ANY TRULY IMPORTANT MATTER I'VE FOUND IT'S WELL TO CALL ON THE VERY BEST MINDS THAT THERE ARE!

WILL HE SUGGEST BRAIN SURGERY?

I DON'T THINK WARBUCKS IS THE KIND TO BE CARRIED AWAY BY TV PROGRAMS! BUT IF SURGERY IS INDICATED HE'LL GET THE VERY BEST TALENT ON EARTH!

SO, WHAT DO WE DO, HAIRY?

I KNOW WARBUCKS PLANS TO LEAVE TOMORROW FOR SINGAPORE! MIND IF I USE YOUR PHONE?

HELP YOURSELF!

TEN MINUTES LATER:

WHAT? BILLIONAIRE OLIVER WARBUCKS COMING HERE TO SEE ANNIE?

HE'LL BE HERE IN THE MORNING!

REALLY, IT'S REMARKABLE. SUCH A GREAT MAN, TO DROP EVERYTHING, JUST FOR AN ORPHAN CHILD!

I GUESS, LILY, REALLY GREAT MEN ARE GREAT ALL THE WAY THROUGH. NOT JUST SKIN DEEP!

GEE! A REAL INDIAN! BET YOU COULD TELL SOME SWELL, TRUE INDIAN STORIES!

WELL, HERE'S ONE YOU MAY LIKE.....

"GREAT ALL THE WAY THROUGH; NOT JUST SKIN DEEP," HE SAID! WELL, WHO COULD LIVE THAT BETTER THAN HE DOES?

HATLO'S HISTORY

WHY IS HANNIBAL TAKING ELEPHANTS ACROSS THE ALPS?

IF YOUR ELEPHANTS LIKED TO SKI, WHERE WOULD YOU TAKE 'EM?

JESTES IS A CARD ALL RIGHT.. HEY, JESTY... WHY DID THE ELEPHANT LEAVE THE CIRCUS TO COME WITH HANNIBAL? GIVE UP? HE GOT TIRED WORKING FOR PEANUTS!!

OLD STUFF.. HERE'S ONE.. KNOCK-KNOCK...

ASK FIGBY ANYTHING AND HE KNOWS FROM NOTHING...

WHAT'S TODAYS DATE?

I DON'T KNOW!

WHERE'S OUR NEW BRANCH OFFICE?

I DON'T KNOW!

BUT ASK ANYONE ELSE A QUESTION.. THAT HE'LL ANSWER..

DID THE STATEMENT GO OUT?

NO!! IT WAS LYING AROUND ALL MORNING! I TOLD THEM THEY OUGHT TO GET HOT!!
